BONNER TO TRY CARIBOO

Speare Seat For Byelection

BULLETIN

Provincial Secretary W. D. Black announced at press time that a byelection will be held in Cariboo riding Nov. 28. He confirmed that W. C. Speare (SC—Cariboo) is resigning to make way for an election bid by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

By JOHN MIKA

Attorney-General Robert Bonner will take his second crack at joining the 28th British Columbia Legislature in a byelection in Cariboo, the Times learned today.

A well-attended cabinet meeting that convened this morning was to set a date.

Although Premier Bennett was still in Ottawa, the cabinet session was chaired by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, minister responsible for the Elections Act.

William Speare, 51-year-old hospital administration consultant, is the backbencher who has stepped down to give Mr. Bonner his chance to overcome last month's general election defeat in Vancouver-Point Grey.

GOOD MAJORITY

Mr. Speare, who lives permanently at 6560 Rey Street in Central Saanich, has held the Cariboo seat since 1957. He won it by a majority of 1,192 in a byelection caused by the death of Ralph Chetwynd, one of the key cabinet ministers in Premier Bennett's early administrations.

The Socreds have held the seat comfortably since they came to power in 1952. Mr. Chetwynd won it with a vote of 3,01[illegible] and became the railways, trade and industry minister. He extended the Pacific Great Eastern Railway which is the lifeline of the Cariboo ranching and logging country.

However, despite addition of some pro-Socred areas to the riding through redistribution, Mr. Speare had by far the toughest battle of his political career last summer.

This was largely a result of underground issues involving personal matters and his long residence outside of the riding.

His support has risen undramatically through 2,294, 3,091, 3,015 and 3,830 votes in the election campaigns he has fought over the years. But the most consistent runner-up, the CCF-NDP, jumped from 1,482 votes in 1963 to 2,539 votes this year when it was represented by Rev. Hartley D. Dent.

Mr. Speare was seen visiting the offices of the premier, Speaker and provincial secretary a few days after last

AUSSIES TO GIVE AID 'AS LONG AS NEEDED'

CANBERRA (AP)—Australia will continue to give South Viet Nam military and non-military aid as "firmly and as long as may be necessary," Prime Minister Harold Holt said today in reporting to the House of Representatives on the Manila conference. He said no efforts will be spared in the search for peace by South Viet Nam's allies, but that peace will have to be just and enduring.

China Claims Missile With Nuclear Warhead

New Crisis for Erhard As 4 Ministers Resign

BONN (Reuters) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government coalition broke apart today when the minority Free Democrats' four cabinet ministers resigned over a budgetary dispute, the party announced.

The coalition, an increasingly uneasy one, broke up a year after its formation, with Erhard's triumph in the 1965 general elections.

Erhard, under fire within his own Christian Democratic party for alleged weakness and indecisiveness, could theoretically carry on ruling with a minority government, since the West German constitution is designed to buttress the position of the party in power.

But his position would be one of extreme difficulty, political observers said.

There was no immediate statement from the Christian Democratic party or the chancellery on the intentions of the 69-year-old chancellor, who recently reaffirmed his intention to continue in the office he has held since he succeeded Konrad Adenauer.

The dispute with the Free Democrats was over ways of filling an estimated 4,000,000,000 marks ($1,080,000,000) deficit in next year's budget.

The Free Democrats want the gap filled by reducing subsidies and abolishing tax concessions, while the chancellor's Christian Democrats said they did not exclude tax increases if this was the only way to cover the deficit.

If Erhard does not try to rule with a minority Christian Democrat government — his party does not have an absolute majority in the Bundestag (lower house)—the main alternatives are a "grand coalition" with the opposition Social Democrats led by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt or a Social Democrat-Free Democrat coalition.

THREATENS TO RESIGN

Erhard has repeatedly said he would resign rather than head a grand coalition, which would give the Social Democrats their first taste of power after being constantly in opposition since the West German Partiament was created in 1949.

The four Free Democratic ministers in Erhard's coalition are Vice - Chancellor and Party Leader Erich Mende, who is also all - German affairs minister, Finance Minister Rolf Dahlgruen, Economic Co-operations Minister Walter Scheel and Housing Minister Ewald Bucher.

A communique after a meeting said the party's parliamentary wing had reached the conviction that under the present political circumstances a budgetary decision which would serve long-term stability could not be expected.

"For this reason the ministers belonging to the Free Democratic party have announced their resignation."

Johnsons Relax At Thai Resort

BANGKOK (Reuters) — President Johnson flew to a seaside resort in Thailand today for a day's rest after the Manila summit talks and his whirlwind visit to U.S. troops in South Viet Nam.

Johnson, the first U.S. president to visit Thailand, and his wife flew from Manila where they spent the night as guests of President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines.

They quickly left by helicopter for the village of Bang Saen, where they will relax at Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn's waterfront guest house. Friday they fly to Bangkok for an official visit.

The president and Mrs. Johnson left their Manila hotel in the company of President Marcos and Mrs. Marcos and drove through cheering, flag - waving crowds along the main Roxas Avenue toward the Manila International Airport.

During his visit to Cam Ranh Bay, in South Viet Nam, Wednesday the president talked to the area and corps commanders who were assembled there for a regularly scheduled meeting with the over-all commander, Gen. William Westmoreland.

Johnson told his staff aboard the plane today that he talked to each officer about the situation in his own corps area and that he believed a two-minute report in person was more informative than a 3,000 - word cable.

Friday the president and Mrs. Johnson will be the guests of King Bhumibol Adulyadej and Queen Sirikit.

The president and Mrs. Johnson are due to remain in Bangkok until they leave Sunday for Kuala Lumpur, capital of Malaysia.

Thai defence forces have been put on full alert during President Johnson's stay and police are keeping a strict security watch on leftist elements.

TO PAY PROVINCES

Ottawa Needs $500 Million In New Taxes

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians face higher taxes to pay for more than $500,000,000 in increased federal contributions to education, equalization payments to provinces and its proposed program of a guaranteed $105-a-month income to the aged.

The education and equalization payments are being arranged at this week's federal-provincial conference on education and fiscal matters. The guaranteed income program, scheduled to go before Parliament soon, was announced last summer.

When Health Minister MacEachen announced the guaranteed income program for the aged last summer he estimated its cost would be above $200,000,000 a year.

Finance Minister Sharp indicated later that this would have to be met from increased taxes.

The increased contributions to education announced by Prime Minister Pearson before the federal - provincial conference opened are estimated to amount to about $137,400,000 for 1967-68.

PEOPLE MUST PAY

Mr. Pearson said in his statement:

"I feel bound to point out that the cost of this support for higher education must be carried by the taxpayers of Canada in one way or another—including the replacement of the revenue transferred."

At a press conference Wednesday Mr. Sharp, asked how the tax transfers to the provinces for higher education would be accounted for, said:

"I think we'll have to raise taxes for this purpose."

Added to these is a new equalization formula, outlined in September and confirmed at the conference Wednesday, that will cost the federal treasury about $138,000,000 in a year in increased payments to the provinces.

In other developments Wednesday the federal government amended its plans about phasing-out grants to technical and vocational training at the secondary school level and decided to limit a new tax - sharing agreement to two years.

Both steps helped to pacify provincial premiers.

MONEY AVAILABLE

Mr. Pearson told the premiers in the morning that during the phasing-out of capital grants in this field there will be about $548,000,000 in federal money available for building.

Instead of phasing out the program over six years, a spending limit of $800 per capita will be introduced.

The extra money will permit provinces which had used up their quotas of $480 per capita to undertake more construction

The second change was announced by Mr. Sharp who

Release Secret Reports

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp and the provincial premiers agreed today to make public a series of secret projections of federal and provincial revenues and expenditures.

Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan said the decision was made during the morning's closed meeting of the joint tax committee, part of proceedings at the federal-provincial fiscal conference.

A federal official said the figures would likely be released Friday, perhaps at the end of the full conference.

Several premiers have said that the projections support their claims against Ottawa for a larger share of taxes.

The provinces had demanded publication of the secret projections.

Premiers Robarts of Ontario and Roblin of Manitoba took the lead as a meeting of the federal - provincial tax structure committee reconvened with federal Finance Minister Sharp in the chair.

Projections of revenue soures and expenditure needs of both levels of government have been formulated by government officials during the last two years to assist negotiation of future five-year tax - sharing agreements.

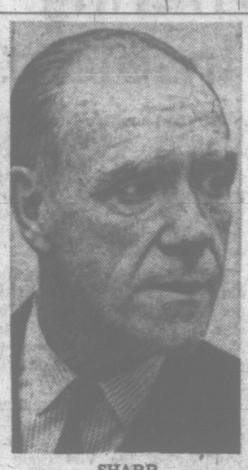

BOUND BY OATHS

An oath of secrecy binds all members of the high-level committee from releasing the estimates.

But Premier Robarts has disclosed during the current federal-provincial fiscal conference that the estimates show a surplus position for the federal government budget by 1971-72 and a deepening deficit for provincial and municipal governments.

Other premiers have said in a general way that the figures support their claims for a transfer of more tax resources away from Ottawa to the provinces.

Before today's meeting, Premiers Johnson of Quebec, Thatcher of Saskatchewan and Manning of Alberta all said they would support a call for release of the projections. Mr. Roblin said he would specifically ask for their publication.

WIRE BRIEFS

Mistaken Identity

SAIGON (AP)—A U.S. patrol opened fire on a group of South Vietnamese civilians they mistook for Vier Cong today and killed or wounded 15, including women and children.

'Interim Leader'

OTTAWA (CP) — Manpower Minister Marchand was elected "interim leader" of the caucus of Quebec Liberal MPs and senators at a closed meeting Wednesday. Pit Lessard, caucus chairman and MP for Montreal St. Henri, said the election was unanimous and was made on the recommendation of the ailing Quebec leader, Privy Council President Favreau.

Threaten to Resign

SAIGON (Reuters) — Ten members of South Viet Nam's advisory people-army council today told Premier Nguyen Cao Ky they would resign unless he quickly resolved a government dispute which has led to the resignation of five ministers.

Lawyer Convicted

WINNIPEG (CP)—An assize court jury today convicted Winnipeg lawyer Harry Dennis Backlin on a charge of possession of stolen gold. Backlin, 37, had pleaded not guilty to the charge which involved $350,000 worth of gold bullion taken in a robbery at Winnipeg International Airport March 1.

Plant Strike Ends

QUEBEC (CP) — An agreement ending the violence-marred three-months-old strike at the Lachute, Que., Dominion Ayers Ltd. wood processing plant was reached today.

Right On Target Say Reds

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China announced today that it successfully launched a guided missile carrying a nuclear warhead that exploded exactly on target.

It was the first indication that China had developed a nuclear device small enough to be delivered by missiles or rockets sophisticated enough to put them on target.

The explosion was the fourth touched off by the Chinese. Their first nuclear test blast was Oct. 16, 1964.

A New China News Agency broadcast monitored here said:

"The missile flew normally and the nuclear warhead accurately hit the target at the appointed distance, effecting a nuclear explosion."

DETAILS LACKING

It gave no details of the size of the missile, its range or the size of the explosion. It also gave no indication of where the test was conducted.

While China has exploded nuclear devices on at least three occasions earlier, this marked the first time any had been delivered by missile and signalled a significant achievement in weapons technology. The three previous bombs were believed exploded at a site deep in the interior of China.

The announcement came as President Johnson was in Bang Saen, Thailand, on his current Asian tour which is aimed at consolidating support for the U.S. policy in Viet Nam and containing Communist China.

"This successful test marks the fact that China's science, technology and defence capabilities are advancing at even greater speed under the brilliant illumination of Mao Tse-tung," the Peking broadcast said.

DEFENCE STRENGTHENED

"It is another new important achievement scored by the Chinese people in further strengthening their national defence and safeguarding the security of their country and the peace of the world."

Although the Chinese announcement contained few technical details, it was loaded with propaganda. It said development of Chinese nuclear weapons was entirely for defence, adding that possession of missiles and nuclear warheads

'NEVER COALITION; FIGHT TO END:' KY

SAIGON (UPI)—Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky heatedly rejected either negotiations or a coalition government with Comunists Wedneday.

"No! Never with Communists," he said at an airport press conference in Saigon. "We will fight to the end."

TORONTO LAWYER OPPOSES LEADERSHIP VOTE

Former Tory MP Runs Against Camp

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA — E. Arthur Maloney, 57-year-old former member of Parliament, announced today he would contest the Conservative presidency at the next party convention Nov. 13-16.

Maloney told a press conference here he would oppose Dalton Camp — the current president who has been campaigning for a "review" of John Diefenbaker's leadership of the party.

Maloney, a prominent Toronto lawyer, said he felt the national leader should not have to subject himself to periodic reviews of his stewardship "on the whim of the moment."

Maloney was elected to the Commons in the 1957 general election and re-elected in 1958. He ran but did not win his Parkdale (Toronto) seat in the 1962 election.

The Camp-Maloney battle is almost certain to revolve around the leadership question.

Camp has been stumping the country seeking support for his belief that Diefenbaker's leadership should be subjected to a test.

"The party is not the embodiment of the leader, but rather the other way round," Camp has told his audiences. "The leader is transient, only the party is permanent."

MALONEY
. . . convention fight

Maloney, on the other hand, feels "the leader should not be subjected to a day after day . . . or month after month review."

"Any Tory who is afraid to stand up and be counted shouldn't attend the national convention," Maloney told reporters.

Diefenbaker, who has put down several palace revolts during his leadership, faces probably his sternest test in the Camp-Maloney battle.

Observers here feel Diefenbaker's position will necessarily become weakened if Camp is re-elected.

Maloney felt the possibility of a leadership review at the national convention was "completely out of the question."

Asked whether he thought Diefenbaker should resign if a majority of Conservatives felt he should go, Maloney said "That is a question we'll have

AUSSIE BROTHERS ASK FOR LBJ FORGIVENESS

MELBOURNE (UPI)—Two Australian brothers who admitted throwing red and green paint on President Johnson's car during his visit here last Friday have written him a letter of apology and asked his forgiveness, their lawyer said today.

Frank Galbally, the attorney representing 21-year-old John Langley, 21, and his 18-year-old brother David, told a police magistrate they sent the letter Monday.

Galbally said the brothers "felt America shouldn't be taking part in the Viet Nam war and opposed conscription of Australian national servicemen."

Manila Offering 'Cynical, Insolent'

TOKYO (CP) — North Viet Nam today described the Manila summit conference as a war council and stopped just short of officially rejecting the latest allied peace bid to end the Viet Nam war.

"The 'peaceful solution' proposed by the United States at the Manila conference," said Nhan Dan, organ of the North Vietnamese Communist party, "is still more cynical and insolent than the conditions which the United States had earlier put to the Vietnamese people and which had been categorically rejected by the latter."

The official Hanoi newspaper did not refer specifically to the allied offer to withdraw all foreign troops six months after North Viet Nam withdraws its forces and aid from South Viet Nam.

But Peking's New China news agency called it part of a U.S. "peace talks plot" and a representative of the Viet Cong in Cairo said the Viet Cong "will never accept peace unless it is on our own terms."

Canada-Born Priest Slain In Africa

MASERU, Lesotho (Reuters) — A gang of six Negroes killed a 60-year-old Canadian Roman Catholic priest to steal 141 rand ($195) from his mission in this southern Africa country, a court was told Tuesday.

Four appeared at a preliminary hearing charged with the murder of Rev. Almazal Menard, a French-speaking Canadian, July 1.

An accomplice who gave evidence for the prosecution said he and five others went to St. Peter's Mission at Tsoeneng, 30 miles south of Maseru, to steal money on the suggestion of one of the accused who worked there.

He told the court they carried clubs, axes, a sword and a knife.

They broke in through a window and went to the bedroom where the priest was sleeping. They covered his head with a cloth, struck him with their weapons and pulled him into the study, where he died.

Lethoso is the former territory of Basutoland which recently gained independence from Britain.

In Montreal, a spokesman for the father's order, les Missionaires Oblat de Marie Immaculee, said Father Menard was born in Cedars, Que., just west of Montreal. He was ordained in 1934 and left for Basutoland in 1935, where he remained until his death.

More Troops For Viet War

SAIGON (Reuters) — United States forces in South Viet Nam reached a strength of 336,000 men last week, an increase of 5,000 compared with the previous week, U.S. military headquarters announced today.

The figure does not include the 40,000 to 70,000 sailors serving with the U.S. 7th Fleet off Viet Nam.

Meanwhile, American estimates of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces in the country dropped by 5,000 during the period to 279,000.

FIRST CALL with Bonners

. . . BONNER

month's call by Premier Bennett for some backbencher to open a seat for Mr. Bonner to contest.

And he was seen leaving the same three offices — all necessary stops towards any byelection decision — again last Friday before Mr. Bennett and Mr. Bonner went to this week's Ottawa conference.

NOT AVAILABLE

A call to his home brought the response that he was "somewhere in Vancouver" for the rest of this week and not available for an interview.

Mr. Speare was one of the Socred's most effective backbenchers but exhibited some independent traits which outsiders blamed for Premier Bennett repeatedly passing him over when appointing ministers.

However, he was popular with the caucus and last year was made deputy-speaker, which gave him an additional $2,500 sessional allowance on top of his $8,000 remuneration as an MLA.

Mr. Speare is believed able to take the financial loss of resigning his seat more easily than most backbenchers because, besides his comfortable consulting business income, he receives a lifetime disability pension. He lost an arm during the war when he was a captain in the Canadian Armored Corps.

APPOINTMENT

But there was immediate speculation that he might receive a government appointment next year to soften the economic cost of resigning his seat — possibly replacing Col. Donald McGuggan as chairman of the Liquor Control Board. The administrator's post in the 240-bed mental health hospital the government is building on Lee Avenue here has also been mentioned.

'NATURAL' ARENA

There are a number of facets to the choice which point to Cariboo as a "natural" battleground for the Socreds.

The two men — Speare and Bonner have some striking characteristics in common with the late Ralph Chetwynd.

They are considered competent and unassuming, favored with good (even dashing) looks.

They are well-spoken and highly educated with American links (schools in the cases of Speare and Chetwynd, trade predilections in Mr. Bonners' case) who have served and been wounded as front-line officers in Canada's armies.

Mr. Bonner and Mr. Chetwynd claimed membership in the Anglican Church while Mr. Speare is United Church.

All this can't but help Mr. Bonner in the Cariboo country which sent an above-average number of men overseas and has a significant number of rugged American immigrants among its ranchers — especially in a campaign straddling Remembrance Day.

Finally, Mr. Speare still was re-elected only a month ago as a non-resident representative and this should dispose of the fears that "carpetbagger" tag would hurt Mr. Bonner much.

stated that the federal government is willing to sign a two-year tax-sharing agreement instead of the five-year agreement Ottawa had proposed.

He agreed with several premiers that two-year contracts would allow both levels of government to receive, study and perhaps implement in 1969 recommendations of the Carter royal commission on taxation.

Pressure for a short-term agreement was partly the result of a federal-provincial tax structure committee set up two years ago which some premiers say has found that by the end of the decade the federal government will find itself in a surplus financial position.

At the same time the provinces would still be in a deficit position, it was argued.

KEEPS FINDINGS SECRET

Mr. Sharp refused Wednesday to make public the findings of the committee.

To pay for increased education costs, Ottawa is to turn over an additional four points of personal income tax and one point of corporation taxes.

The changes in the plans for technical and vocational grants at the secondary school level brought varying comments from premiers.

New Brunswick's Louis Robichaud said he was "very, very happy" while W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said his province will get nothing.

In other developments Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson agreed to the federal decision to take over all financing of adult retraining programs, providing there is a two-year introductory period.

Earlier, Mr. Johnson had charged that the federal proposals, enunciated by Mr. Pearson and Manpower Minister Marchand, were an attempt to enter the provincial education field through the back door.

Mr. Marchand argued Tuesday at the conference that adult retraining was different from education in that the federal government has responsibility for employment and economic development.

"is a great encouragement to the Vietnamese people."

The United States and the Soviet Union "are now stepping up their collaboration and contriving to strike a bargain on the question of so-called prevention of nuclear proliferation so as to maintain the nuclear monopoly," the broadcast said.

"China's purpose in developing nulear weapons is to oppose the nuclear monopoly and nuclear blackmail by the United States with the Soviet Union acting in collusion."

Simultaneously with the announcement, Peking swore it would use its new power sparingly. It declared:

"We solemnly declare once again that at no time and in no circumstances will China be the first to use nuclear weapons.

"As in the past, the Chinese people and government will continue to carry on an unswerving struggle, together with all the other peace-loving people and countries of the world, for the noble aim of completely prohibiting and thoroughly destroying the nuclear weapons."

DAY OF MOURNING IN BRITAIN

10,000 at Rites for Aberfan Victims

ABERFAN, Wales (CP) — Eighty-one child victims of the Aberfan disaster were buried in a mass funeral today at a bleak mountainside cemetery, half a mile from the spot where their school was crushed in a slag-heap avalanche last Friday.

Ten thousand people gathered in the burial ground and on the steep green hillside around, singing sombre Welsh hymns under overcast skies and in bitter cold.

Weeping parents and relatives stood facing a trench grave 280 feet long, in which the tiny coffins were laid side by side.

All morning, hearses carried the coffins up a steep winding road to the hillside cemetery.

SERVICE WAS SHORT

A service of only 13 minutes was conducted by the Anglican Bishop of Llandaff, Rt. Rev. Glyn Simon; the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Cardiff, Most Rev. John Murphy, and a Congregational minister, Rev. Stanley Lloyd, who has lived in Aberfan for 22 years.

Beyond the grave, wreaths had been formed in a giant cross, 130 feet by 40 feet.

One wreath came from "the City of San Remo."

Another was from Royal Marines serving in Aden.

Others came from France and New Zealand.

Thousands of other bouquets were placed gently around the two trenches.

One white coffin had a silver panel engraved simply:

"Julie Price, aged eight years."

All shops, pubs and restaurants were closed for the day in the nearby town of Merthyr. In Aberfan itself, curtains were drawn in every window of the village—a traditional Welsh gesture of mourning.

MINERS MOURN

Thousands of miners stayed away from work. Others throughout north Wales stopped work in the afternoon as a mark of respect.

Down in the valley below Aberfan, the Merthyr Vale coal mines remained silent. The mine, which provided the fatal slag heap, has not worked since the disaster last Friday with a feared 200 dead.

The shivering crowds in and around the churchyard first sang the hymn "Loving Shepherd of the Sheep."

After prayers, the huge gathering then sang the hymn "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" in both English and Welsh.

As the service took place, clearing work stopped for the first time since Friday on the mass of black sludge that crushed the school and 17 houses.

After the singing ended, the local minister, Mr. Lloyd, uttered the last sombre words: "Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust."

Parents took one last look into the deep trench, then turned and filed silently down the hill.

Throughout Britain, flags flew at half staff in national mourning.

Aberfan was cordoned off for the funeral and all traffic stopped.

Funerals of other victims have been arranged privately.

The Queen will visit the disaster scene Saturday and later meet survivors in a hospital at Pontypridd.

Four of the 145 known dead still are unidentified.

A disaster relief fund has topped £71,000 ($213,000), with donations from the Queen and other members of the Royal Family heading the list.

Post offices are swamped with thousands of toys for surviving children, sent in answer to an appeal by Princess Margaret, and thousands of wreaths from all over Britain have arrived in Aberfan.

Russians to Travel

PARIS (Reuters) — Sources close to the French government said today Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin will make an official visit to France in the first half of December and that the Soviet Communist party chief, Leonid Brezhnev, and President Nikolai Podgorny will come here next April.

MEN PLAN BOYCOTT OF GAS

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) —A Phoenix man said today he is forming a group to be known as Husbands for Lower Price.

Gene Cosmano, 43, said the first target of the group is to be gasoline prices. Cosmano said he and friends decided to take action when they heard higher gasoline prices were forecast.

Cosmano said one objective will be to eliminate prizes and gimmicks he said are paid for by the motorists. He said regardless of the price of gasoline, station owners never get more than 4½-cents-a-gallon margin.

Yule Food Prices Watched

OTTAWA (CP)—The parliamentary committee on consumer prices will begin immediately to check current prices of popular Christmas foods, hoping to ward off any seasonal gouging.

Warren Allmand (L—Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace) suggested at today's committee meeting that comparative shoppers be hired by the committee to check prices now and in the weeks ahead.

Ron Basford (L—Vancouver Burrard), co-chairman, said the idea is a good one and will be adopted.

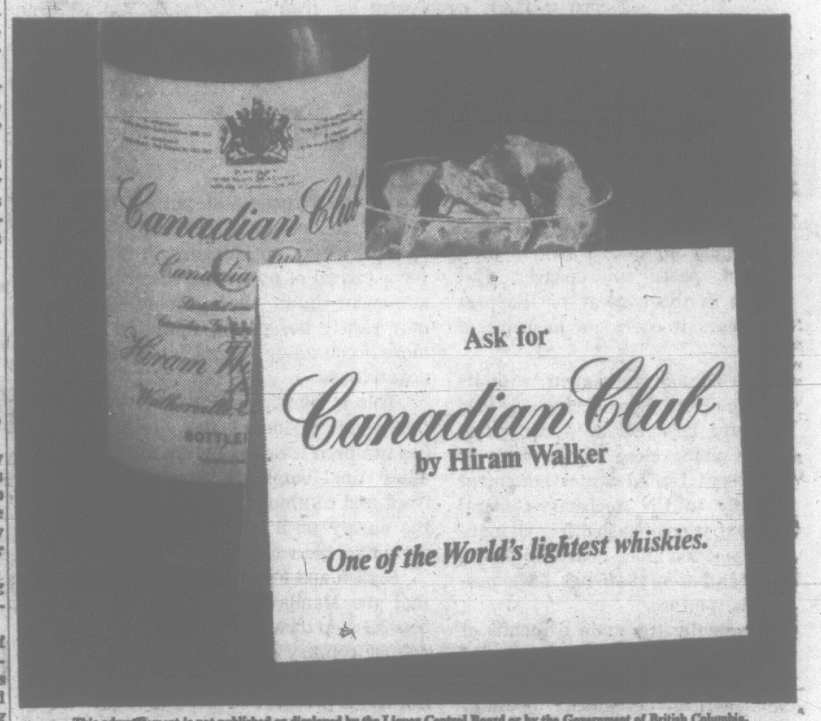

Mr. Allmand said Christmas is less than two months away and the committee's employees checking prices in supermarkets should determine the prices of turkeys, cranberries and other Christmas foods now and at Christmas time "to see who is taking advantage of the Christmas rush."

The committee should make sure consumers are not exploited during the holiday season, he added.

Mr. Basford said a list of popular Christmas foods would be prepared and shoppers asked to watch those prices during the next two months. An initial report will be sought in the next few days.

Liberal Senator Chesley W. Carter of Newfoundland asked whether the Consumers' Association of Canada might help in the work.

Mr. Basford said the association will appear before the committee Dec. 5 to testify, but the committee's staff can work with the association in the meantime.

FORCED BY OIL COMPANIES

Gas Stations Pay For Promotion Games

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—A spokesman for gasoline station operators testified Wednesday some dealers pay $1,000 or more to participate in major oil company promotions.

Cash Hawley, executive director of the Michigan Retail Gasoline Dealers' Association, told a U.S. House of Representatives subcommittee investigating trading stamps and other promotional devices:

"If the oil companies paid for promotions out of their own pockets, our members might approve of them. As it is, some dealers pay $1,000 and up in added costs just in order to participate in the promotions."

Charles Shipley, owner of a Detroit service station, said most stations in Michigan are owned by oil companies.

"Lessees are practically forced to operate the games because their contracts have to be renewed annually and failure to comply to the company games would result in higher rent," he said.

Shipley testified he is paying $1,100 for one major oil company promotion.

David Macafee, president of Game Promotions Inc. of Birmingham, said the game costs are paid for by the increased volume of sales at participating stores or dealers.

Probe Completed

OTTAWA (CP)—Group Capt. J. H. Hollies has completed an investigation into allegations that the Canadian Army was involved in the execution of two German sailors in The Netherlands six days after VE-Day in Europe in May, 1945. A defence department spokesman said today Group Capt. Hollies left for The Hague Sunday night and returned here Tuesday night.

Women Adopt Fancy Names In Supermarket Boycott

NEW YORK (AP)—Organizations of American housewives in rebellion against the cost of groceries continued to grow today, some of them taking on such fancies abbreviations as WoW, MMFF, BCLLP, HELP and WASLP.

Williamsville, N.Y., had its "Women on the Warpath." Charlotte, N.C., the "Mad Mothers and Fighting Fathers," Louisiana the "Baton Rouge Women for Lower Prices," Colorado the "National Housewives for Lower Prices."

In the U.S. capital it was the WASLP . . . "Washington Area Shoppers for Lower Prices", in Wilmington, N.C., the OLFP, "Operation for Lower Food Prices", and in Burlington, Citizens' League for Lower Prices".

In Waukesha, Wis., Mrs. Thomas Heyen, leader of a group which hasn't even chosen a set of initials yet, said:

"We aren't blaming anyone, but we do want to find out who the in-between man is who is to blame."

Typical store reaction came from Tom Gregory of the Georgia Retail Association, who said:

"We have no disagreement with the housewives. Prices are high. They're high on everything in the world—clothes, new automobiles, almost anything you can name.

"Inflation is spiralling. Our contention is that the grocery stores and food chains have a net profit of one to 1½ per cent on sales. If they cut prices very much, they'll be operating at a loss."

In Lexington, N.C., Mrs. Max Lefler, lead of an unnamed brigade, had this to say:

"We got one independent store owner to mark down prices on items we thought were too high. He followed two of us around the store and reduced prices we pointed out. A can of coffee was marked down from $1.19 to 89 cents. It can be done."

A spokesman for the Baton Rouge women said they were determined "to find out where inflation stops and personal profiteering begins."

In Miami Beach, where the National Association of Food convention, the group adopted a resolution to "continue active and aggressive efforts to reduce costs and to support realistic efforts to fight inflation."

The organization has members with a total of 23,000 supermarkets in the United States.

Car Wash, Bake Sale Set

Boys of the Third Juan de Fuca Scout troop will hold a car wash from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday at Colwood Plaza.

The price is 99 cents per car, and proceeds will be used to provide berets for every boy in the troop.

Boys of the Fourth Arbutus District (Vic West) cubs will hold a bake sale Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at the Esquimalt Super-Valu, Head and Esquimalt.

Housewives Form Co-Ops

MONTREAL (CP)—A group of Montreal housewives calling themselves the Committee of Angry Consumers announced plans Wednesday night to establish five co-operative food stores in various districts of the city.

Mrs. Norma Meyer of the Angry Consumers, the newly-formed group that picketed a number of Montreal supermarkets last Saturday, told a downtown gathering of running co-operative drug stores as well.

"Food boycotts and picketing, while useful in attracting publicity, are only temporary inducements to chain stores to lower prices," she said.

"We must find a more permanent solution.

"We are forming a committee of businessmen, bankers, architects and other qualified people to avise us how and where to set up co-ops."

Manila Rope's-End

THE DECLARATION OF THE Viet Nam allies at Manila does not appear on the surface to have brought peace any nearer. But viewed in the context of the past two years it carries a measure of hope.

The Manila agreement, with its specific offers and concessions, could not have been achieved two years ago. Coming close on the heels of the recent United States statement in reply to UN Secretary-General U Thant, it codifies in a formal manner a position much nearer to peaceful negotiation than has been possible heretofore.

Gradually the main demands of the Communists have been agreed to through one medium or another: the American agreement to admit the Viet Cong to negotiations, to repatriate troops as soon as possible, to halt bombing of North Viet Nam, and now, to put a definite limit of six months to the period of troop withdrawal. These points at least are on the record.

The catch is that the Manila declaration, like earlier American statements, requires an indication of Communist withdrawal from the conflict as a prior consideration. This leaves it up to the North Vietnamese in effect to stop fighting first—a loss of face which an Asian power would not be likely to permit short of desperation.

So far the reaction of Hanoi has been one of contempt and vituperation; a Pravda commentator referred to "hypocritical phrases of peace." It has been necessary to look elsewhere, to Hungary in fact, for a morsel of optimism. There, a statement hints that communism may slowly be coming round to a more encouraging approach to peace negotiations.

This is slim hope, indeed. And the negative side of the situation has not been lessened by the Manila allies' final emphasis on a strong front and continued hard knocks on the enemy until it shows signs of curtailing the war.

British and French opinion holds that the Manila declaration was a hopeful step forward. But critics in neither country give the latest proposals much hope of success. There is a tragic prospect that the fighting must go its deadly course, eroding life and property on both sides—and in the civilian middle—until the superior weight of United States armament and wealth forces a halt. Even then the prospects of a clear-cut victory are dim. A stalemate through exhaustion appears the more likely result, creating a condition which can be hailed as a victory so that the tardy process of disengagement can begin.

In general, Manila must be viewed as a step forward. But the necessary ingredient of a peace negotiation—the presence of the North Vietnamese — was lacking. The closing picture, a ray of light having shone, showed only the grim determination to fight on.

Fire Gong in Saanich

IT IS NEARLY THREE MONTHS since the British Columbia fire marshal's office set out for Saanich the requirements it believed the municipality should meet to bring protection services up to scratch.

At the time of its release the report left Saanich breathless — but not for long. The recommendations, councillors said, were far beyond Saanich's purse, were higher than those required for the city and, in their proposal to raise the fire-fighting strength to more than double, were out of the question. The report proposed that the existing force of 56 men be raised to 134.

Now the chairman of the municipal fire committee intends to seek funds for more men. He suggests 10 or 20. The fire chief has proposed an addition of 24. It seems clear that a substantially larger force than the one now engaged is required.

The impediment to major staff additions, of course, is the cost involved. Yet Saanich, having shown amazing population and commercial growth in recent years, will show substantially greater growth in the time immediately ahead. To provide the type of service its residents need it must step up its fire-fighting force.

While the question is under review, it would be sensible to give thought to the feasibility of expanding the service so that integration can be effected between the Saanich fire department and the departments of neighboring municipalities. The integration principle seems to be honored by the gentlemen's agreement under which reciprocal calls can be made by Saanich on certain of its neighbors, who will respond if their men and equipment are not at the time required for their own particular duties. Such an arrangement, as the report from the fire marshal's office pointed out, has the fatal weakness that supplementary help might not be available when needed.

There are obvious advantages in an integrated force. Halls can be located to provide the most efficient regional coverage. Specialized equipment, perhaps too expensive for one unit, could be financed by all, and special training could be given to selected men serving the whole area.

At all events, the cooling off period since the reception of the earlier report should have left Saanich in a frame of mind better suited to sober consideration of its needs — and perhaps more receptive to the idea that integration would serve its fire protection interests.

Parks Also Wear Out

WHEN OFFICIAL FIGURES are compiled British Columbians will learn that more people used provincial parks in 1966 than ever before. Population increase creates a larger volume of potential park visitors and the popularity of recreation in the parks is growing here as in other parts of the world.

But the result of this greater use, healthy and desirable as it may be, creates in British Columbia a concern common to all parts of the world where such outdoor activity—camping, fishing, hiking and picnicking—increases as the automobile makes access to the recreation grounds simpler. The fact is that parks wear out—and some in this province, subject to as much as double the use planned for them, are beginning to suffer.

We have not in British Columbia reached the critical position neared in Yosemite and some other American areas. There the sheer volume of visitors threatens the attractions which draw tourists to the outdoors.

British Columbia has 249 parks containing almost six and one-half million acres. About three-fifths of the parks have been developed and only a few of these are suffering the wear-and-tear of heavy use which threatens some areas close to large populations.

But the situation does point up two facts. One is that we cannot afford to dispose, through alienation, of any of our parklands. The other is that residents and visitors will have to move further afield in parks use—and put up with something less than wide-open accessibility by automobile.

The parks exist for public enjoyment—but not all the public in one place. The problem of the planner is to encourage diffusion so that the attractions of these areas will be preserved and protected for generations to come.

FROM OTTAWA — By MAURICE WESTERN

Little Room for Federal Concessions

THE relatively amiable disagreements which marked the first day of the federal - provincial conference are perhaps deceptive for the premiers are apparently as one in the view that, at this stage, they are merely nibbling at the edges of the fiscal problem. They are probably wrong. Education, although a traditionally sensitive subject, is only one of the matters to be discussed this week. The premiers, although reacting with normal unhappiness to the new federal assistance scheme, are inclined to caution until they know the full details of the tax-sharing offer for the next few years.

Western

Mr. Pearson's statement was anticipated (although not, of course, in detail) by Mr. Sharp in September. In putting forward the new plan in respect to fiscal equalization and shared cost programs, the minister indicated that the federal government would have supplementary proposals on assistance to higher education. The earlier fiscal offer would cost approximately $140 millions. It seems probable that the new educational scheme will force Mr. Sharp to find another $90 millions, without taking into account higher payments for the adult training program.

Large Sums

These are large sums, particularly when it is borne in mind that the government is committed to a new guaranteed income scheme and by 1968 to medicare. Moreover, Mr. Sharp must deal with the provinces at a time when the economic weather has become decidedly uncertain. The country at the moment is being buffeted by inflation but the forecasters are hopelessly divided with some unhappily insisting that deflation is not far behind.

It seems extremely improbable, therefore, that Mr. Sharp will be able to produce many sweeteners for the waiting premiers later this week. He insisted in September that Ottawa must retain at least 50 per cent of the income taxes to maintain effective control of the Canadian economy. With the increased educational assistance announced on Monday, he is so close to the irreducible minimum that there is little, if any, room for further concessions.

The new educational course has been plotted with great concern for the legitimate constitutional objections always voiced by Quebec. Ottawa is withdrawing from the existing agreements although not in a matter imposing abrupt adjustments on the provinces.

Future assistance is to take the form of fiscal transfer; the provincial governments will be given more tax elbow room through an additional four points on personal and one point on corporation income tax. This will be supplemented by a double-barrelled system of equalization. First, the yield from these taxes will be equalized to the national average yield under the general formula. Secondly, there will be special program equalization payments, taking account of differences in levels of educational expenditures in the various provinces.

Unconditional Payments

By this something for everybody arrangement, Ottawa will make unconditional payments to any province equal to the difference between the tax transfer (when equalized) and 50 per cent of the operating costs of post-secondary educational institutions in that province.

Quebec has always objected in the past that federal aid tends to distort provincial priorities. In fact provinces have had stronger incentives to spend money under the training agreements on post-secondary institutions than on university facilities. It is for this reason that the new proposals apply generally to all post-secondary operating expenditures whether for technical or vocational training of for the universities.

In one respect, however, Ottawa and Quebec are on a collision course. Adult training, in the view of the federal government, is not "education" in the constitutional sense and not, accordingly, the exclusive preserve of the provinces. It is, on the contrary, a measure "designed to ensure the maximum possibility of effective participation in production" and thus one aspect of the federal government's responsibility for economic growth and full employment.

This certainly is an invitation to rarified argument. Mr. Johnson is bound to argue (indeed, he has already argued) that Ottawa's case is the thin end of the wedge. Any form of re-training must rest on some educational basis. Where then does education begin and where does it end?

Pragmatic Approach

Mr. Johnson has, however, presented himself as a pragmatist and the federal approach, whatever its theoretical imperfections, is highly pragmatic. After all, in past seasons of heavy unemployment, Quebec was one of the chief sufferers. It will probably suffer again if the federal government is unable, through its manpower policies, to achieve the advance in skills demanded by the Economic Council of Canada.

Further, if Mr. Johnson is to rest on a strict interpretation of the constitution (as he is inclined to do when not demanding that it be scrapped) he must admit that the highest courts, by upholding federal authority in the broadcasting case, have made it quite impossible to equate education with culture. Thus the federal government is not asserting a new principle in seeking to delimit it; by insisting, for example, that Ottawa is entitled to play a role in such related (but not identical) fields as adult training and research.

If the new proposals are implemented, Ottawa will accept full responsibility both for training allowances and for the costs of employment-oriented training for adults. This means that it will buy provincial services for individuals. There is no estimate of the cost to the federal government although Mr. Roblin calculates that it will amount in the case of Manitoba to about $250,000.

Mr. Johnson's constitutional worries are not widely shared: indeed, it is a Manitoba objection that the federal government is being too fussily constitutional by insisting that a worker must be out of the educational stream for three years (it was formerly one) in order to qualify for a retraining program.

United by Wants

What does unite the premiers, as usual in federal-provincial conferences, is a desire for more money. They are already looking the educational gift horse very critically in the mouth and will undoubtedly press hard for reconsideration, with particular attention to the question of capital costs.

They will probably press in vain. Mr. Sharp has already indicated that the era of federal largesse is over. The federal proposals are sufficiently vague to permit the minor modifications. But any large concessions would be a major surprise.

Letters to the Editor

"Wonder When . . ."

Wonder when the firings will start in Saanich.—Saanich Taxpayer.

Nuisance-Free Septic Tanks

When Councillor Leslie Passmore tells Saanich Council that all the sewage from septic tanks on Kingham Place runs straight into Portage Inlet, obviously he is misinformed.

When septic tanks are properly designed and installed they do not cause problems. The water pollution which is arousing so much public concern and indignation is caused by sewer outfalls — not septic tanks. Septic tanks dispose of sewage through the ground which in my opinion, is much more civilized than discharging it into the water.

I know that Mr. Passmore does not believe that septic tanks can be made to work. He is one of many who have been concerned through the years with the hazards of faulty installations. But he should realize that scientific research has now made it possible to engineer ground disposal systems that are nuisance free. I would be more than willing to show him (or anyone else) some of these systems — my own included — and he can feel free to conduct any test he wishes. I should add that these individual systems have been in use for many years with no maintenance costs. It does not make sense to me to disconnect such systems in order to hook up to a public sewer discharging to a waterway.—Lloyd Smith, 137 Kingham Place.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD

The world, television's world, and television's techniques have all changed dramatically in the last ten years. Then prime ministers made headlines by agreeing to be interviewed on television. Today they do so by refusing.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Looking Back

From The Times of Oct. 27, 1906:

Premier McBride arrived home last evening from attending the interprovincial conference at Ottawa. The local Conservative Association arranged a noisy welcome for him.

Premier McBride said no one wished more than he to see the subject of better terms for British Columbia made a big question. He had endeavored at Ottawa to remove better terms for British Columbia from party politics. If he did not succeed it was not his fault.

Pilot Plan For Asia?

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH
From Singapore

"PARLIAMENTARY democracy is dead, We are now taking our struggle to the streets," ominously declared a leader of the pro-Communist Barisan Socialists (Socialist Front) in Singapore when the party's opposition group in the republic's pocket legislature resigned en bloc this month.

The party last weekend carried out its threat in a gun battle with the police. But when the threat was uttered, outside the parliament building upon which the revolutionary comrades had just turned their backs, only 30 supporters with six small banners had turned up to give these words bite. Singapore, with its firmly-established traditions of violent and bloody rioting, was not impressed.

For the government of this tiny, independent state of 224 square miles and a multicolored population of less than two millions, has reduced the once-formidable local Communist movement to virtual impotence, not only by implementing a fierce security ordinance that enables the administration to hold political suspects indefinitely without trial, but very largely by setting an example in honest, hardworking Social-Democrat government.

Internationally Important

This unusual Asian experiment in using non-Communist power to benefit the masses rather than line the pockets is of international importance, for it is a pilot scheme for a possible Asia — and Africa — of the future. The curious problems of conscience facing Mr. Lee Kuan Yew, the island's prime minister, are essentially the problems of the Third Force, of the ultimate synthesis between socialism and capitalism, authoritarianism and democracy.

The contradictions are built in. Mr. Lee's People's Action Party officially advocates a free, democratic society, based on the best liberal traditions. But at the same time, as a brilliant, somewhat autocratic politician, impatient of the slow, the stupid and the stubbornly opposed, Lee thinks he knows what is best for Singapore.

He urges the younger generation to enter the hurly-burly of free-for-all politics, but simultaneously stresses the need for sharp security curbs to halt Communist conspiracy in its tracks. He began his political carrer as champion of the worker's rights, but his republic faces a stiff economic battle for survival, and he now emphasizes that salvation lies in bigger production, not bigger pay-packets. His democratic ideals are, in fact, snagged on the iron hooks of his practical need for a tightly-organized, dynamic and disciplined society, whose members must be ready to make sacrifices in order to preserve the nation's equilibrium.

Student Demonstration

On the big campus of the University of Singapore 1,000 students parade in mock-mourning for "the death of academic freedom." Student leaders accuse the government of cancelling the bursaries and state scholarships of undergraduates who have ill-advisedly shown their left hand in politics. They attack the Internal Security Act, which stipulates that student entries into the university must first prove eligible for political "suitability certificates." Of 5,000 screened in the past two years, 104 have been refused admission to the university on security grounds.

Meanwhile, Lee, a protagonist of free trades unionism in earlier days, now watches with a certain horror the costly extravagances of this movement in a penurious Britain. Is this the tradition he was so eager to introduce into a Singapore fighting for its economic breath? He finds that the daily-rated workers who clean the city tend to malinger on weekdays, but turn up for a full day's work on a Sunday that is also a holiday, so that they can draw treble pay for overtime. He suspects this is typical of Singapore labor, and he is duly appalled. The Trades Union Ordinance is changed, and it is decided that overtime practices are to be severely curtailed. In future wages must be geared to productivity; payment by the day or week, irrespective of work done and output achieved, may be a luxury that the British think they can afford, but Lee knows Singapore cannot.

Unions Disillusioned

The National Trade Union Congress complains vociferously that Lee has sprung his plans on them without warning. The secretary-general is "disillusioned and disgusted."

There is much sound and fury, but both Lee and NTUC leaders have been to the Soviet Union, and the pattern of the future becomes clear. Lee is jettisoning the British trades union system, for fear it will sink the ship. He wants productivity targets and piecework, production incentives, and even perhaps an honors system of hero-workers. The NTUC chiefs stipulate that there must be an agreed minimum basic wage on which to pile the piecework pay, and that they must be fully consulted on production targets.

The fight is far from over. But what is almost certainly the best and cleanest anti-Communist Government in Southeast Asia — torn between the complicated machinery of democratic practice and the handy tools of authoritarianism—is fostering an emerging society in which students enter seats of higher learning on the basis of political reliability, and it seems that trade union practice is to be derived largely from Moscow. It is possible that the able and eclectic Mr. Lee will find an effective third way to run a state. It is also possible that he will find that no such thing exists.

Education and Agriculture Top Priorities for Cuba

By CHARLES HAYNES

(Second of three articles by University of Victoria student Charles Haynes describing Cuba as he saw it with 20 other Canadians this past summer. The Cuban government paid the students' return air fare from Mexico City to Havana and all their expenses while they were in the country. The trip was arranged through the Canadian Union of Students.)

Public education is the pride of the Cuban Revolution. In 1959 one quarter of the people could not read. Brigades of teen-agers went out into the countryside to teach the peasants or "guajiros" their letters.

Vigorous national campaigns alerted the people to the importance of education — for themselves and for the state. The government proclaimed 1961 the "Year of Education."

The entire education system from primary to university was restructured and made tuition-free. All private schools became nationalized. The government made schooling through grade 9 obligatory and offered the choice of technological and pre-university schools for three more years of study.

Technological schools prepare students for jobs in industry or for the technical faculties of Cuba's three universities—Havana, Las Villas, and Oriente.

Haynes

Cuba has realized the need for technical education in the modern state. Over 65 per cent of the 30,000 university students enter science, agriculture, or technical faculties. The remainder study the traditional subjects — philosophy, law, economics, medicine, and more. Language, art, and professional schools complete the range of post-secondary education.

The Ministry of Education has granted scholarships which enable students from the provinces to live in the town where secondary schools exist or in the three university centres. Each of the 200,000 scholarship students receives $50 a month.

Adult education for men and women has helped to make Cuba a "nation at school." When a worker has won the "Battle for the Sixth Grade" he or she may enroll in follow-up courses. This program ensures a more skilled work force and consequently raises production.

Train Teachers

High in the Sierra Maestra Mountains the Canadian students visited a teacher-training school. We rode in the back of a Russian truck that manoeuvred up a road more primitive than Vancouver Island's worst.

Five thousand students live in the mile-high school-city Minas del Frio (Mines of Cold). These 12- and 13-year-olds stay in the rustic community for a year. Visibilty in the cold evening fog was only a few yards. I heard strains of the "Internationale" playing over loudspeakers.

Next morning was sunny. We saw the school's splendid site among forested mountains and above deep valleys. The rough and healthy living prepares the students for their future teaching posts in the backwoods areas of Cuba.

Hammocks are standard in boys' and girls' dorms. Fruit, rice, biscuits (made of Canadian wheat), beans and some meat are the main food staples.

Classrooms are outdoor affairs, built of wooden poles and grass roofs. Here the sixth graders study arithmetic, Spanish language, Cuban history, and plant science. All the instructors are young, about 18 to 20.

To aid the Revolution, hundreds of technicians, doctors, and teachers have come to Cuba from all parts of the world. The largest numbers are from the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia.

About 80 Canadians live in Cuba. Half of these are Catholic and Protestant missionaries. Most of the rest, aside from embassy personnel, openly sympathize with the Revolution and came to help out in their various capacities.

Met Three

Of the Canadians, I met one announcer for Radio Havana, a civil engineer, a translator for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and a medical doctor.

This summer two professors from the University of B.C. went to teach graduate courses in Cuba. One of them taught chemical engineering at the University of Oriente.

Cuba enjoys full medicare service. The standard of this service appears satisfactory, though a shortage of doctors and lack of medicine must have some bad effects.

Half of Cuba's doctors fled the Revolution, leaving the country in desperate straits. Young men and women graduates of medical faculties have now replaced those who left. They are going into the country where before health services were unknown. Older doctors are allowed to retain their private practices.

Although housing is another success story of the Revolution, much remains to be done, enough to keep construction workers busy until at least 1980. Rents in Cuba are low, only 10 per cent of the family's earnings.

The problem remains however; what types of dwellings are available for rent? Cities like Santiago are by Canadian standards almost entirely slums. There the homes are ancient, made of wood, in need of constant repair. In the country the worst "bohios," or shacks of banana leaves and sticks, have been eliminated and replaced with single or double unit concrete bungalows. Many bohios remain in the remote mountain areas.

Cubans at Work and Play

Volunteer labor is a "social obligation" for all fit Cubans and the top picture shows a group of workers lined up in semi-military fashion ready to start a project. Below is the "Ballet Folkloric", a popular entertainment presented in Havana.

Outside Havana the government built a huge apartment city. The design is modern and attractive, though some units appear shabby before their time.

After Hurricane Flora ravaged Oriente Province, the Soviet Union gave an apartment prefab factory to Cuba. To date, this is the only one in the country. The plant supplies pieces for apartment construction on a site near Santiago. The flats have one to four bedrooms and the rooms are bright and spacious.

The Negro sub-director of the prefab plant spoke English well. He showed extraordinary intelligence and concern about his work. He was proud of his plant and his men, and glad of the chance to show us around.

Apartments require cement. Fidel explained in his 26th of July address how the lack of cement retards housing construction.

"The present production of 900,000 tons of cement cannot be multiplied as were the loaves and fishes in the famous biblical miracle. There are 900,000 tons and there is no way to multiply them."

By 1970, he went on, 2,500,000 tons of cement will be produced, with 1,000,000 tons allocated for building homes. At the rate of 100,000 homes a year between 1970 and 1980, Cuba will solve its housing shortage. This the Prime Minister must tell his people who want homes now.

Sugar Vital

Sugar is Cuba's main cash crop. World prices are low and last year's crop was disappointing. The Socialist countries buy Cuban sugar more out of obligation than necessity. Last year China wormed out of a sugar-for-rice agreement, leaving Cuba in a tight position.

I visited a Granja del Pueblo (People's Farm) in Matanzas Province. Here sugar was top priority, but cattle-breeding and poultry were also important. The state owns 70 per cent of the land; the rest belongs to small farmers. Agrarian reform has not yet settled the problems of diversification and incentives for workers. The Cubans are experimenting with plans and ideas. They realize that agriculture will make or doom Cuba.

Before 1959 industry was almost nonexistent in Cuba. All manufactured articles came from the U.S. Cuba was totally dependent upon American companies for the upkeep of automobiles, and for machinery of all types.

When in 1960 the trade blockade on Cuba came into effect, Fidel's government had to seek other sources of needed equipment. The Socialist nations sent road vehicles, farm tractors, electric generators, to name a few items.

Bad Theory

Marxist theory, especially that advocated by hard-line Communists, demanded that Cuba eventually concentrate on industry over agriculture. In the early years, Che Guevara's Ministry of Industries forecast a remarkable expansion of industry which Cuba simply was not able to carry out.

The sugar crop of 1963 was disastrously low. Admitting the errors of his regime, Castro re-oriented his country's economic policy. Cuba initiated a program of moderate industrialization with first priority on agriculture.

I was able to visit three plants of industrial importance. The first was a Soviet-built thermal electric station near Santiago. Initially Russian technicians operated the plant. The Russians trained Cubans to replace them and now only a half dozen Soviets are left from a contingent of 40. Until Cuba develops a system of hydro dams it will have to depend on petroleum from the Soviet Union for power.

Santa Clara is a large city almost in the center of Cuba. Because of its location planners have chose the city to be the focus of industry in Cuba. Plants in operation there include a household appliance factory, a spare parts factory, and several other textile works. The most interesting products of the spare parts plant, I found, were Ford transmissions. Their manufacture answers one of Cuba's greatest worries — car parts. "Made in U.S.S.R." was stamped on most of the plant's machinery. Poland had contributed lathes and lab equipment.

More Nickel

Nickel will some day be Cuba's greatest export after sugar. The large smelter at Nicaro, Oriente, had all the appearances of major industry.

Generally speaking the state of industry in Cuba is disappointing. Bureaucracy has likely done much to slow down progress. Cuba now seems to be establishing a basis for remarkable expansion — in the future. The country must wait for the development of a skilled working force and for the graduation of technologists from her universities. One factory director was 27 years of age. Cuba is a nation for the young.

An eight hour day, five or five and one half days a week, is the rule for all Cuban workers. Wages have not risen with the Revolution. Rather, people have been given permanent jobs so that serious unemployment has now vanished.

Skilled labor is better paid than manual labor. Engineers and doctors earn more than factory workers. The income tax, about 11½ per cent, is the same for everyone and goes to pay for education and for health services.

The minimum farm wage is just about $85 a month. Teachers earn about $200 and a general practitioner $350. A specialist may earn up to $500. The average Cuban's wage is around $150 monthly.

No Strikes

Trade unions help to administer the labor force. Workers no longer have the right to strike. Union leaders tell you that workers now have no need to strike. Less than half of union officers are members of the Communist Party.

When the sugar cane is ready for harvest, factory and city workers go into the fields to do volunteer labor. In this regard social obligation is likely a more accurate term than volunteer. Often Fidel, President Dorticos, and other high-ranking personnel of the Goverment and Party cut cane alongside the workers. In 90 degree heat this is no easy job.

Four weeks holiday a year, two in summer and two in winter, gives the worker time for volunteer labor, or more usually time to spend on the wonderful beaches. Varadero Beach was crowded with Cuban families enjoying the warm, turquoise water.

Florida was only a hundred miles away.

A HECK OF A WAY TO RUN A RAILROAD

By WAVERLEY ROOT

PARIS — The French, everyone admits, are a logical race. Logic is considered a virtue. But like every virtue, carried to excess, it can become a vice.

This is one of the factors that makes French bureaucracy so cumbersome and so self-defeating. As soon as somebody hits upon a logical idea, consideration is given to the exceptions which, logic insists, must be admitted in the application of that idea. Whereupon the administration comes up with a text so complicated as to constitute an absurdity.

The consensus here seems to be that the French railway administration has just done this.

French railways are losing money. But this is a pre-election period — not the moment to raise fares, which were already raised not very long ago. Also, railway fares enter into the calculation of the cost of living index, and when this rises, employers have to pay more under the system of the guaranteed minimum wage — the biggest employer in France being the state.

The question therefore arose — how to raise railway rates without admitting it to the cost of living index? (The French are very ingenious about this; when they wanted to raise the price of gas and electricity — also on the index, they settled instead for charging rent for meters — not on the index.)

The French railways found an answer. We won't raise fares, it went (at least, not before the elections), but we will charge a getting-aboard tax (like the initial charge rung up on a taxi meter before you have gone anywhere), because there are certain expenses involved in getting a passenger onto a train which don't vary with the distance he travels.

In any case, this is the official explanation which is being given for the invariable tax for boarding a train — 20 cents in second class, 30 cents in first. It's logical.

But then it struck someone that it wasn't logical to charge a passenger travelling 10 miles as much in addition to the regular fare as a passenger travelling 500. So for short rides the extra payment was reduced. Thus logic met itself coming back, and the only reasonable explanation the railroads have found for the new charge — which they admit won't solve their financial difficulties — has been wiped out.

The supposed invariable train-boarding tax changes not only in function of the distance, but there are also separate rates for children under 10, for dogs, for holders of cut rate workers' tickets, mothers with more than three children, for holders of commuter tickets (varying, again, with the distance) and for sleeping car passengers.

Uncle Sam 'Big Brother' To the Book Publishers

I. F. Stone's Weekly
Washington, D.C.

The publishing business needs a Pure Food and Drug Act of its own which will require that books subsidized by the government be plainly labelled.

The first indication that the U.S. Information Agency was secretly subsidizing books came with the belated release last December of the House Appropriations Committee hearings on the USIA budget for fiscal 1965.

There (at p. 455) Reed Harris of USIA explained a $195,000 item for "Book Development." He said this was a program "under which we can have books writtten to our own specifications, books that would not otherwise be put out, especially those books that have strong anti-Communist content, and follow other themes that are particularly useful for our purposes. Under the book development program we control the thing from the very idea down to the final edited manuscript." (The bold face is ours.)

When the hearings were finally published, the names of the books and their authors were blacked out "because" as Harris explained, "our interest in certain of these books should not become a matter of general public information."

Anti-Castro

He mentioned an anti-Castro book among those secretly subsidized, and also a study of Communist tactics by "a socialist-type organization" on which USIA spent $14,952.

A hint that other Federal agencies subsidize books appeared when Lipscomb (R. Cal.) asked why such books had to be subsidized.

Louis A. Fanget, in charge of the book program, said that ordinarily American publishers would not publish anti-Communist books "because they do not sell . . . and even those published commercially sometimes have some federal support behind them."

Do other agencies like the CIA also subsidize books?

Originally this book program was part of a foreign propaganda operation. During the fiscal 1966 hearings (p. 418) Lipscomb asked Harris why these books should be sold at home.

Harris replied: "These are responsible people with scholarly reputations and they would not undertake the work at all if they were subject to that restriction."

Apparently the marketing, i.e. money making, restriction means more to these scholars then freedom from the propaganda agency's blue pencil.

An example of these writers is Jay Mallin, the author of three books. The first was "Fortress Cuba" (Van Nostrand). One wonders whether it is the anti-Castro book referred to in the censored testimony above. The second was Caribbean Crisis, a book about the U.S. intervention in the Domincan Republic (also Van Nostrand).

Paid $2,386

When Leonard Marks, at the close of the testimony quoted below, suddenly decided in embarrassment to declassify this book information, it turned out that $2,386 had been paid Mallin for this book.

Van Nostrand this year has just published a third book by Mallin, "Terror in Viet Nam." This book does not appear on the list released with the fiscal 1967 hearings.

'Does that mean," this weekly asked Fanget, "that the USIA did not finance the latter book, or simply that it was not included on the list?" Fanget replied cryptically "I would say that was an accurate statement." He pointed out that the list only covered books subsidized in fiscal 1965.

When the New York Times American people know when they buy and read the book that it was developed under government sponsorship?

MR. LEONARD H. MARKS (Director, USIA): It minimizes their value. . . . If we say this is our book, then the author is a government employe in effect. It changes the whole status of the author. . . .

Mr. LIPSCOMB: I assume that you are distributing them overseas, for lack of a better word, for propaganda purposes.

Mr. MARKS: Yes, definitely, to tell a story.

Mr. LIPSCOMMB: Is it being sold in the United States for propaganda purposes?

Mr. MARKS: No.

Mr. LIPSCOMB: Then there is an awfully fine line that exists here.

Mr. MARKS: Propaganda has to be defined. I would like to go into this very briefly. Propaganda has the overtones of Hitler Germany, where there is lying, where there is a misrepresentation. I do not believe in that. I have said time and again that all we have to do is tell the truth.

Are Today's Filter-Tip Cigarettes Really Safer Than Plain Ends?

How "safe" is the cigarette you smoke? How much harmful tar and nicotine is in the smoke you inhale into your lungs? For years Doctors have warned that tar and nicotine in cigarettes can be dangerous to health and can cause deadly lung cancer. Now, U.S. cigarette manufacturers must label packages with a caution warning. But, when you buy Canadian cigarettes there is no way of knowing how much tar and nicotine they contain. The current Reader's Digest features a factual, new laboratory report showing the latest tar and nicotine content of 25 leading Canadian cigarettes and reveals that some actually contain 200% — or more — tar and nicotine than others. It shows, that in some cases the smoke from filter-tips actually has a higher content, of these injurious substances, than the smoke from some plain ends. The latest, strange developments provoked by the U.S. ruling requiring warning labels on cigarette packages, are also reported in this interesting article. This Reader's Digest article will be talked about from Coast to Coast — every Canadian who smokes cigarettes should read it. It's in November Reader's Digest—on newsstands now.

Founders Of B.C.

Col. Richard Clement Moody

Pistol balls whined past the stalwart officer and his force of 20 soldiers and sailors at Yale in February, 1859. He had come to show the flag to rebellious gold miners and the reception was aimed at scaring him away. But Col. Richard Clement Moody, Royal Engineer, stood and raised his cap and thanked the toughs for their exuberant greeting and won cheers for his boldness. The trouble evaporated.

Colonel Moody and his 165 men had come from England 'round the Horn' late in 1858 in consequence of Governor James Douglas having asked for military protection for his new colony. Born into the army in 1813 in the Barbadoes, Col. Moody had served earlier in the Indies, The Falklands, at Malta and in England.

Colonel Moody chose the site for the capital of British Columbia, New Westminster and as Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works directed the sappers as they laid out the roads and trails that opened the colony; designed the first churches and school at New Westminster. He organized a building society and set up the first observatory, library and printing office.

When his detachment of the Royal Engineers was disbanded in 1863 many of his men remained to become pioneer citizens, but Moody himself returned to England where he died in 1887. Port Moody honors the name of one who contributed so greatly to the founding of British Columbia.

THE GALLUP POLL

Physicals for Drivers Wholeheartedly Approved

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

The people in this country would approve, wholeheartedly, that a law be enacted to force car drivers to take physical examinations periodically.

Nearly 8 in 10 adults say such a regulation should be mandatory. Less than 2 in 10 feel physical examinations are not necessary.

Among the different age groups, there is some divergence of opinion on this subject. Those in their 20s and those in their 40s are particularly keen on physical examinations at regular intervals. Fewer in their 30s and over 50 years feel this way.

The question: "Do you think that every driver of a car should now be required to take a physical examination at regular intervals after he or she has a licence?"

'Aid Available If Bennett Asks'

Premier Bennett could get federal aid for his hydro construction program any time he sits down and makes formal application through the same channels as other provinces have done successfully, Liberal leader Ray Perrault claimed Wednesday.

But he told a press conference here that the premier refuses to do this because he's afraid that normal federal conditions would prevent him from secretly juggling the money between the Peace and Columbia River projects.

"The premier is screaming for aid yet he's refused to apply for help the way Saskatchewan and Manitoba did for the South Saskatchewan dam and the Nelson River projects," Mr. Perrault said.

"If he sits down and makes application the way Premier Roblin of Manitoba did, I'm confident he will get assistance."

Mr. Perrault said this involved joint technical studies of the need and application of the proposed assistance followed by the normal federal-provincial agreements on terms.

But, instead of this, Premier Bennett is trying to create a crisis situation so he can get federal funds without any strings in order to use them to cover up his financial difficulties.

JOINT STUDIES

Mr. Perrault agreed with Opposition Leader Robert Strachan's contention that the provincial government is at least $150 million short in financing for the two-river policy and his letter last month to Finance Minister Sharp and brief to the current federal-provincial conference prove it.

Mr. Perrault said he had a copy of the letter to Mr. Sharp from which he quoted "highly significant" paragraphs in which Premier Bennett asked—on top of rebates of federal sales taxes on dam construction materials—for unstated federal loans to help finance the B.C. Hydro projects and offering to put a provincial guarantee on such bonds.

The letter also said this matter was of "vital importance" to the province.

COPY OF LETTER

Mr. Perrault said he doesn't criticize the brief asking for more grants of various kinds to the province but he does "criticize the fact that the premier's badly mishandled B.C.'s case within the context of confederation."

"If he wants aid he must apply for it" and not expect the federal government to send an armored truck full of money to him without any preliminaries, he said.

Mr. Perrault said that he received a letter from B.C. Hydro co-chairman Gordon Shrum this week confirming that he is not aware of any request for specific federal aid towards construction of the Peace River Dam.

Instead of requesting such aid in normal fashion, the premier was "playing politics rather than working in the best interests of the citizens," the Liberal leader said.

The premier's brief to Ottawa "is really a desperation list patched together with inaccuracies trying to scrape up what cash he can from the federal government" without revealing how it will be used.

Mr. Perrault said the two-river policy financing problems will remain after Premier Bennett has left the scene and will have to be resolved by whichever administration succeeds his, so "in all fairness, there should be a sharing of information by this government to a multi-party conference."

WHOLE PICTURE

He said Mr. Bennett should call himself and Opposition Leader Strachan to a confidential meeting and reveal the whole picture so that a non-partisan agreement could be reached in an area of vital importance to the province's future.

He said this would not be unprecedented, revealing that two years ago Premier Bennett gave him a confidential briefing on Columbia River problems which he has never made public or used for partisan advantage.

The premier himself made non-partisan government "the No. 1 issue in the past election and it's time for him to demonstrate it," said Mr. Perrault.

Persistence Pays Off

Recruiting the more than 2,000 women who carry out the house-to-house canvass in the residential division of the Community Chest United Appeal is anything but an easy task and much ingenuity, persistence and downright eloquence is displayed by area chairmen and team captains before they sign up that last recruit.

All these qualities were demonstrated in good measure by Mrs. W. R. Louden, 1978 Crescent Road, area chairman of area one, who even reached behind the Iron Curtain to come up with one of her canvassers.

It happened like this.

TRIP TO RUSSIA

During her earlier efforts at recruiting Mrs. Louden had discussed her problems with a friend, Mrs. Jack Gillespie, 1725 Beach Drive. The latter promised to help if needed but pointed out that she and her husband had planned a vacation trip to Russia and would be away until early October.

Mrs. Louden continued with her recruiting but with time getting short and several gaps still remaining in her list, she felt unusual methods were called for. In September she dispatched a letter, addressed to Mrs. Gillespie in Leningrad. In due time, she got her reply. Mrs. Gillespie would be glad to help.

"How could I refuse anyone who took all that trouble," she said.

Winter Clearing For Trails

Hiking and riding trails in the Elk-Beaver Lake park complex will be cleared this winter as a Winter Works Project.

The Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee made the decision to get on with the work in January or February next year after hearing a complaint from Mrs. Harriette Gordon.

Mrs. Gordon said a recent attempt to ride the Elk Lake trail was prevented because of the number of trees strewn across the bridle path.

Bert Richards, parks superintendent for Saanich agreed with her complaints.

"The trails are in poor condition," he said. "Young trees knocked down by last year's snow make it impossible to ride around the lakes."

Victoria parks superintendent Herbert Warren said there was enough money remaining in this year's budget to get on with a clearing program this winter.

Work crews will also attempt to fill in as many potholes as possible with local rock and gravel deposits as the clearing work proceeds.

PETER, HELEN KROGER

Spy Team Transferred To Top Security Jails

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's security-harried Labor government Wednesday completed the transfer of a husband-and-wife team of Russian spies to top security jails.

Peter Korger, 55, jailed for 20 years in 1961 for betraying British naval secrets to the Russians, was whisked by police car from Wakefield prison in the north of England to Parkhurst jail on the Isle of Wight.

His transfer followed that of his wife Helen Kroger, 52, from a Midland jail to London's Holloway women's prison on Monday. Mrs. Kroger is also serving a 20-year term.

The transfers were part of the new security crackdown ordered by the government in the wake of Saturday's sensational escape of master-spy George Blake from West London's Wormwood Scrubs jail.

Blake, a former double-agent serving 42 years for betraying Britain's intelligence network to the Russians, was generally believed to have made it safely into Soviet hands.

The Krogers, who held Canadian passports, already have been the subject of Russian attempt to win their release

Last year the Soviet government offered to exchange them for British languages lecturer Gerald Brooke, serving five years in Russia for security offenses. The Soviet bid was rejected by the British government.

It was believed the Soviet efforts to win the Krogers' release were prompted by Russian master spy Gordon Lonsdale, head of the spy ring to which the Krogers belonged.

Lonsdale, real name Konon Molódov, was sentenced at London's Old Bailey to 25 years. But last year the British exchanged him for Greville Wynne, British businessman jailed by the Russians on charges of acting as a courier for since-executed spy Oleg Penkovsky.

The Isle of Wight's Parkhurst prison, to which Peter Kroger was transfered, has a recently-built top security wing. It is now the abode of Britain's great train robbers and assorted child rapists and murderers.

FREEDOM FROM WHAT?

BONN (AP) — Residents near the Bonn railway station have placarded their houses with signs saying they want freedom from prostitutes. Police and local authorities are baffled by the problem. Registered prostitution is legal in West Germany and witnesses cannot be found to testify that they have been accosted, which is illegal.

Alberni Contribution Boosts Wales Fund

Lower Toll Indicated

ABERFAN, Wales (Reuters)—The final death toll from the avalanche of coal waste which overwhelmed a school and a row of houses in Aberfan Friday may be much lower than preliminary estimates.

Police said Wednesday that they still did not know the number of villagers missing, but believed it was about 10.

So far, 145 bodies, mostly of children trapped in the school, have been recovered.

The police estimate would put the toll much lower than the first reports of the disaster, which estimated the death toll at around 200.

A final check may have to be made by door-to-door inquiries in this shattered and grieving village.

Donations ranging from 50 cents to $50 today raised the Aberfan Distress Fund to more than $350.

D. G. Galliford of Alberni sent a cheque for $50 to Mrs. Phyllis Hill, president of Victoria Cymrodorion Society, which is trying to raise $1,000 to help those who lost their homes and children in Friday's disaster.

Donations should be sent to Aberfan Distress Fund, Imperial Bank of Commerce, Douglas and Cormorant Streets, Victoria.

"I'm just thrilled with the response we've had," Mrs. Hill said. "We've had donations from all over Vancouver Island."

Floods Hit Algeria

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Fifty-seven persons have died and 15,900 have been left homeless by recent heavy rains and floods in Algeria, the labor ministry reported Tuesday.

'Too Late To Stop Now' Say Teachers

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia teachers aren't prepared to make financial sacrifices to ease the province's economic woes, a B.C. Teachers' Federation spokesman said today.

Des Grady, BCTF administrator, said teachers aren't entirely convinced of the urgency for wage demand restraint as called for by the federal and provincial governments.

In any case, he said, it's too late to stop now.

Mr. Grady was commenting on a statement Tuesday by J. B. Lamont, chairman of the labor relations committee of the B.C. School Trustees' Association, who said teachers' wage demands this year are too high to believe.

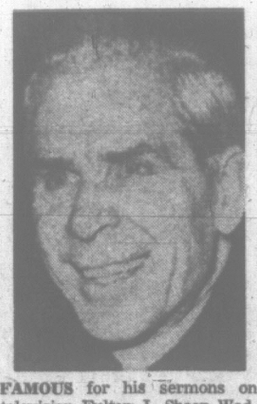

He said some teachers are demanding as high as 20 per cent increases, and one demand was for a 30.5 per cent raise.

Mr. Grady said: Teachers are just as concerned as the rest about the economic picture, but why should they be put on the sacrificial altar for the economic woes of the province?"

Frank Beinder of Trail, president of the B.C. School Trustees' Association, said he was not worried about the teachers' demands.

"They usually start high and work down," he said.

He said Nov. 14 is the date set for compulsory arbitration, and there is plenty of time to negotiate before then.

FAMOUS for his sermons on television Fulton J. Sheen Wednesday was named by Pope Paul VI to be bishop ofthe diocese of Rochester, N.Y. Bishop Sheen, 71, attained prominence in the 1950s with his TV program, "Life Is Worth Living." He retired from TV work a few years ago, but this year resumed weekly programs on some stations.

Campbell Urges Vancouver-Hope Regional Board

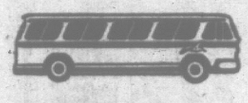

BURNABY (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell Wednesday called for formation of one regional district to provide services to 28 municipalities from Vancouver to Hope.

In an address to about 50 reeves, mayors and administrators of the municipalities, Mr. Campbell said the area is a geographic unit and should form one regional district.

He was speaking at the first public hearing into proposed formation of a lower mainland regional district.

Mr. Campbell said the municipalities would have the final say on what functions the regional district would have.

"We don't want to ram anything down anybody's throat," he said.

BUSINESS VIEWS

B.C. Gas Fields Get Major Boost

By AB KENT
Business Writer

Northeastern B.C. came a step closer to El Dorado this week with the granting of an export permit for 100 million cubic feet of natural gas per day.

The National Energy Board gave Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd., permission to pipe the gas over the international boundary at Sumas, B.C. There it will be taken by El Paso Natural Gas Co. for distribution in the western states.

El Paso already takes 300 million cubic feet of gas per day from Canada. It seeks an additional 200 million and aims ultimately for 900 million cubic feet per day.

★ ★ ★

What this means to producers is further development and markets for the established rich gas fields of northern British Columbia, which lie next to Alberta's vast new reserves of oil and gas.

B.C. manager of the Canadian Petroleum Association, Bert McGillivray points out that Pacific Petroleum alone planned to drill up to 80 new wells if the Westcoast permit were granted.

Pacific Pete signified its intention when hearings on the application were heard, and plans its development work in the Fort St. John and Fort Nelson areas.

Pan American also promised to step up its activity there, spending $18 million this winter for a total investment of $56 million in that corner of the province.

"I would think this would be general all along the line," Mr. McGillivray said, "now that the market is there at an increased price."

★ ★ ★

The export permit is "pretty impressive," he said, "and that's only the gas side of it.

"If they hit muskeg oil, that would be stupendous, and I think it is only a question of time," he added.

Since the established fields sit on the same subterranean formations, there is every reason to believe B.C. is due for some big new oil fields.

The new export price is 35.5 cents per thousand cubic feet, 13 cents more than the current price. Nov. 1 is the starting date for the permit, which expires next Oct. 31, or when 25 billion cubic feet have been exported, or a permanent licence issued, or licenee denied.

The Westcoast bid to export for El Paso an additional 200 million cubic feet per day besides the 100 million just granted would cover a 25-year period as the first phase of a contract with the U.S. gas distribution company.

As for money to finance new exploration programs, Mr. McGillivray said companies do feel the tight money pinch, but there is still tax money available in the U.S. and companies will put it where it will be most productive.

NIXON

Ex-naval officer C. Patrick Nixon, of Ottawa, is the new executive secretary of the Canada-Japan Trade Council.

The 48-year-old former B.C. resident retired from the RCN this year with a background of extensive overseas postings and travels dating from 1939 when he won his commission as a sub-lieutenant.

Born in Nova Scotia, the wartime destroyer commander grew up in B.C. and attended Victoria College.

Some 300 delegates are expected to attend the B.C. convention of Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy at Empress Hotel starting today and running through Saturday.

Among guest speakers will be Mines Minister Donald Brothers, at the offical opening of business Saturday morning; provincial archivist Willard Ireland at Saturday luncheon, and writer-broadcaster David Brock at dinner.

There will be technical sessions including presentations on Shell Oil's new off-shore drilling platform, mole tunnelling, training trends in mining, the Red Mountain molybdenum mine, raise boring and various geological and exploration papers.

Technical tours will include trips to Western Mines' Myra Creek operation, Ocean Cement quarry and a tour of the Victoria, Duncan, Maple Bay and Crofton areas to illustrate geological formations.

STANDARD OIL EARNINGS SET RECORD

NEW YORK (AP) — Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey recorded all-time high sales and earnings the first nine months this year, M. L. Haider, chairman, has reported.

Sales were $10,040,000,000, up 7.2 per cent from the $9,371,000,000 recorded through Sept. 30, 1965.

Earnings were $833,000,000, or $3.87 a share, up 8.3 per cent from $769,000,000 or $3.57 a share last year.

Ont. Group Demands Gas Guarantee

OTTAWA (CP) — A militant group of MPs and municipal officials from northwestern and Northern Ontario won a promise Wednesday that their natural gas needs will be met before any export permit is granted to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

The group, organized by Robert Andras (L—Port Arthur), met for about two hours with a cabinet group headed by Prime Minister Pearson.

The delegation objected to the recent decision allowing Trans-Canada to run its second pipeline throught the U.S. to Sarnia so it could handle export shipments as well as serve southern Ontario points.

NO GUARANTEE

They maintained that the promise by Trans-Canada to twin its existing Canadian line in 1970 offered no guarantee that Northern Ontario needs would be met in the interim.

One delegate at the closed meeting said figures given in evidence before the national energy board showed that 60 per cent of all gas entering Ontario in the present line was used in Northern and northwestern Ontario.

Finance Minister Sharp promised to check into the statement immediately and said Trans-Canada will not get an export licence unless the present and future needs of the north will be met first.

Appeal for Public Support Considered by 120 Miners

Cowichan Copper miners' union is considering a public appeal for more government interest in the plight of 120 out-of-work men.

The miners are innocent victims of a financial muddle which prompted Aetna Investments to suspend operations and give up management of the Sunro mine for Cowichan Copper Co. Ltd.

Kenneth Thompson, president of Local 1012, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, said he would like to see the public taking a greater interest in the miners and their families. They now are beginning to suffer hardships.

He said public concern might have some effect on the provincial labor department. It has the responsibility of securing back wages amounting to more than $40,000.

But the labor department is already doing what can be done within the terms of the Industrial Relations and Payment of Wages Acts.

Industrial relations board is meeting this week. One of the items on its agenda is the issuance of a certificate that may be filed in court to give judicial weight to an order for payment of wages.

SOCIAL ASSISTANCE

Meanwhile, 26 of the 120 jobless men are getting social assistance for their families.

The rest are on unemployment insurance, which pays a maximum $27 per week to single men, $36 to married men.

They are long overdue on grocery bills and, for most, the rent is past due. Mr. Thompson estimates 80 have big bills hanging over them.

About 25 are facing mortgage instalments overdue since work stopped 5½ weeks ago.

"So far merchants and landlords have been most co-operative. But they are getting quite worried about it now," Mr. Thompson said.

They are wondering how long they can carry so many people on their books in such a small centre of population.

Thirty men have left Jordan River and Sooke area to work at a variety of jobs elsewhere.

The majority of mine openings in B.C. are filled, the union president said.

He said they do not have enough money to travel to other prospects such as Western Mines at Buttle Lake or Britannia Beach on the mainland.

The union can find out where there are likely prospects. But it is unable to offer further assistance, Mr. Thompson said.

Soviet Woods Specialists On Island

Six Russian forestry specialists, headed by M. V. Kanevsky, chief of the forestry department's logging branch in the U.S.S.R., met with B.C. Forests Minister Ray Williston Tuesday.

Mr. Williston himself was just back from a week in Finland negotiating with pulp company interests there and he is expected to visit Russia next spring with Premier Bennett.

The Russians were to visit the Duncan-Cowichan and Alberni areas until Monday to see B.C. methods of wood production and then spend four days in Vancouver before continuing a cross-country tour.

They were being escorted Tuesday by Hilding Ekblad of the Sandwell and Company Ltd. consulting firm in Vancouver which recently sent engineers to Russia to examine their methods on behalf of B.C. forest companies.

MONTREAL FIRM

$5 Million Payment Ordered by Court

TORONTO (CP) — Societe Financiere pour le Commerce et l'Industrie Ltd., a Montreal-based private investment banking firm, was ordered Wednesday to pay $5,001,900 plus interest to Royal Securities Corp. Ltd. in an Ontario Supreme Court case involving a worthless cheque that led to the collapse of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. Ltd. in June, 1965.

Chief Justice G. A. Gale, in a 74-page written judgment, ordered a promissory note by Atlantic for $5,001,900, held by Royal, to be turned over to SFCI.

A promissory note is a senior secured note. Investment dealers estimate the eventual recovery of this class of security from Atlantic Acceptance, which is in receivership, will range between 70 and 95 per cent of face value.

The case arose when SFCI made a weekend loan of $5,000,000 to Atlantic Acceptance for $,1900 interest, with Royal Securities acting between the two parties.

Royal accepted an uncertified cheque for $5,001,900 from Atlantic Acceptance in its Toronto office, cancelled the promissory note, and ordered its Montreal office to pay the sum to SFCI hours before it was learned that Atlantic's cheque was not honored at the bank. Refusal to honor Atlantic's cheque led to the collapse of the finance company the same week.

THOUGHT CHEQUE GOOD

Chief Justice Gale said Royal's payment of $5,001,900 to SFCI was made in the mistaken belief by the company that it had received a valid cheque from Atlantic.

He said Royal was acting as agent for SFCI in the weekend loan deal.

"It must be taken that Royal Securities was given the authority to act in the usual and ordinary way in the particular trade," the chief justice said.

He said it was the practice in the trade, according to testimony by six experts in the money market, for dealers to accept uncertified cheques from corporate concerns and to deliver securities on receipt of the cheques. This practice was widespread among dealers in Montreal and Toronto, he said.

SFCI mush have known the practice of dealers accepting uncertified cheques in payment of loans and surrender of securities for the cheques, he said.

"It is a fact that since the fall of Atlantic Acceptance in June, 1965, the practice no longer prevails," Chief Justice Gale wrote. "That, in my mind, cannot be taken as an indication that it was an unreasonable practice to begin with."

Hudson's Bay Oil Earnings Jump

CALGARY (CP) — Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas Co. Ltd., has reported net earnings for the first nine months of 1966 of $12,159,000 or 66 cents a share, an increase of 12.4 per cent over the same period last year.

Earnings for the third quarter were $5,156,000 or 28 cents a share, up 27.2 per cent over the third quarter last year.

Crude oil and natural gas liquids production increased 10.2 per cent to 42,136 barrels a day and sales of natural gas increased 24.2 per cent to 137,400,000 cubic feet a day.

Castrol Takeover Bid Due

LONDON (Reuters) — Nearly £6,000,000 was added today to the market value of Castrol shares following disclosure by its chairman that a mystery bidder is about to make an offer for the British company — the world's biggest independent lubricating oil concern.

A Castrol spokesman said today that the name of the bidder—who would have to put up more than £40,000,000 to gain control of the company — is expected to be disclosed later.

In financial circles three possible bidders were suggested.

They are Britain's Burmah Oil Company; the Gulf Oil Company of the United States and the American Texaco Company.

Spokesmen for all three companies declined to comment on the takeover report.

In the stock market the possibility that the mystery bidder is Burmah was reflected in a higher price being offered for their shares.

Some financial circles believe, however, that Gulf is the more likely purchaser, as ownership of Castrol would fit into their expansion program, which includes the building of a vast crude oil terminal in Ireland to serve its European markets.

LARRY McNABB

Larry's Fine Late Try Helps to Placate Max

San Diego 4; Victoria 4
By DOUG PEDEN

McNab was angry with McNabb and that could be the reason San Diego Gulls have their first point of the Western Hockey League season.

Forced to play 13 games on the road while their posh new ice palace is being rushed to completion, the fledgling Gulls finished as also-rans in their first four trips to the post.

It's been a rough start, but hard work eventually brings its reward and the Gulls snapped the losing streak the hard way Wednesday night at Memorial Arena. They made it in a photo finish with the unbeaten Victoria Maple Leafs, bouncing from behind for a 4-4 tie.

Things didn't look too bright for the Californians in the opening minutes as Larry Keenan popped a shot behind San Diego goalie Les Binkley and the Leafs continued to exert pressure.

The outlook was even dimmer at 3:49 when Gull defenceman Larry McNabb got tagged with a slashing penalty and picked up a 10-minute misconduct sentence for some not-so-choice words to referee Willie Papp.

"You won't see me in here again tonight," announced Larry from the penalty box. "Look at Max," he said, nodding toward manager-coach Max McNab on the other side of the rink, "he's so mad at me he won't even talk to me."

Although John MacMillan pulled the Gulls even before Larry finished his misconduct sentence, Max still wasn't talking. He turned his back as Larry skated out of the box and then sat the burly defenceman on the end of the bench for the remainder of the period.

Whether it was a desire to get back on conversational terms with his coach or a longing for a victory, Larry was a valuable, although somewhat cautious, player in the final two periods.

And he may have made the big play of the game with only a few seconds remaining in 10-minute, sudden-death, overtime session. Victoria's Milan Marcetta was sent through the middle by Andy Hebenton and appeared to have a clear run at the goal, but McNabb somehow arrived in time to spoil Marcetta's shot.

Binkley Again a Burglar in Goal

McNabb landed on his chin as both piled into the end boards and was still groggy when the game ended, but he may have earned at least a "thank you" from the one-B man when the Gulls returned to their dressing room.

GREAT GULLS!

Two other Gulls were even more prominent, even if not more valuable.

McMillan, a going concern and shooting bull's eyes all night, salvaged the tie with the only goal of the third period and Binkley continued to commit burglary against the Leafs.

Binkley, who stopped 50 shots while the Gulls were losing 3-1 to Victoria last Saturday, blocked 47 Wednesday to make it 97 in two games with coach Frank Mario's men, who now have three wins and two ties in five starts and are one point behind the front-running Portland Buckaroos.

Len Ronson and Len Haley also counted for the Gulls during a five-goal second period.

Dick Lamoureux, Bruce Carmichael, perhaps the most efficient Victoria performer, and defenceman Fred Hucul fired second-period goals for the Leafs, who were in front three times and held a 4-2 margin with less than three minutes remaining in the middle session

AVERAGE DOUBLED

San Diego's shooting accuracy almost doubled the goals-against average of rookie Victoria goalie Al Smith, who had yielded only four goals and posted two shutouts in the first four games.

Smitty still came up with a solid game and needed several sparkling saves as the Gulls were getting openings for close-in shots.

The San Diegans earned their chances with hustle and determination but they found extra room to work when the Victoria forwards were sometimes slow in back-checking and left gaps in front of the defence.

Although the Leafs at times appeared to lack cohesion many of their troubles could be blamed on tenacious tactics of the Gulls. In the fast-moving game, the Leafs were forced to settle for a draw not so much because of a let-down in their part, but more because of an improved and efficient performance by the Gulls.

Yes, Gordie, He Has It

Casting hopeful glance over shoulder after cutting past Victoria goal for shot is San Diego defenceman Gordie Sinclair (3). Relieved to see that goalie Al Smith has puck under control is Victoria defender Claude Labrosse (5). Rookie netminder needed several good stops Wednesday night to keep Gulls from scoring first victory of Western Hockey League season and Maple Leafs finally settled for 4-4 overtime tie at Memorial Arena. No, Shoemaker is not going to ride side-saddle. Or blindfolded.

The world's second leading rider of all time announced he had purchased Santa Anita racetrack.

Earlier it had been indicated that Shoemaker had also bought Los Angeles. But he denied this at a press conference.

'I had considered it (buying LA),' Shoemaker said, 'but I understand Jack Kent Cooke or Ronald Reagan already have options on it.'

Asked if he proposed to make any changes to Santa Anita, Shoemaker said, 'I have a few in mind.

'The horses only run there three months of the year. The other nine months it could develop into a worthwhile holding. I might rent it to Dean Martin for parties. The joint's got lotsa bars and really swell chandeliers for swinging on. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer could use the infield to film Son of a Desert Prince. Or Jayne Mansfield might want to use it to model her new fashion line. I think it's called Next-to-Nothing. Anybody know Jayne's phone number?' "

This Week's Special—Walt Gordon

"TORONTO, Ont. — Gene Kiniski, the world's wrestling champion (next month) today abandoned the cauliflower trade for what he called 'greener pastures.'

Feeling for his ears (which some itinerant colleague had inadvertently spread all over the side of his head) Mr. Kiniski said, 'I'm trou wid gettin' lettuce. Dis is a tough racket. I'm gonna' git me the whole damn patch.'

And how did he propose to do this?

'Aw, it's simple,' Kiniski said. 'I just bought the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa.'

How had he managed that?

'I just went up to ol' Lester—he's a good sport, ya know—, and asked him if they were for sale. He said sure, everything I got's for sale. Take your pick—medicare, the bank act, immigration. There's a special this week. Walter Gordon.'

But Lester really didn't sell the buildings?

'Did so,' Kiniski said. 'He sed a bunch of guys from every province was tryin' to git the shirt off his back but I was da first guy who ever wanted to giv' him money. Besides, he sed, he wasn't sure he'd be needin' them much longer anyway.' "

They'll Get a Shock from Shack—

"DETROIT, Mich.—Gordon Howe today bought controlling interest in General Motors.

Howe, for 20 years, a simple paid hand with Detroit Red Wings, said self-preservation was his motivation.

'A guy can't hardly go to the supermarket anymore on a lousy 60 grand a year. Us athletes got to look to the future.'

A motor magazine reporter asked Howe if he hadn't slipped his transmission. The reporter pointed out that Ford had made inroads into GM's market by introducing the Mustang.

'I thought of that,' Howe said. 'But I have a solution. A guy doesn't take all those knocks on the head playing hockey without getting on occasional brainwave.'

So?

—'So,' Howe said, 'I'm going to hire Eddie Shack. I'm going to plant him right in the middle of the road where the Mustangs come off the line. They'll run into Shack . . . and get a shock.'

Howe licked his lips, savoring the thought.

"You think it won't work?' he asked, squinting at a skeptical writer. 'You just ask Pocket Rocket Richard or Stan Mikita or Murray Oliver. Hell, just ask anybody on Shack's team.' "

DENNIS HULL
. . . shades of Bobby

Those Hulls-a-Poppin' —Robert AND Dennis!

By The Canadian Press

Few would have believed that Dennis Hull would match his record-breaking brother Bobby when the two started the National Hockey League season with Chicago Black Hawks, but so far he has.

Bobby and Dennis each scored a goal Wednesday night as the Black Hawks downed Montreal Canadiens 5-3 in one of two scheduled NHL games.

In the other, Eddie Shack's first goal of the season mid-way through the final period proved to be the winner as Toronto Maple Leafs edged Detroit Red Wings 3-2.

Bobby Hull, who set blazing records last year when he scored 54 goals and 97 points, has scored four goals this season—three on power plays.

However, Dennis appears to have come into his own this year and with as many goals is only two points behind Bobby in the individual scoring parade.

The other Chicago marksmen Wednesday were rookie defenceman Ed Van Impe and veteran wingers Chico Maki and Ken Wharram.

BACKSTROM'S FIRST

For Montreal, Ralph Backstrom counted his first of the season in the opening period, Yvan Cournoyer his second in the middle frame and Bobby Rousseau his third in the third session.

In Toronto, left winger John Brenneman and defenceman Kent Douglas got the other goals for the Leafs. Paul Henderson scored both Detroit goals, his third and fourth of the season.

The win in Montreal extended Chicago's unbeaten streak to four games in as many starts this year and left the Canadiens with a 2-1 won-lost record.

Maki opened scoring at 16:01 of the first period but Backstrom evened the count 26 seconds later.

The Hawks roared back with three second - period goals by the Hulls and Van Impe to make the score 4-1. Cournoyer scored at 13:13 to narrow Chicago's lead to 4-2.

Wharram scored Chicago's fifth goal at 1:20 of the final period and Rousseau rounded out the scoring with a power-play goal while Maki was serving a slashing penalty.

FOURTH STRAIGHT LOSS

In Toronto, Detroit's loss was its fourth in as many outings this year, while the victory put Leafs in a third place tie with New York Rangers.

Brenneman opened the scoring mid-way through the second period by slapping Peter Stemkowski's pass past Detroit goalie Roger Crozier from 10 feet out.

Douglas made it 2-0 late in the period when he beat Crozier with a 45-foot slap shot. Stemkowski set up the goal on a pass-out from the corner.

Henderson's first goal came at 44 seconds of the third period when he swooped in to grab Norm Ullman's rebound and score.

Shack increased Toronto's lead to 3-1 at 8:29 when he took Larry Jeffrey's pass and cut in from left wing to beat Crozier.

The Wings came back when Henderson poked Gordie Howe's shot in under Toronto netminder Terry Sawchuk's pads, but the Leafs held on for the victory.

The slumping Red Wings returned to Detroit after the game where they meet the Rangers tonight in the only scheduled NHL contest.

TOM GORDON RETIRES AS BOXLA LOOP BOSS

VANCOUVER—Tom Gordon, commissioner of the Inter-City Lacrosse League for the past six years, announced his retirement from the position Wednesday night during a special league meeting.

Gordon, only man to hold the post, will step down at the annual league meeting in January. He said business pressure had prompted his decision, which he has considered for some time.

Delegates named a four-man committee to select a new commissioner.

The meeting announced that the annual all-star awards dinner will be held here November 18 and the Canadian Lacrosse Association annual meeting will be in New Westminster, December 3, 4 and 5.

Wayne Harris Named WFL's Top Lineman

REGINA (CP)—Wayne Harris of Calgary Stampeders, Lineman of the Year in Canada last season, today was named winner of the Becket - Demarco Trophy as best lineman of 1966 in the Western Football Conference.

R. H. Gilles, WFC secretary, said Harris, a 195 - pound linebacker, won by a narrow margin over E. A. Sims of Edmonton Eskimos.

Three Saskatchewan Roughriders — Garner Ekstran, Ted Urness and Al Benecick — finished in the next three spots.

Dick Fouts of British Columbia Lions, Becket - Demarco winner last year, was not prominent in balloting this season.

Harris was the first Stampeder selected for the honor since Don Luzzi in 1958.

Harris, 28, a six - foot graduate of Arkansas University, came to Calgary in 1961. He was runner - up in voting for CFL Lineman of the Year honors in 1962.

The trophy is named after Mel Becket and Mario Demarco, Saskatchewan stars who were killed in a plane crash in 1956 while returning from the East-West Shrine game.

Tyees Unveil Plans For Soccer Playoff

Victoria High Tyees are deadly serious about retaining the Inter-High School Soccer League championship.

Proof of their intentions came Wednesday.

They hammered second-place Mount View Hornets 4-2 in the final league game. The results had no affect on the standings.

The teams meet Nov. 4 for the Colonist Cup.

Rick Couch and John Pennington scored Victoria's goals. They put the Tyees ahead 2-0 early, saw Gordon Walker and Ted Bailey pull Hornets even.

Just before the half Pennington took a good pass from Brian Robinson and scored the winning goal.

PACKED DEFENCE

Both teams packed their defence in the second half. Couch outfooted the Hornets to take a long pass and drive home his final goal.

In the day's other game, fourth-place Mount Douglas blanked last-place Esquimalt 3-0.

Fans Behind Us Boucher Claims

REGINA (CP) — Excellent fan support has assured the success of the Canadian Major Junior Hockey League, commissioner Frank Boucher said Wednesday.

Boucher said in a prepared statement after a league meeting that the fans are encouraged by the fact players and management are supplying the best junior hockey available.

The statement repeated that commissioner and governors are not prepared to put up with "any further unwarranted interference."

Every effort has been made to abide by regulations of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, Boucher said.

"For the last time it must be reitereated that the league followed the regulations of the CAHA in forming the CMJHL by obtaining approval of the Saskatchewan and Alberta branches.

'WILL OPERATE'

"The league was properly constituted and no amount of twisting and turning by the CAHA executive, its president or secretary-manager can change this absolute fact."

The statement expressed regret that the CAHA has outlawed the CMJHL, but "the league will continue to operate."

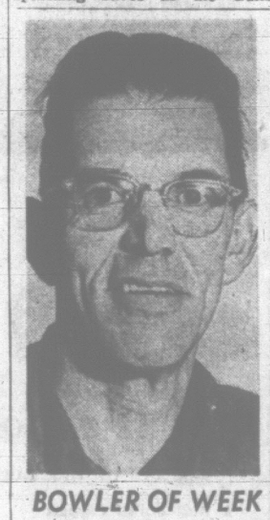

"Since the CAHA has refused to recognize the existence of the league, it has no right to interfere with the commissioner, the governors, the officials or the players by announcing suspensions publicly."

ACTION PROMISED

He promised to institute court action at once if the CAHA does not withdraw "the inference of wrongdoing which flows from the suspensions."

Seven league governors joined Boucher at the meeting.

Governors are Del Wilson of Regina, Bill Hunter of Edmonton, Scotty Munro of Estevan, J. A. Piggott of Saskatoon, Alex Monteith of Weyburn, Don Hutton of Moose Jaw and Bet Hatskins of Winnipeg.

VIKING VIEWS

By MIKE WOODLEY

Several teams on the University of Victoria campus are preparing for what they hope will be conquering seasons and two of them have their sights set on Canadian championships.

One is coach Wally Yeamans' Vikettes, who placed second by only two points last spring in the national junior women's basketball tournament at Uvic. Also with title ambitions are the volleyball Vikings, who barely missed the Canadian junior crown in Calgary seven months ago.

Both these teams have been scampering through twice-weekly workouts since the current term started and both Yeamans and volleyball coach Don Smyth are hoping their teams will wind up their seasons with 1967 Canadian championships.

Vikettes have not yet hit the courts in competition but the Vikings answered their first battle test by winning the Mission City men's open volleyball tournament three weeks ago. This was quite an accomplishment since the average age of the Uvic club is only 18.6 years.

"All the best teams in B.C. were there and we came out on top," said coach Smyth, who hopes that this opening victory is indicative of things to come.

"Our next competition," explains Smyth, "is going to be the first weekend in December. This will be what they call the Evergreen Opener in Oregon. It is the start of their season down south; Portland, Seattle, Eugene, the whole Pacific Northwest. This is a big one as it is the first large tournament of the year and it's one we feel will be very valuable to us."

The majority of Don's players on the Vikings are from Victoria Senior Secondary School, one of the few local schools where volleyball is played. Personnel-wise, his team is pretty well set now with only one or two spots still to be filled.

★ ★ ★

Here is the Viking lineup as it stands at present, with players' positions, years registered at Uvic and age indicated:

Derek Reimer, setter, second year, 19; John Philips, spiker, second year, 19; Bob Ireland, setter, fourth year, 20; Jim Vosburgh, spiker, first year, 17; Merridth Spike, spiker, second year, 18; Ken Bartesko, spiker, first year, 17; Cliff Ridley, spiker, first year, 17; Don Peden, spiker, first year, 22.

With the exception of Peden, all players have graduated from Smyth's Victoria High teams. "They represent two B.C. titles," comments Smyth, "and a few from each winning team have stayed together."

While in high school the boys played exhibition games against Senior B company on the mainland and south of the border. For the past two years, while at Uvic, they have faced strong Senior A competition.

"This is why these boys are quite good," says the genial Smyth. "They've been playing senior teams now for four years and it helps."

★ ★ ★

Judging by their past performance, all is not as rosy as it could be on the Vikings' horizon. Their coach explains it this way: "We lost the Canadian junior last year because of injuries and this is our big problem. We don't have depth. But I can still see us doing well in the Canadian and people like Philips, Vosburgh, and Reimer having a shot at places on the Pan-American Games team, but any one injury is a key injury to us.

"We have a very novel system because we have quite a small team. It's very complex and you take one of the key people out and it just sort of ruins the whole thing.

"It is a modification of the European style. I was fortunate enough to travel back east with the Russians (the Russian and American National teams staged a series of exhibition matches across Canada a year ago) and I watched their method of play quite closely and we have adapted this with a few innovations of our own. It works well."

★ ★ ★

Most of this term the Vikings will concentrate on practice before swinging into a busy tournament schedule in the new year.

They'll stage their annual invitational tournament in January and during the third week of February, Smyth, who is also coach of the B.C. junior team, will take about six of his Vikings with the provincial team to the Canadian junior meet at the Winter Games in Quebec City.

Although all this travelling could come just before final exams, the Vikings feel "it is worth a try."

"They have to be in Montreal to even be considered for the Pan-Am team," Smyth said "Several of them have worked three or four years for this and they deserve a chance."

Despite hard work and expert coaching in the past two years, top laurels in the Canadian volleyball world have eluded the Uvic crew.

Perhaps this time Lady Luck will smile and the Vikings and Don Smyth will return from Montreal in late March, champions of all they survey.

Stamps' Task Easier —By a Single Point

WINNIPEG (CP) — Calgary Stampeders' bleak hopes for a Western Football Conference playoff berth improved a bit Wednesday.

They won't have to beat the Eskimos by 22 points in Edmonton Saturday night as previously reported. All they need is 21 points.

This is the word from Syd Halter, Canadian Football League commissioner, who spelled out the playoff situation this way:

Should Eskimos win, or lose by fewer than 21 points, they would get the third and final playoff spot because of an edge in three regular-season games with Calgary. Edmonton would face the Blue Bombers in the sudden-death semi-final in Winnipeg Sunday, Nov. 6.

Should Stampeders win by 21 points, the clubs would be even for the season—each with a victory and a draw and the same number of points.

Third place then would be decided on the clubs' for-and-against scoring record against all opponents.

Calgary now has the better for-against record, 198-243 compared to Edmonton's 235-299, and would, of course, hold it with a 21-point triumph.

Stampeders could also win by more than 21 points and get third place on the basis of having the upper hand in the season's outings against Edmonton.

B.C. Blueboys Were Blue Boys

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Vancouver Blueboys, Canada's representatives in the World Softball Tournament here, were defeated 4-1 by New Zealand and 8-2 by the United States in games Tuesday.

The Canadians won their only previous game.

Limping Sadler Evens Matters

Barry Sadler is on the limp, and that should just about put him on even terms with the Pacific Soccer League shooters who haven't had much success scoring on the Victoria O'Keefe goaltender.

Sadler was one of four Victoria players who reported with injuries as O'Keefes began sprucing up for their Saturday date with Vancouver Columbus.

The match at Macdonald Park starts at 2 p.m. and will mark the first home game for Victoria since Oct. 8.

The news of Sadler's injury spells good news for Columbus. Bustling Barry has shut out Columbus in two successive games. Unable to score on Sadler in 180 minutes, you can't blame Columbus for hoping for "a break." Of any kind.

TWO IN, TWO OUT

But Sadler, who also has scored two other shutouts in Victoria's five games, plans to show up . . . ailing leg and all.

Barry was hobbling painfully, the after-effects of a kick he received on his left leg in last week's game.

Like Sadler, starry Ike MacKay is limping from a kick. But, like Sadler, MacKay is expected to play.

Not so halfback Bill Hamilton and winger Marty Taylor. Hamilton suffered possible pulled knee ligaments in the rough game with Burnaby last Sunday. Taylor is expected to be out for another week as the result of an ankle injury suffered Oct. 16.

The injuries give coach Frank Grealy a chance to worry. With three victories and two draws, the worries haven't been many this season.

SOUTAR RETURNS

Bert Soutar put a stop to some of Grealey's fretting by announcing he plans to relocate in Victoria again. Soutar, whose crosses from the wing are a thing of beauty and a joy to behold, played with United for two seasons before his firm transferred him to Vancouver earlier this year.

Now the firm has decided Soutar can stay in Victoria.

Exile order rescinded, Soutar is expected to be on hand at tonight's workout.

In addition to his talents, Soutar also is expected to have his transfer papers from New Westminster Royals.

Leeds in Third Round

LONDON (Reuters) — Dunfermline of Scotland defeated Dynamo Zagreb of Yugoslavia Wednesday in the first leg of a second-round match in the Inter-Cities Fairs Cup soccer competition.

In another match, Leeds advanced to the third round by defeating DWS of Amsterdam, 5-1, to take the two-match series, 8-2.

They are blowing the whistle this week for basketball referees.

All sessions are open to players and coaches from the Victoria area.

Unsportsmanship Costs Sportsmen

WINNIPEG (CP)—Syd Halter, commissioner of the Canadian Football League, Wednesday fined two players $50 each for unsportsmanlike behavior.

Mike Walderzak, a guard for Ottawa Rough Riders, and Mario Mariani, a defensive end for Toronto Argonauts, were fined for conduct resulting in match penalties in an Eastern Conference game in Toronto Sunday.

Oak Bay Homecoming

The grads come back Friday to help put the wrapping on Oak Bay High School's "Fun and Fitness Week."

It's homecoming night.

Soccer, rugby and grass hockey matches will be played at 4 p.m. Basketball caps the evening celebrations.

Among the grads expected to return for soccer activity are Ike MacKay, John Hibberson, Pete Robarts and Mike Swanson. Last year's most valuable player in the provincial tournament, Bruce MacKenzie, heads the list of male grads coming back to the basketball floor, starting at 8:30.

On the distaff side, names such as Lyn and Lee Haaglund, Marg Oliver and Gaynol Vosburg will again flash into prominence in a girls' basketball game that starts at 7:15.

GAYLORD, GAIL ROSS . . . . . FINISH ONE-TWO

Flawless Rides by Canucks

NEW YORK (CP) — The Canadian equestrian team, given flawless rides by veteran Tom Gayford and pretty Gail Ross, finished one-two in the international jumping event at the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden Wednesday.

A crowd of 7,000 cheered Gayford, of Gormley, Ont., to victory in the Frederick D. MacKay memorial trophy competition — a big win that put the Canadians right up there with the leading Americans.

Miss Ross, from Edmonton, was second. Gayford's time 90.3 seconds whil Miss Rosse did it in 94.5.

In the team honors, the United States was the leader with 38 points after two jumping victories Tuesday when the eight-day show opened. Canada was second with 20 points. Chile had eight, and Republic of Ireland one.

Kathy Kusner of the U.S. remained the individual leader with 20 points, followed by Gayford and Bill Steinkraus, the American captain, with 10 apiece.

In the puissance stake jumping, Dear Brutus, owned by Airy Plantation of Green Pond, S.C., startled the crowd by easily clearing seven feet, one inch, one of the few times this has been done at the Garden.

Gayford, aboar Blue Beau, did it in 1962.

Annual Road Races At Vic High Friday

One of the big days of the season for the pavement-pounding set comes up Friday at Victoria High School.

A sophisticated new machine is being used on Vancouver Island to install underground wiring for the B.C. Telephone Company. The machine was brought from Portland and is shown here being used to install underground wiring in MacMillan Park on the Alberni Highway. It can be used either at the side of the highway or in the woods. At the right Port Alberni Mayor Leslie Hammer is shown holding a section of the composite wire which is being used to improve winter communications to the Alberni Valley. Broken telephone wires plagued the Valley last year, interrupting communications each time there was a storm. One of the main reasons the cable is being installed now is because of the uproar by Valley residents last year.

Duncan Teen-Agers Plan Gift For Industrial School Inmates

DUNCAN — Members of Duncan Teen Town will stage bake and rummage sales in November in aid of industrial school inmates.

The money they collect will go toward buying a television set for Brannen Lake Correctional School near Nanaimo.

This is the outcome of a visit to the school by Jim Quaife, adult adviser to Teen Town here.

He is a member of the newly formed Duncan Family Court Committee which paid a recent visit to Brannen Lake.

Pointed out to them was a section of some 16 "honor" students who have their own dormitory and living area.

The school principal told the committee he was trying to get the boys a TV set.

It is hoped the TV set will provide an incentive to the rest of the boys to try to become honor students.

The Duncan teen-agers hope to be able to make the presentation in early December.

Meantime the Teen Town volleyball team has issued a challenge to the Brannen Lake boys.

Mr. Quaife said: "Our members are really interested in knowing about the setup at the school and this is one of the ways they can get in without making the inmates feel uncomfortable."

A Teen Town executive meeting this week also agreed to provide a weekend cavalcade of cars to take older Duncan and district residents for sightseeing drives.

Mr. Quaife is to contact the local old-age pensioners' association and residents of Duncan Kiwanis Village.

B.C. Jobless 2nd Highest In Canada

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's unemployment rate now ranks second highest in Canada, though the number of persons working in the province is up 7.4 per cent over September of last year, according to figures released Wednesday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The figures show unemployment jumped from 3.6 per cent in August to a rate of 4 per cent in September.

Only the Atlantic region, with a rate of 4.2 per cent, tops B.C.

The labor force in B.C. totalled 726,000 in September and of these, 29,000 persons were seeking jobs.

The jobless total showed a 2,000 increase from August and is up 10,000 over September of last year.

The number of persons employed, however, is 697,000, compared with 649,000 at the same time last year.

Canada manpower officials said the .4 per cent unemployment increase is due to layoffs in the lumber industry, where an estimated 3,000 persons are out of work because of a decline in housing starts and a general export market decline.

Despite gloomy predictions from forest industry officials, the Canada Manpower Centre, refused to predict the jobless trend in the woods industry will spread to other areas of the B.C. economy.

"There are too many variables," a Manpower official said.

DISTURBED CHILDREN

Ontario Orders Treatment Probe

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government today launched a study into the care and treatment of emotionally-disturbed children at Warrendale Treatment Centre here and Toronto-based Brown Camps Ltd., focus of controversy in recent weeks.

Health Minister Matthew Dymond announced that the inquiry will be conducted by a four-member panel of experts headed by Dr. J. C. Rathbun, head of the department of pediatrics at the University of Western Ontario, London, Ont.

Controversy over the centres has been boiling since last summer when Warrendale's board fired its director, John Brown, some time after he had been named a New Democratic Party candidate for the next Ontario general election. The director, known for unorthodox methods, had been operating Brown Camps simultaneously and since then has extended their operations.

Dr. Dymond said in a statement today the controversy "is not only creating serious difficulties for those engaged in the operation and planning of treatment programs for emotionally-disturbed children but, more important, is detrimental to the well-being of the children involved."

"This cannot be allowed to continue," said the minister, whose department took over the privately - operated Warrendale Centre after the storm blew up.

CLOSED INQUIRY

He said the study will not be open to the public.

Besides the chairman, the other committee members are: Dr. Denis Lazure, director of the child psychiatric department, St. Justin's Hospital, Montreal; Dr. W. W. Lewis, associate professor of psychology at George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., and Miss Jean Dorgan of Ottawa, technical consultant for the civilian rehabilitation branch of the federal manpower department.

Mr. Brown already has announced his own inquiry into Brown Camps, to be conducted by Daniel Houwer, secretary-general of the Union for Child Welfare, a consulting agency of the United Nations at Geneva. This starts Nov. 15.

Meanwhile, Mr. Brown said Tuesday he will not answer a letter from J. V. Belknap, deputy superintendent of child welfare for the British Columbia government, critical of Mr. Brown's role in the dispute. The Brown organization operates a Vancouver treatment facility, the Anderson Centre, housing 11 children.

Mr. Belknap wrote Mr. Brown two weeks ago saying the controversy would not benefit the children in the Vancouver home. Mr. Brown said he does not consider that the letter represnts an expression of opinion by the B.C. government and does not plan to answer it.

U.K. Divorce Bill

LONDON (UPI) — The House of Commons gave an unopposed first reading Wednesday to a bill that would make divorce possible when a marriage has broken down irrevocably and the husband and wife have been separated for five years. Under existing law adultery, desertion or extreme cruelty are the only grounds for divorce in Britain.

HOME GARDEN

Keep Close Watch on Plants

By HILDA BEASTALL

More gardeners each year are discovering the advantages of a coldframe in the production and care of plants for the home and the garden.

Hilda

Potted bulbs of various kinds can be accompanied in a frame for the rooting period when no other facilities are available.

During the past week or so the glass covers will have been needed to shed the excessive rain, though the necessity for coolness must not be forgotten. The covers must be kept raised, and taken off entirely when rain is not falling.

Pots of tulips and daffodils can if necessary be rooted in a coldframe by heaping practically dry soil, sawdust or peat moss over them to a depth of several inches.

Freesias in pots can be stood on the flat soil bed of the frame without being buried. They will need checking occasionally to see that they are not too dry. The soil in the pots should be damp but not wet.

Other inhabitants of the coldframe, perhaps young rooted shrub cuttings, or border carnation cuttings, or seedlings will need this same attention at intervals during the next six months.

This is the kind of work which adds so much interest to gardening in this area.

We don't just cover a coldframe with a thick mat at the beginning of November and leave it that way until April. We give the frame and its occupants daily inspecton and attention.

This keeps us in touch with our plants every day of the year, regardless of the weather, or perhaps because of it.

Crown Witnesses Contradict Themselves

A man charged with assault causing bodily harm was acquitted in central court Wednesday when the magistrate found the prosecution witness incredible.

Ronald Wyatt, 2516 Shelbourne, was alleged to have fractured one woman's arm, slapped another and knocked out a man who came to their assistance.

Defence witnesses couldn't remember the slap, claimed the other woman fell when she tripped over a rug and said the other man attacked Wyatt for no apparent reason.

Prosecution witnesses contradicted each other and "were less than completely frank with the court" the magistrate said in throwing out the charge.

Union Leaders Try Again To Meet Cabinet

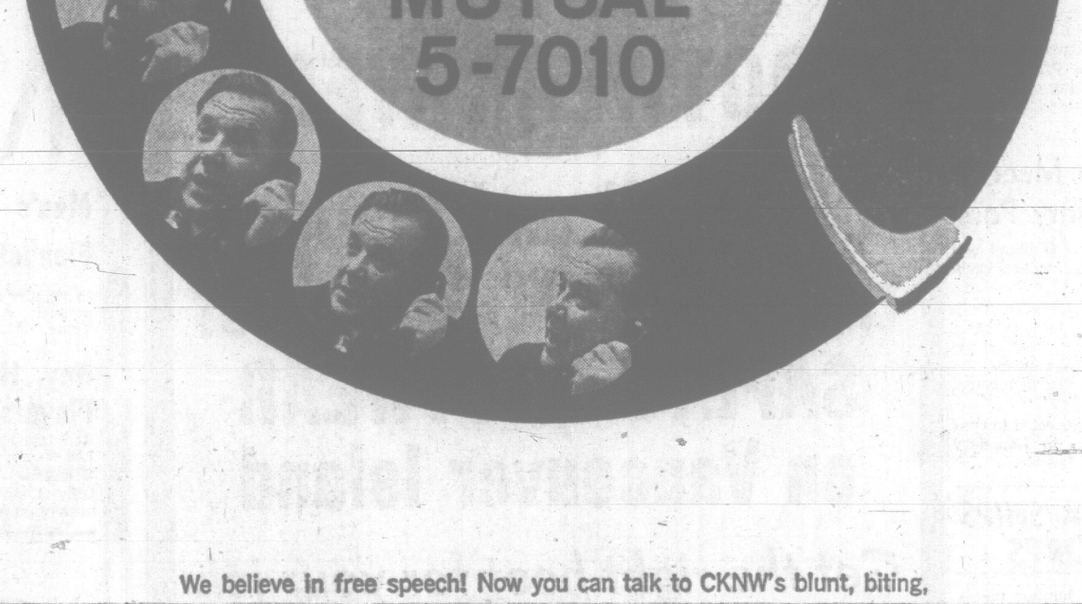

The B.C. Federation of Labour Wednesday made a second bid for a meeting with the cabinet on injunctions.

A telegram was sent to Provincial Secretary Wesley Black requesting a reply to a letter two weeks ago which sought a meeting with the cabinet.

The federation had hoped to present a brief to the cabinet on the use of injunctions in industrial disputes before its annual convention which begins in Vancouver Monday.

NHA Changes Draw Praise

Details on Existing Home Loans To Be Outlined in Ottawa Today

By PAUL DUNN

OTTAWA (CP)—A proposal to allow government-insured loans for purchase of existing houses drew opposition praise in the Commons Wednesday but overall housing policy took a hammering.

Labor Minister Nicholsn, responsible for housing policy, introduced a resolution setting out amendments to the National Housing Act—including the key proposal that would make NHA loans available for the first time to buy existing homes.

The Commons will return to the resolution today, with several NDP members anxious to speak on the item, and likely will give first reading to the bill spelling out the NHA amendments.

LABOR ESTIMATES NEXT

The House then is to turn to debate on estimates of the labor and Indian affairs departments and, time allowing, to interim supply.

The Housing Act amendments propose:

—To make insured loans available to buy existing homes, if the buyer intends to occupy and improve the house. Minimum and maximum loan figures won't be available until the bill is tabled after first reading.

—To increase by $1,000,000,000 to $9,500,000,000 the total amount of all insured loans under the act.

—To boost the amount loaned to build rental housing to 90 per cent from 85 on the value of the structure.

—To increase to $350,000,000 from $200,000,000 the amount loaned for student housing and make it applicable to housing for married students.

—To extend for three years to March, 1970, the federal loan scheme for municipal sewage - treatment projects under which part of the principal and interest are forgiven.

OPPOSITION AGREES

Mr. Nicholson conceded that 1966 was not going to be a good year for housing construction and he drew a chorus of opposition assent.

There were 166,000 housing starts in 1965 but as of Sept. 30 the figure was only a little over 75,000.

Murdo Martin (NDP — Timmins) congratulated the government on the proposed NHA amendments but urged it "to follow these good words with good acts."

There had never been "any bold leadership" in the housing field. The government's record in this area had been "a pretty sorry one" and between 1953 and 1963 Canada had slipped from fifth place to ninth place among countries in North America and Western Europe in meeting housing needs.

There were too many blighted housing areas and too little was being done for low-income families.

"Uncaring and unscrupulous landlords" were preventing improvement of the poor housing picture.

Mr. Nicholson said the amendments would help "the group earning $5,000 and over" by aiding them to buy existing homes. Those earning less than $5,000 could be accommodated in public housing where rents were related to income.

OTHER AGENCIES TOO

He assured the Commons that, although not mentioned in the resolution, direct loans for purchase of existing homes will be available from CMHC as well as other lending agencies as is now done with loans for new houses.

The maximum insured loan for new houses now was $18,000 but the level for existing-home purchases "might be slightly lower than that or it might be the same." This would be determined in regulations to the act.

Robert Thompson, Social Credit leader, commended Mr. Nicholson for the proposals but "the whole housing industry and the matter of construction of homes . . . is something that is falling behind the need."

Average value of houses sold in Toronto this year was $27,000, up 22 per cent over the last 1½ years, Mr. Thompson said. This was beyond the means of anyone earning less than $5,000 a year and available only to those making $10,000 and up.

Jussell Keays (PC — Gaspe) said his party was "very happy" to see existing homes coming under the NHA. However, the over-all housing picture was not rosy. He blamed it on failure to bring in Bank Act amendments and the 11-per-cent sales tax on building materials.

John Gilbert (NDP—Toronto Broadview) called for interest-free loans for those forced to move because of urban-renewal projects so they could resettle at minimum cost.

Air Pact Close

WASHINGTON (AP) — An agreement with the Soviet Union on a direct air service between New York and Moscow is about ready for signing, probably next week, authoritative sources reported Tuesday. Talks started here Oct. 18. A similar pact between Canada and the Soviet Union, providing for service between Montreal and Moscow, was concluded earlier this year.

Seven Women For Sheppard Retrial Jury

CLEVELAND (AP) — Selection of a jury neared completion today in the murder retrial of Samuel H. Sheppard amid hints by the defence that "a certain person" other than Sheppard may be specified as the killer of Sheppard's first wife 12 years ago.

Twelve jurors are seated tentatively, but the defence and the prosecution each can have three of those excused without reason.

The defence used the first of its four peremptory challenges Wednesday to replace a woman with a man.

The prosecution then used its first peremptory challenge to excuse a man. He was replaced by a woman, restoring the count of seven women and five men.

While questioning a juror, Sheppard's lawyer, F. Lee Bailey of Boston, hinted that someone other than Sheppard may be specified by the defence as the slayer through the use of circumstantial evidence.

Sheppard, 42, was convicted of the July 4, 1954, beating death of his wife, Marilyn. He was indicted for first-degree murder, but was convicted of second-degree murder, the charge on which he is being retried. He served 10 years in prison before the U.S. Supreme Court granted him a new trial.

He has maintained that a bushy - haired stranger entered his home, bludgeoned Marilyn and knocked him unconscious.

SINGER-MODEL Suzanne Reynolds, 25, was found stabbed to death in a vacant New York apartment Monday night. Charged with murder is voice coach Charles Yukl, her teacher, after he said he discovered girl's nude body.

Suicide Rate High

TORONTO (CP) — Suicide is the third biggest killer of Toronto residents between the ages of 15 and 44 years, the Toronto board of health was told Wednesday. Dr. A. R. J. Boyd, medical health officer, said the suicide rate has increased from 9.8 per 100,000 population in 1959 to 13.0 last year. Among young adults, only accidents and cancer claim more lives than self destruction.

CENTRE TO CLOSE

The Armed Services Centre—a haven for servicemen for the past 11 years—will close its premises at the end of the month.

However, the centre, which is a registered society, will continue pursuing its objective of creating a closer liaison between servicemen and the community.

The closure was announced Wednesday afternoon by lawyer E. E. Pearlman, president of the society which operates the centre.

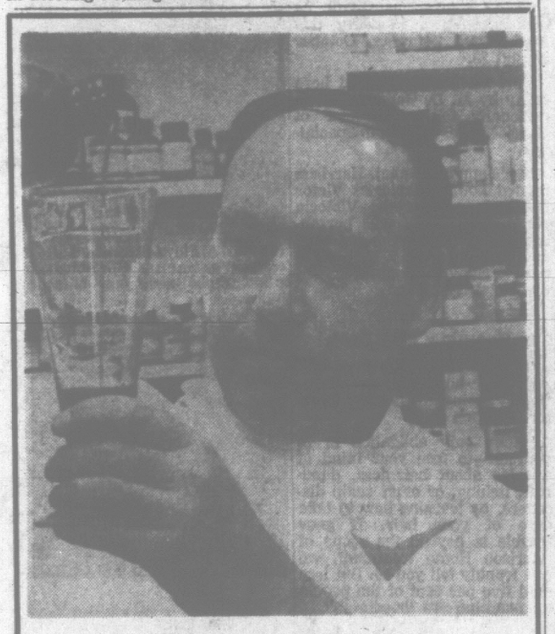

He said the closure came as a result of reductions in naval ships and personnel.

The centre has operated on a 24-hour basis since moving to Broad Street in 1957.

Founded by Rear-Admiral J. C. Hibbard, it provided locker facilities, checking, laundry, showers and a lounge for reading, writing and television. There was also a snack bar.

The centre, which was also used by visiting foreign seamen, promoted an entertainment club known as the Uniquin Club, which held social evenings for the three services and nurses from St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee Hospitals.

UVIC PANEL

Act 'Humiliates' Indians; Demand Independence

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Indians want to be accepted and recognized as human beings.

They seek for their children political and economic equality with non-Indians, but are determined to preserve their culture.

A panel of four Indian spokesmen were unanimous in these demands at an open meeting Wednesday called to discuss the future needs and objectives of the native peoples of Canada.

The panel discussion, sponsored by the University of Victoria centennial committee, was chaired by Dr. Robert Lane of the university's department of anthropology and sociology.

George Manuel, assistant community development officer with the Indian Affairs Branch in Duncan, explained that Indians today are re-examining their own values.

"Things that were once regarded as inferior, such as our language, legends, dances and costumes are now being transformed into objects of pride and great value," he

"We believe that our people can live side by side with other cultures in Canada," he added.

LAND OWNERSHIP

Freedom of choice in occupations, rights to land ownership, entry into the civil service, freedom of speech in assembly, access to universities with the view of having representative voices in Parliament, were some of the objectives of his people, he said.

He said Indians are in favor of the present integrated educational system and other benefits offered by Canadian society.

LANE
... chairs meeting

UNDERWOOD
... start school earlier

"But the reserve system with its bureaucracy, paternalism and Indian agents, is no longer acceptable to a vast majority of Indian people," he stated.

He said Indians wanted to retain and administer their own reserves ... make them economically independent.

HUMILIATION

He described the Indian Act as a "gross humiliation to the dignity of the Indian people," and an insult to the Canadian ideal of freedom and democracy.

He was backed up by Ray Peters, a member of the Cowichan band housing committee.

He said reservations could be vastly improved if the government provided the economic means to develop them.

As an example, he pointed out, an Indian could not borrow money to start a business on his reserve.

But non-Indians could lease land from Indian bands and borrow money to start a business on the property. This has occurred in Duncan, he said.

"Why shouldn't an Indian be given an opportunity to run a business on his reserve," he said

MIX WITH INDIANS

He also said living conditions on reserves would improve if Indian people were shown by whites how this could be achieved. But to be successful professional workers would have to mix with members of a band and to work on the reserve.

"Indians for a long time have been a nomadic people," he said. "It is only now they are beginning to realize they must change their way of life."

On education, Louise Underwood, secretary of the Cowichan Band council, said Indian children should start school at an earlier age than they do at present.

"I would say they should start school — kindergarten — at the age of four," she said. "This would make integration easier for them."

Mrs. Mary Thorne, a member of the Cowichan band actively engaged in promoting education, said white employment agencies were not directing Indians to suitable vocations.

USE HANDS

"Indians are skilled with their hands in the arts," she said. "But their talents are disregarded and they are directed to vocations which are not suited for them."

How can whites assist Indians, was a question raised from the floor.

The four speakers answered by encouraging Indians to participate in social activities, but treating them as one of themselves.

On Nov. 2, another panel of Indian speakers will discuss other Indian problems.

Lawyers Want Law School At Uvic

The Victoria Bar Association has asked the University of Victoria to establish a law school on campus.

The association, if a brief submitted to the university senate, said "a second law faculty in this province is inevitable. . . . We believe it should be at Victoria."

The brief said creation of a law school would "not involve any drain" on the university's financial resources. It noted that federal grants are three times greater per student for professional schools than for undergraduates.

A five-man committee appointed by the senate will meet this week to study the need for such a school and its feasibility.

The brief said that in other provinces there is one law school for approximately each 1,000,000 of population but that British Columbia, with a population close to 2,000,000 has only one such institution.

The brief suggested various ways in which the traditional teaching of law could be improved. It said a law school would significantly add to the growth of the university and community.

It said Victoria has the ideal situation for a second law school because of the existence here of the Law Courts and the provincial government. The university itself, a liberal arts institution, also lends itself to the establishment of a law faculty, said the brief.

More legal training is needed, not only for those intending to enter law, but also for students planning careers in business, industry and government, according to the submission.

AIR BATTLE FOUGHT OVER CITY

The skies over Victoria were the setting today for a pitched air battle.

The battle was between Canadian and U.S. jet trainer (the attackers) and CF-101 Voodoos from Comox and F-106 U.S. Delta Darts from McChord Field near Seattle (the defenders).

The whole battle, part of a NORAD training exercise, was to be fought between 25,000 and 40,000 feet.

In addition to the air battle, ground forces were to simulate firing of Nike-Hercules missiles.

Driver Loses Licence

A man found slumped over the wheel of a parked car with motor running and lights on was fined $400 and lost his licence Wednesday.

Herbert Thomas, 88 Sims Avenue, admitted drinking seven or nine beers on Oct. 13, the day of the incident. But in Central Court he claimed he had been overcome with carbon monoxide from a dislocated tailpipe. He planned to walk home, he told the court, but passed out after attempts to repair the car. He woke to find three Saanich police officers standing over him.

Police testimony supported by medical evidence indicated he was impaired.

Thomas was unable to explain why after switching off the engine and lights to repair the tail-pipe he turned them on again if he did not intend to drive home.

"This is the picture of a man completely overcome by alcohol," the magistrate said in passing sentence. "He was drunk, not impaired."

Aggressive Goaltender On $100 Bond

A goaltender who struck a referee in a hockey game fracs was placed on a three-month $100 good-behavior bond in central court Wednesday.

Kenneth Griffin of 4151 Birtles Street, Oak Bay Marina goalie in the Esquimalt Summer Hockey League was found guilty of common assault.

The incident occurred in a hockey game Sept. 7 at the Esquimalt Sports Centre.

When Griffin discovered referee Henry Hinkel was about to face-off following a declared goal after a goal-mouth melee, he "steamed up the ice" to protest.

As Hinkel was set to drop the puck he heard a voice behind him shout, "That wasn't a goal, what do you think you're doing."

He turned and was punched on the nose.

Griffin claimed he had just reached out to hold the referee away.

"When I realized what I'd done I thought, 'My God, what I've done'," Griffin testified.

Magistrate Ostler in a lengthy judgment ruled that while Griffin may not have deliberately intended to strike Hinkel on the nose he did have aggressive intentions in mind.

While not attempting to impose normal rules of conduct on hockey game prodeedings the magistrate found Griffin guilty of assault and placed him on the good-behavior bond.

A far more serious punishment, he agreed with defence counsel, was Griffin's three year suspension — "in effect a life suspension" — from amateur hockey.

Provincial Funds Needed For Sewers, Libraries

More money from the provincial government is needed for sewers and library services in the capital region, two local councillors Wednesday night told an all-woman gathering.

Couns. Edith Gunning of Saanich and Frances Elford of Oak Bay briefed members of the Association of Women Electors on recent sewer and library studies and their possible implementation, at a meeting at The Inn on Cook St.

Both Mrs. Gunning, discussing the metropolitan sewer survey, and Mrs. Elford, on the Vainstein library reports, said provincial aid is needed to carry out recommendations in both fields.

The Vainstein report on provincial library services suggests that if community financing for local libraries is adequate, the provincial government should take care of province-wide library services, Mrs. Elford said.

UNJUST SHARE

For sewers there was "some fear that some regions will have to bear an unjust share of the cost," said Mrs. Gunning.

A fair-share cost-sharing system should be worked out between the areas involved, with "perhaps some of the cost to come from senior governments, we hope," she said.

Mrs. Gunning said she had "several possible means of cost-sharing jotted down," but did not elaborate. "It's not the thing to do while this is still under study."

"The provision of adequate sewerage facilities is a No. 1 priority concern of this region.

"I'm not oblivious to the need for hospital construction," she said, but sewerage should come first and is definitely a regional responsibility.

"It seems to me there's no question about this (sewerage priority) at all. Any other line of thinking is simply archaic."

FEDERAL AID

The provincial government could finance the 50 years of sewerage development in the study "with an increasing scale of repayment, so that as more people move into an area the cost could be spread over a greater number."

The federal government could help out "more than they do" on research, added Mrs. Gunning.

Federal aid for libraries as in the U.S. was suggested also by Mrs. Elford.

The library report, too, recommends provincial aid, which is now "minimal," she said.

Mrs. Elford suggested Association of Women Electors study recommendations on provincial library service, made recently by the B.C. Library Association.

Spring Start On Weeds

Victoria and Saanich will combine efforts next spring to rid Elk Lake of weeds before the summer season starts.

Victoria parks administrator Herbert Warren told the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee Wednesday that last summer's program had only been partially successful.

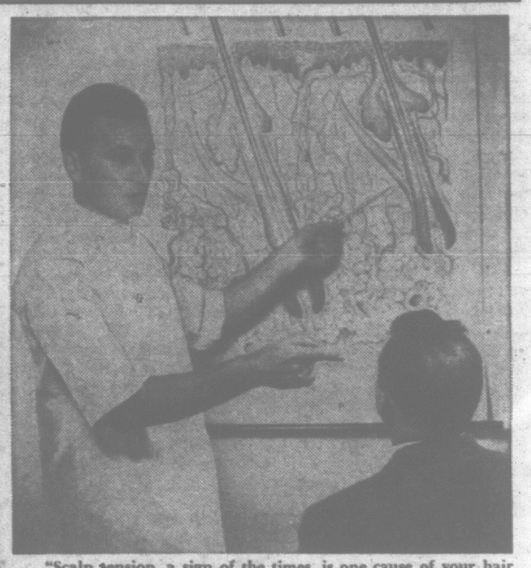

"The weeds must be caught in the growing stage," Mr. Warren said. "I'm afraid they were too mature when we sprayed them this year. We held them down, but the program was not too successful."

In the spring a chemical control crew will drop 2-4D pellets on the weed beds in an attempt to destroy the dangerous growth.

Mr. Warren noted that the poison to be used is harmless to fish and birds.

Latest Tar and Nicotine Ratings on 25 Leading Canadian Cigarettes

The current Reader's Digest features a factual, new laboratory report showing the latest tar and nicotine content of 25 leading Canadian cigarettes and reveals that some actually contain 200% — or more — tar and nicotine than others. It shows, that in some cases the smoke from filter-tips actually has a higher content, of these injurious substances, than the smoke from some plain ends. "Scalp tension, a sign of the times, is one cause of your hair loss," says trichologist M.D. Harrison to balding man. Harrison directs the famous Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists, whose main office is in Vancouver. He is sending a specialist here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

How to save and improve your hair demonstrated by expert here Friday and Saturday

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness — and growing thicker hair—will be demonstrated in Victoria this Friday and Saturday, October 28 and 29.

This news was released here today by M. D. Harrison, internationally famous director of Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In his announcement, Harrison named staff trichologist Victor Booth to conduct the Victoria clinic. Mr. Booth will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Hotel Sussex.

Examine You Free

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by seeing Mr. Booth," director Harrison said.

"Your only obligation is to yourself—to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison Home treatment, we will frankly tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

Offers No Cure-All

Harrison emphasized that his new home treatment is neither "mail-order" nor "cure-all."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting any treatment," he pointed out. "There is no one cure-all that will correct every one of the 18 scalp disorders that cause most baldness."

Harrison said that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks to get best resuits. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the Harrison headquarters in Vancouver.

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Harrison trichologist at regular intervals."

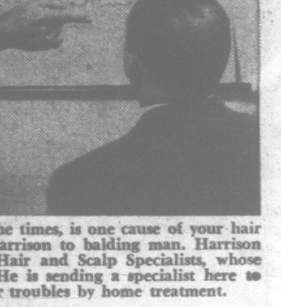

Who Can Be Helped?

Will this new treatment cure baldness? "No," said Harrison sincerely. "We cannot help men who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. Usually, we can grow more hair even where you have only 'fuzz' now."

The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late!

Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth behind it. Harrison and his staff trichologists do extension work in more than 100 other cities.

Leonard A. Floyd before and after scalp treatment. Unretouched photographs made four months apart.

Satisfy 95%

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declared Harrison. "We satisfy more than 95 per cent of our clients, and have records to prove it."

"But to overcome the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate—and baldish—by the time he nerves himself to see a Harrison trichologist. He's 'tried everything.' So he starts consoling himself with one of the old superstitions about hair:

That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss—and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today."

Free Scalp Examination

See Mr. Booth in person. Learn how baldness can be stopped, and new hair grown on your own scalp. The new Harrison method permits you to actually stop your baldness and regrow hair in the privacy of your own home.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk at the Hotel Sussex Friday or Saturday between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m. for Mr. Booth's suite number.

You don't need an appointment. You won't be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Examinations are given in private.

AFTER HEATED DEBATE

U.K. Churchmen Accept Report

LONDON (AP)—British churchmen agreed today to receive the controversial report of their working party on sex and morality, but affirmed again there should be no sex outside marriage.

The British council of churches, meeting at Lambeth Palace, home of the Archbishop of Canterbury, had earlier rejected a Presbyterian move to throw out the report.

The text of its final resolution, which was accepted by 62 votes to 10 with 2 abstentions, read:

"That the council, while convinced that Christians must always show compassion to those who fail below the highest standards and neither condemn nor condone, affirms as Christian the rule that sexual intercourse should be confined with-the married state.

"It believes that the maintenance of this rule is in accordance with the will and purpose of God and that God's grace and strength are available to help all who seek to reach that demanding and rewarding standard.

"In the light of this, while regretting that the working party did not proceed to state unambiguously this conclusion, the council receives the report, Sex and Morality, which has much to contribute of value to the contemporary discussion of moral questions by both Christians and non-Christians."

Earlier the council had deadlocked in hopeless confusion.

DECLINES CASTING VOTE

When its third vote on the matter tied 46 to 46, there were cries for the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, to vote as chairman. He declined:

"I think I would be doing a disservice to the council," he said. "It would show that the resolution on the report represented only 50 per cent of the council and that would be bad."

Earlier, a slashing attack by Scottish Presbyterians, who claimed the report showed "Satan dressed up as a friend of God and friend of man," failed to get the report rejected by the council. Only about a dozen voted for the Presbyterian amendment.

Then Dr. Ernest A. Payne, a Baptist who is chairman of the council's executive committee, proposed a motion expressing cautious acceptance of the working party's document but reaffirming the Christian rule that sexual intercourse should be confined to the married state.

This was accepted.

Then Rev. David Head, Methodist, who is secretary of the Student Christian Movement, proposed an alternative wording which welcomed the report much more warmly and stressed its positive aspects. It was on this resolution that the council, a group of 27 Protestant churches, deadlocked.

Dr. Payne and Mr. Head were directed to seek a compromise resolution.

SAIGON (CP) — American, South Vietnamese and South Korean troops in a month's fighting in the coastal province of Binh Dinh have killed 1,973 North Vietnamese or Viet Cong, taken 1,765 prisoners and detained 5,712 suspects, it was announced here Tuesday.

The huge number of suspects rounded up was a record for any single operation to date.

Child Who Wasn't Murdered Tells of 44-Hour Ordeal

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — Wendy Pfeiffer, the little girl who wasn't murdered after all, has told something of her 44-hour ordeal in South Australia's lonely bush country.

★ ★ ★

A man was charged with murdering Wendy after he had allegedly confessed to killing her. When Wendy, 9, was discovered later beneath a bush in scrub country some miles from her home at Mylor, the charge against Neville Francis Dolling, 21, a farmhand, was amended to attempted murder. He is being held for a hearing Nov. 11.

Wendy, suffering from chest wounds, exposure and slight pneumonia, is recovering in hospital. Her condition Wednesday was reported satisfactory.

Alan Pfeiffer, Wendy's father, told reporters that Wendy had made two statements to the police about the hours between the time she set out last Sunday for a walk with her dog — who returned home without her — and her discovery by a search party.

"It appears she was left for dead in the bush," he said. "She lay unconscious for hours and when she recovered she walked off in the wrong direction.

★ ★ ★

"She was stabbed three times, but each thrust was deflected by a rib. According to the doctors, those ribs saved her life. .... The doctors told me they have found no evidence that Wendy was criminally assaulted."

Meanwhile, public demands mounted for an explanation of why Dolling was charged with murder when no body had been found. A top level inquiry has been ordered.

Magazine Story Called 'Nonsense, Ridiculous'

DALLAS (UPI) — District Attorney Henry Wade described today as "all nonsense" a magazine article saying the investigation of the Kennedy assassination ought to be reopened because of 10 deaths "possibly" related to the tragedy.

"I think it is all foolishness and getting 10 people or 100 people in it makes no difference," Wade said. "It is just a little effort to sell a few magazines or books.

"It will go on for 100 years, or as long as anybody carries the publicity. I am satisfied (Lee Harvey) Oswald shot the president. I think the Warren commission was very thorough.

"The committee listened to anybody and everybody. There was not sufficient evidence to establish a conspiracy and if anybody has any such evidence, I would be glad to prove it."

Wade was involved in the assembling of a case against Oswald before Oswald was killed two days after the assassination by Jack Ruby. Wade prosecuted Ruby, who was convicted and sentenced to the electric chair.

Earlier this month, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the conviction and granted Ruby a new trial.

The magazine article Wade called "nonsense" was written for Ramparts magazine by David Welsh and Penn Jones. They cited the deaths of 10 persons connected with the case.

Three of the deaths they cited were of James Koether, a Dallas Times Herald reporter killed in his apartment; Tom Howard, Ruby's first lawyer, who died a natural death, and Dorothy Kilgallen, a newspaper columnist and reporter.

Wade it was especially ridiculous to mention these three deaths.

"Koethe had no more to do with it than my little girl," Wade said. "Dorothy Kilgallen could have had nothing to do with it and Tom Howard had been out of the Ruby case six months when he died."

Field Rats 'Growing Menace'

GENEVA, Switzerland (Reuters)—Mankind faces a growing menace of outbreaks of plague spread by rats, the World Health Organization warned Wednesday.

The organization listed rapid urbanization and lack of appreciation of the danger as the main cause of the menace.

Fleas on field rats carry the plague and pass it on to a growing number of town rats and hence to man as cities and their attendant slums spread into the countryside.

In face of the growing danger, scientists have gathered at the W.H.O. headquarters here for a five-day meeting to discuss ways of fighting the menace.

France Interested In Sale

PARIS (Reuters) — France is waiting with interest to hear of the control conditions, if any, in the sale of Canadian uranium to Britain, in view of France's bid for a similar deal, government officials said Wednesday.

The successful completion of negotiations between Rio Algom mines and the British Atomic Energy Authority for the purchase of 8,000 short tons of uranium oxide, worth an estimated $100,000,000 was announced in Ottawa last week.

But details of the control clause were still under discussion betwen the Canadian and British governments.

Negotiations for the sale to France of Canadian uranium broke down last year, because Canada insisted on international inspection to make sure the uranium was not put to military use.

France has so far refused to accept international controls. The French government has said it is willing to enter into a "gentleman's agreement" with Canada to confine the use of the uranium to its civil energy program.

At stake is an $800,000,000 contract.

Fired Civil Servant Asks U.K. Ombudsman for Help

OTTAWA (CP) — John Kroeker, the federal civil servant fired last year over his opposition to the Canada Pension Plan, has asked Britain's ombudsman for help.

He has written Sir Edmund Compton explaining why the plan "victimizes all Canadians, but me particularly," and detailing results of the government's "vindictive pursuit of me." Kroeker was dismissed as a senior actuary of the insurance section within the finance department for his outspoken criticism of the government-sponsored plan. The decision was upheld by a Civil Service Commission appeal board.

Mr. Kroeker wrote Sir Edmund that he has since been deprived of $4,000 due him in severance pay and interest on pension contributions. Offers from publishers have "inexplicably withered" and job offers from two Canadian universities have been "mysteriously withdrawn."

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, OCT. 27, 1966—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

Our river was showing its bones when we left it on a bright day three weeks ago. The riffles that danced between pools were scarce ankle-deep, and the wading fisherman had no need to plot his course. He simply splashed through, and jogged on along the bleached freshet bars.

To the salmon of this year's autumn spawning run, however, low water meant a struggle that bruised and exhausted. All too often, the end was premature death in the shallows, with eggs or fertilizing milt unshed.

In a river mile of curves and straightaways and horseshoe bends, we would find a dozen or more such casualties. These were fish that had lost their bearings and run aground. Stranded — barred from their element — they became prey for the harpy seagulls, which came screaming to peck out their eyes.

From two to an extreme of about seven years is the Pacific salmons' life - span. Then the birth-river reclaims the mature fish; the gravel guards the eggs and the river takes the spent carcass as food for bear or bird, or the nymphal larvae of the streambed.

★

When we came to the river, the little two-year humpbacks of late August and earlier September had already won through to their spawning grounds.

We loafed our way downstream; and in the deep of a shaded pool a heavy fish rolled its back through the surface. We glimpsed blue-green with silver below, and knew the coho were heading in to complete their four-year cycle.

This early in their run, they were still, most of them, splendidly conditioned. The sea was only a day or an hour or two behind them. They had the speed and grace of river trout, but they wore the sea's bright livery, and their bodies were deep from rich feeding.

Some were coho 'jacks,' mature dwarfed fish of three pounds or thereabouts. But most were big: from eight pounds to twice that weight.

Faithful to the bad old Vancouver Island custom, the meat-hunters lost no opportunity to harry coho in fresh water. At the highway pool, they descended in swarms to pester them with legitimate lures, or to jig treble hook into their bellies. Tales circulated about valley dwellers who each fall dug a few dozen spawners into their gardens for spring fertilizer.

A pity, this. Perhaps one day when we have learned to treasure our natural resources, the salmon will make their pilgrimage free from human predation at least.

One autumn-tinted afternoon, we dropped down to fish for trout in the sea pool where fresh and salt mingle. If cutthroats had moved in that tide, we failed to stir them. But we did spot coho — a drove of them, crusing to and fro restlessly in a side-eddy.

We had knocked off casting and were sitting lazy in brown grass atop a cross-stream bank, when an arrowhead of spray darted up the riffle. The shining back behind it looked brown in full sunlight. A coho had launched out of the sea pool to navigate the shallow rapid above.

The fish made the first stage, rested briefly in a depression that didn't quite cover its dorsal fin, then arrowed on. This second dash fared less well. No holding-spot offered, and the coho veered in a threshing turn to drop down with the current into the pool.

On the next try, this fish or another did better. It rushed, paused, darted again, and with fins and tail beating as much air as water, battled its way to the top of the riffle. For a tense moment it hung there. Then in a final surge, the streamlined shape won through to the upstream reach.

For most of an afternoon, we watched the struggle repeated by a succession of coho. Each would endure it countless times before he or she came to the distant spawning beds.

A wonderful sight to see and remember . . . but I'm glad the rains have come to raise the river. The coho are still going up, and their journey will be easier.

LAST CALL FOR PIONEER MEDAL

This is the last call for pioneers.

There is a commemorative medal awaiting each B.C. resident who was born in Canada or living anywhere in Canada, prior to Jan. 1, 1892.

But the pioneer must make application for the honor. And the deadline for applications is Nov. 19.

Application forms may be obtained from the Greater Victoria Centennial Office, 14 Centennial Square. And they should be returned there. The office would like to have them by Nov. 10 — but will accept them until the 19th which is the deadline for submission to the provincial centennial committee.

It is not necessary for an applicant to have continuous residence since 1891 — but he must be living in B.C. now.

The medals are free and will be presented in suitable ceremony during 1967, Canada's centenary.

Bank Case Declared Mis-Trial

New Hearing In Vancouver

The trial of three men charged in Victoria Assize Court with robbing a bank was today declared a mistrial.

Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan, of the British Columbia Supreme Court, ordered that a new trial be held in Vancouver because of a report of proceedings published in The Victoria Colonist.

He found it was prejudicial to the accused.

He said the report contained statements made while the jury was absent from the court. Such statements, when printed in a newspaper and read by the jury, could destroy the presumption of innocence of the accused.

"This damaging evidence has been published," the judge said, "and it is reasonable to conclude the jury could have read it and formed an opinion prejudicial to the men on trial."

Mr. Justice Ruttan said proceedings held in the absence of the jury are conducted so that the jurors may not be influenced by evidence which might be ruled inadmissible for one reason or another.

PAPER SCOLDED

"I thought it would be obvious to newspapers and reporters on a newspaper so esteemed and respected as The Daily Colonist that such evidence must not be reported.

"Jurors are warned not to pay attention to anything said about the trial outside the courtroom. But you are human and it is too much to expect that you would not read a newspaper report of a trial.

"There is no harm if evidence which has been given in open court is reported in newspapers.

After Mr. Justice Ruttan ruled that the Victoria proceedings were a mistrial, defence counsel H. A. D. Oliver of Vancouver asked that a new trial should be moved to Vancouver Assize Court.

He said he was opposed to a suggestion that the trial be held at Nanaimo Assizes.

NANAIMO OUT

"Nanaimo is too close to Victoria in point of time and distance," Mr. Oliver said, "and The Daily Colonist is widely read in that area.

Crown counsel E. George MacMinn assented to Mr. Oliver's proposal.

The 12-man Victoria jury was dismissed after a three-day hearing in Victoria Assize Court in which a number of crown witnesses gave evidence.

Three men — William Braumberger, Gordon Francis Duck and Harold Robinson Coullrer — were charged with robbing the Bank of Montreal at Fort and Richmond on the evening of Feb. 18 last. All pleaded not guilty.

The bank was robbed at about five minutes to six on a Friday when three men — two of them brandishing sawn-off rifles — entered the bank and took more than $18,000.

MASKED MEN

Witnesses said two of the men were masked in brown Balaclavas with holes cut for the eyes and nose. A third man, also wearing a Balaclava mask, stood by the door while one of them went behind the counter and scooped cash from the drawers into a brown paper bag.

The three men then escaped in a car.

Between the two marinas, another wharf will be built out to house at least 50 more boats. In background can be seen Rest Haven Hospital and Government Wharf. Two Island Marinas To Create Largest Island Boat Haven

By TERRY IZZARD

A marina development plan which aims to establish the Saanich Peninsula as a centre of west coast small-boating was announced today by Van-Isle Marina.

The costly development will get under way at Sidney next month with purchase of neighboring Shoal Harbor Marina.

Although no purchase price has been announced, Van-Isle owner-operator Stephen Dickinson said more than $10,000 will be spent on renovations and building of new floats.

The take-over will give Van-Isle the largest single number of berths on Vancouver Island and probably on the entire west coast.

• • •

Combining the two marinas will provide immediately for 300 boat housings.

And with 600 feet of foreshore, another wharf will be built in the space between the two marinas.

This will boost the number of moorings to 350, plus a dozen transient berths.

The next largest marina on the Island is nearby Canoe Cove with space for 317 boats.

As part of the overall development, a beach area between the two merged marinas will be filled in to provide easy access.

Most of the Shoal Harbor floats will be renewed and a number of wharfs will be extended to connect the two.

Included in the Shoal Harbor marina is a boat repair shed and boat hoist, which will be sublet by Van-Isle.

• • •

A similar boat repair shop on the existing Van-Isle property is already sublet to Philbrook's.

The newly-acquired property also includes a house and store. Mr. Dickinson said the store will eventually be developed into a marina store selling both boating and fishing equipment as well as groceries.

The development reflects the huge increase in small-boat traffic over the past 10 years.

When Van-Isle was taken over by Mr. Dickinson in 1955, there were only 75 berths.

The 100 berths of Shoal Harbor Marina have been handled since the end of the war by Murray Stockall.

Man in Custody After Bank Break-In Try

Oak Bay police rushed to a Bank of Montreal branch early today after neighbors telephoned alarms that someone was trying to break in.

Officers took a 38-year-old man with a history of mental illness into custody. He is being held for observation at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Only damage to the bank, on Oak Bay Avenue between Hampshire and Monterey, was scratches on a window. The incident occured shortly before 6 a.m.

TWO GIRLS MISSING SINCE MONDAY

Saanich police have called for assistance in locating two 16-year-old girls, missing from their neighboring homes since Monday night.

Missing are Susanna Bartlett, 1714 Newton Garden Apartments, and Lynn Wilson, 1706 Newton Garden Apartments.

The Bartlett girl is described as five feet four inches tall, 115 pounds and dark hair. When last seen she was wearing a brown duffle coat, blue jeans and was carrying a large straw basket purse.

Police said Miss Bartlett arrived from New Zealand about five months ago and speaks with a pronounced accent.

The Wilson girl is described as five feet five inches tall, 112 pounds with dark hair. She was wearing a tan parka, blue slacks, a sweatshirt and was also carrying a straw basket purse.

Mine May Use Pit for Wastes

Dumping to Stop Within 3 Years?

Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan today raised the possibility that Western Mines' controversial dumping of tailings into Buttle Lake may be discontinued after three years.

He said a 10-acre "open-pit" operation that will begin the production stage soon could provide an underground disposal site for the tailings when it is finished.

But he refused to say that he will insist the mining company do this, pointing out it had the legal right to turn its entire 1,200-acre crown granted mining claims into an open pit operation if it wished.

However, he said the company has been anxious to co-operate in leaving as much of the area's surface undisturbed as possible and has confined its mining, milling and associated works to a 100-acre area.

He said the company intends to do its mining through tunnels except for a 10-acre area where the mineral lode comes so close to the surface that tunnelling is not practicable and "open pit" (digging from the surface) techniques will be used.

NOT SURPRISED

Mr. Kiernan said he was not surprised by the company's indication it would use open pit techniques in its annual report last week because his department was told about it last spring. He also pointed out it was mentioned at the legislative hearing on the company's plans.

The minister said there already are tailings heaped up ready to be dumped into the bottom of Buttle Lake as a result of exploratory and preliminary tunnelling and these will have to go into the lake when production begins.

He also said the tailings from the open pit—expected to be about 200 feet deep—will have to go into the lake but probably "in about three years" the pit mining will have become exhausted and the future tailings from tunnels then might be buried in the pit.

Mr. Kiernan said it was not possible to impound the tailings on the ground's surface without leaching action through run-off waters contaminating the surface of Buttle Lake—as has been pointed out by both government engineers and the B.C. Wildlife Federation.

TEN ACRES?

"My information is that the open pit will be confined to 10 acres," he said.

"There is no reason why (after the pit mining is completed) it may not be entirely practical to put the further tailings down into the pit and cover it over—then it would be subsurface and not subject to erosion."

Asked if he would use "moral suasion" on the company to use this method — rather than the lake dumping—when it became available, Mr. Kiernan would only recount the past co-operative attitude of the company and:

"It would seem quite reasonable that once the open pit operation is completed it would be reasonable to use this method of disposal rather than the lake."

He countered accusations by Opposition Leader Robert Strachan that the company deceitfully withheld its full intentions from the public and the government in order to obtain its permits to dispose of tailings and build a housing project within Strathcona Park.

UNDERGROUND

He pointed out the ore body was underground and no one could be sure of the ultimate developments until a mine was about half-way through its life.

"At the start of an operation where you are dealing with things that are not visible it is impossible to say you will do this, this and this" and no more, he said.

As a result, some of the details become clear as time and events progress.

He pointed out it has been known since 1917 that the site had "mineralization" but not until some diamond drilling was undertaken did the rough estimate of the quantity and grade become known.

Self-Righting Ships Being Tested in East

A 44-foot self-righting lifeboat, which could be used on Vancouver Island in the not-too-distant future, is presently being tested on the east coast.

The lifeboat, developed by and presently used by the U.S. coastguard, is so designed that should it capsize it will immediately right itself.

The boat carries a crew of three and is powered by 200-horsepower diesel engines.

Testing of the vessel marks another step forward in the department of transport's program to strengthen search and rescue capabilities of the Canadian coast guard.

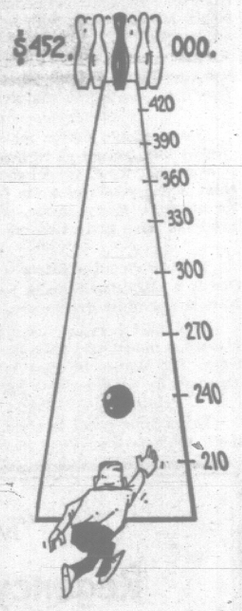

Although no plans have yet been announced, there has been talk of building two more west coast lifeboat stations — one on northern Vancouver Island, the other in the Queen Charlottes.

If built, and if the U.S. vessel's tests prove satisfactory, it seems likely the self-righting crafts would be pressed into service here.

At present there are two lifeboats on the Island, at Tofino and Bamfield. The 40-foot wooden-hulled sister boats are about 16 years old.

Target-Shooting Saanich Youth Draws $50 Fine

A youth who pleaded guilty to target shooting a .22 calibre rifle within Saanich boundaries was fined $50 today.

John David Mepham, 19, of 2783 Benson Place, admitted in court there were houses in the vicinity where police found him shooting Oct. 4, close to Telegraph Bay Road and Arbutus.

The fine represents the minimum under the Saanich bylaw prohibiting discharge of firearms within the municipality without special police permission.

False Fire Call To Docks Blamed On Alarm Fault

A false alarm sent city fire trucks racing to Ogden Point this morning.

A department spokesman said a mechanical fault not yet pinpointed had caused several such false calls in recent weeks.

Firemen are taking no chances and turn out in full force to all alarms in the area, he added.

Young Gang Uses Knife In Robbing Elderly Man

A trio of youths robbed an elderly man at knifepoint Wednesday night, taking 50 cents from him in a downtown alley.

Robert Jones, 77, who lives at the Salvation Army Hostel at 521 Johnson, told officers he was robbed of the coins after the youths found there was no money in his wallet.

He was ordered to empty his pockets while a four-inch knife was held to his ribs in an alley behind the King's Hotel, 570 Yates.

The trio then fled east on Johnson.

The knife wielder was described as about 20 years old, 5½ feet tall, with blond hair and wearing a sweater and light-colored trousers.

The other two were reported about the same age, with dark hair. One of them was wearing a blue shirt and dark three-quarter length coat.

In Step with Style — By Nona Damaske

THE DRESS STORY UNFOLDS IN CALIFORNIA

This Gerard suit, seen in the Californian showings, is the epitome of good tailoring and design. Of acetate double-knit, it packs well, resist wrinkles and is smartly detailed with welt stitching and solid, color contrast.

Times' fashion editor Nona Damaske is in California to view the latest in fashions to be seen during the 16th Annual California Press Week. Here is her latest column on the new styles.

LOS ANGELES — On deck and ready to work at 7:30 a.m. means a 6:30 wakeup call but with the California sun already warm and inviting, it is not too difficult. The smog, which we hear mentioned so often, is absent and the afternoon temperatures are a little over 80 degrees. The hotel pool is invitingly tempting but as the swimwear has already been previewed, we try not to gaze poolward.

Damaske

The dress story opened with a collection by Jeannette Alexander, who looked to America's car industry for costume titles. "Chevelle" and "Porsche" were fashioned in today's most marvellous travel fabric . . . wisp light banlon. "Chevelle," a sleeveless figure skimming dress in hot pinks, had a scoop neckline trimmed with loose cording matching the tie belt which was finished at each end with a tinkling fall of toning beads. "Porsche," in a cool green print, cowled the neckline and dropped the shoulder to create a pretty feminine look. "Jaguar," in shocking green printed silk chiffon, presented the cage look in its newest version . . . fitted to the body in the front and floating out in the back as if wafted by a gentle breeze.

The house of Dominique was born four years ago and came close to not maturing because of being too prophetic. There has never been a waistline or a close figure-fitting dress made by Dominique and four years ago many women would not accept this look, which today is in full fashion flower. The silhouette is utterly smashing . . . here we see body skimmers, shifts, caftans, tent and empress dresses and modified A-lines.

Mancini had the excitement of a new adventure in texture. Linen is treated to a process called air tucking resulting in what I would describe as straight line trapunto. This air tucking was shown to full advantage in a three-piece costume of tomato and white. Slender buttoned jacket, sleeveless shell and slim skirt classically designed to reveal the full impact of the fabric.

"For the woman Who Lives in a Knit" is the theme of Gerard, a division of Marjorie Montgomery of California. Women who live on the west coast of British Columbia belong in this story more, perhaps, than women anywhere else in the world. Knits for us can be a round-the-clock, all-season story. The average customer wearing the Gerard label is 5 foot 7 inches . . . she is a trifle reserved in her taste and cherishes the timeless, ageless look of good style. The upper arm, a tattletale part of the body, as far as age and weight is concerned, is covered by Gerard. The few styles dubbed as sleeveless have a gentle cap extending over the shoulder which softens the armhole.

Sylvia Stevens says "My clothes are designed for the girl or woman who likes to look delicious but not jazzy . . . is avante but not kooky . . . likes to look smart but not overly cautious; no little black dress and pearls for her. My clothes are not for an age. They are for a figure, an attitude, a way of life." Sylvia Stevens allowed us to share in the working operations of a designer by showing several muslin patterns in company with the finished garment. An interesting woven satin stripe fabric in navy was used for a delicious pant suit. All girl was a white ruffled organza sleeveless blouse top over the low slung pants. A real swinger was the mini-skirted dress in three-ply nylon jersey. The low torso suddenly burst out in a motion-packed swing skirt . . . a demure sailor collar and baby buttons are all in the same putty beige tone.

The editors are most impressed by the Century Plaza Hotel and are hoping this will become a permanent base for the yearly showings of the California Fashion Creators. Each evening a maid turns back your bed and places several "goodnight" sweets on your bedside table. A fresh package of bath bubbles and one of soap for your little bit of laundry appear in the bathroom. The 800 television sets are all color . . . the sheets, towels and tissues are all in a delightful apricot shade . . . especially dyed for the Century Plaza.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Your Demons Are Safe To Clown in These

By Penny Saver

Are you beginning to feel ghoulish? Perhaps you're starting to turn a little green around the gills thinking about the approach of Halloween. Don't tremble in your shoes—remember all the fun you used to have in pranksters' haven. The only thing that has changed is that the tables have turned. Of course, nowadays, some of the little "demons" arrive in what one group of folk singers refers to as the "motorized division." This is when you cruise about the neighborhood, stop in front of each door, and address your "monster", "All right Junior, get out. Your mother and I will wait in the car."

Anyway, you can make your youngsters as horrible as you wish with the items I found in one shop. There are no limits with these gruesome products.

One that all mothers will be grateful for is a type of costume that all devils can clown about in to their fiendish hearts' content without any need for you to worry. The designs in these costumes have been treated with a chemical that makes them light up from the headlights of oncoming cars. The orange vinyl trim and bright fabrics, along with this special treatment, can be seen by all drivers.

Each costume comes with a flame-resistant mask. They come depicting devils, witches and clowns and sell for 98 cents each. They'll fit youngsters who are up to 10 years of age.

Some ghouls prefer make-up to masks. This store carries special kits, priced at 29 cents each, for various types of faces. A clown kit, for example, contains sticks of red and black grease paint and a pouch of white face paint. There are other kits for the minstrel, gypsy, pirate, princess and many others. They have a lanolin base and come off like magic with cold cream.

Rubber disguise sets are a boon to tricksters for 10 cents. One is a black lattice-work mask of a cat. This has side pieces, so it is worn like eyeglasses. The nosepiece has short whiskers.

The most horrible disguise in this series has black-rimmed glasses, a moustache and a large ugly mouth with four long jagged teeth. The moustache clips lightly just inside the nostrils. There's no visibility problem with any of these disguises.

Dress your ghoul in style. Give Penny a call at 382-3131 and she'll tell you where she found these disguises.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Change Your Hair Style!

The fall is taking over the winter! By "the fall" I mean that extra hair piece which is so very popular now.

In case you do not know just what this is it is a six-inch width of human hair which own and which can be used in so many different ways. It is thick enough to permit a braid or a cluster of puffs or an arrangement which often caresses the nape of the neck and hence it is called "a fall." The hair often hangs down with curls at the end of the hair.

Lowman

Your own hair may be brought back and up the sides to be braided in with the fall at the top. Women wishing to enjoy both the convenience of short hair and the change of pace and allure of long hair, on occasion, can have both by using a fall or maybe more than one.

The fall is attached to your own hair with bobbypins or hairpins. The attachment is hidden with a woman's own hair or for more formal times with jeweled clips or a bow or several bows. Usually the fall is the same color as the woman's hair but some women like to be a bit more dramatic with a contrasting hair piece, or fall.

Michel Contino, one of New York's top hair stylists, recently visited backstage at the Miss America pageant which millions of viewers watched on TV. Mr. Contino found that the contestants agreed that short hair with a fall to use at times is their first choice.

Young women like Miss America contestants like and use falls to give the effect of shoulder-length hair. Often the hair is pulled back into a bun with the ends of hair falling down casually.

I like to report to my readers any new ideas which are adaptable to the average woman. You do not have to be a model in order to find one of these useful ideas creating a different you when you wish to look and feel a little different.

Contribution of RCMP in North Outlined in Canadian Club Talk

The varied and entirely voluntary services given by Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers serving in the north of Canada were outlined in detail, Tuesday afternoon, when Superintendent William G. Fraser, RCMP, spoke to the Women's Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel.

The speaker, assistant director of the criminal investigation branch in Ottawa, drew on his own experiences in the Arctic and quoted reports and records from the Canadian archives to take an intensive look at the force which is entirely responsible for the policing of the Canadian north.

One of the major concerns of the RCMP, he said, is to keep in contact with the Eskimo people, to record vital statistics—births, deaths and marriages—and to provide help when needed.

He spoke on the confusion among the Eskimos caused by progress. In the past, he said, the Eskimos depended on no man for food, clothing, shelter or defence. "Now," he continued, "he is caught up between the narrow traditions of the past and the fast-paced way of life today.

"They need our help and especially our understanding."

Regarding lawlessness among the Eskimos, Superintendent Fraser quoted from reports filed by officers in the Arctic, "there has been no crime reported in this district to date," and "there is no crime among these people."

The speaker spiced his address with anecdotes recalled from his service up north and quoted from records dating as far back as 1897 and 1903, when an RCMP officer first came in contact with an Eskimo.

"By the way," he added, "that Eskimo is still alive today, even though he was a full-grown man at that time."

He spoke on the pathfinders of the RCMP who crossed the Arctic circle for the first time around the turn of the century, using such methods as canoes, dogsleds and snowshoes to open up the north.

"The dogsled is still used today. Many think it's an antiquated mode of travel, but it's the only way to thoroughly, reliably and efficiently patrol the north and keep in contact with the Eskimo."

It was an RCMP officer who gave the explorer Amundsen a team of dogs which he used to travel to the South Pole.

The speaker also explained how he had contacted Walt Disney and secured the Siberian huskies used in the Disney film, "Nikki, Dog of the North." These dogs, he said, were found to be the best for arctic travel. Now Nikki himself and more than 400 more are being used in northern service.

Superintendent Fraser also spoke on some of the more unusual jobs with which the RCMP are faced when on northern service—diagnosing and treating illness for one.

He concluded with the hope that when someone writes the story of Canada's heritage, that the RCMP, which has made such a contribution to the nation's history, will not be forgotten.

President Mrs. H. H. Youson introduced the speaker, who was thanked by Mrs. R. T. Wallace.

Anglican Women Help Church at Gold River

An appeal for funds to convert the rectory basement at Gold River for Sunday School use was received by the Diocesan Board of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Anglican Church at the recent meeting in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay.

Mrs. C. T. Skinner, extra cents secretary, reported on the appeal made by Rev. D. McKay, Gold River, and the sum of $200 was voted for this purpose.

Social service secretary Mrs. H. N. Street called for old sheets and pillowcases to be given to the Order of the Eastern Star for cancer dressings. These, she said, are to be taken to the Pro Patria legion hall, 625 Courtney Street, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Thursdays.

A total of $2,585.50 had been spent during the months of September, announced treasurer Miss Dora Brown. Disbursements included buying of Anglican Church calendars for resale to Island churches, $1,440; an appeal from St. Columba, Strawberry Vale, $200; and buying of embroidery pieces from Pakistan for resale, $361.05. The latter items, she said, are made by otherwise indigent widows under the Technical Service Association of Pakistan, a church rehabilitation program.

Mrs. G. B. Jarvis, convener of the eight-member church furnishings group, thanked members for support in providing a sanctuary lamp for St. David's Church, Cordova Bay. She also reported on the board's gifts during the past year: A set of colored stoles to Rev. James Bennett; burse veil and linens to Rev. Borokini of Africa, formerly of the University of British Columbia; altar hangings for Port Hardy and Ucluelet churches; a frontal for the Ss Columbia, mission boat of the Columbia Coast Mission, and hangings and linens for the church on Quadra Island, which is being re-opened for alternate use with the United Church. The summer holiday work, she said, was making a funeral pall for St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Church.

It was announced by Mrs. R. O. Taylor that an open house would be held in the Carolyn Macklem Home.

Mrs. H. J. Newnham, department of family life, reported on the recent Family Life Orientation conference she had attended in Sorrento. Films were shown on the eight cycles of family life from the marriage to retirement, she said, followed by discussion groups. She also spoke of the various new approaches to Holy Communion, and the use of the Church of South India service.

Dorcas secretary Mrs. J. A. Andrews called for 35 head scarves for girls at Alert Bay School. She added that churches wishing to have toys for needy families should call Mrs. A. Monahan, 384-7301 before Nov. 11.

The sum of $349.87 had been spent on wool and materials for school clothing and $69.42 had been disbursed to send bales to Telegraph Creek, she said.

A report was also given by Miss Dorothea Lucas, Comox Deanery chairman.

Mrs. B. P. Harding was named convener of the new constitution committee and Mrs. A. F. Gurr was appointed junior secretary. A film, "Fire in the Islands," concluded the meeting.

Tom Turkey, piping hot and decked with all the trimmins', will be the star of a luncheon to be served from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at St. Andrew's Cathedral's annual bazaar, to be held in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall on Blanshard Street, Saturday. Tea will be served from 2 to 4 p.m. The affair will be opened by Mrs. A. W. Toone and will feature stalls of Christmas items, sewing, candy, babies' articles, cake-walk, religious articles, tombolas and Lucky Seven. The retarded children's clinic will have a booth and items made by the Arbutus Crafts Association for the handicapped will also be on sale. The cathedral's Girl Guide company will have a surprise package stall. Seen admiring some of the bazaar items are, left to right, Mrs. W. Rogers, Mrs. E. Desilet, Mrs. E. Duncan, president Mrs. B. James and Miss Mary Humphreys.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Young Boy Deserves A Better Explanation

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were divorced before Jimmy was born. Jimmy has just entered kindergarten and is asking a lot of questions about where his daddy is. His father lives here in town, has remarried and built a life of his own. He pays child support but has not seen Jimmy in years. I told the boy his daddy went to war and is "missing" so maybe he is in heaven with Jesus.

My friends say I should have told him the truth, but I just couldn't because if he knew his daddy was here in town and didn't care enough about him to come and see him he would feel very hurt and would probably hate his father. Please tell me what to do.

VEGAS

DEAR VEGAS: Wait until the time is right. Then tell Jimmy the truth. And explain that you made up that story about his daddy being missing because you thought at the time he was too young to bear the truth. (It's true.)

You can't keep Jimmy from being "hurt" because his daddy doesn't visit him. But you can try to keep the boy from "hating" him — by explaining that daddy may have reasons "we don't know about" for staying away — which could also be true.

DEAR ABBY: What is the difference between "mademoiselle" and "madame?"

R.F.J.

DEAR R.F.J.: "Monsieur."

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and my boy friend is 17. My parents tell me I cannot have my boy friend over while they are gone. Well, he comes over anyway. This is purely accidental. I tell him to call first, but he doesn't call, he just comes over and when my parents come home and find him here I get killed.

We don't do anything wrong, Abby. We just listen to records, watch TV, and talk. Now just tell me what we're doing wrong? Please print this, as I am—

IN DEEP WITH DAD

DEAR IN DEEP: You are disobeying your parents' instructions, and your boy friend is ignoring yours. If you refused to let him in when your parents are not at home, he wouldn't continue to come over unannounced, and then you wouldn't get "killed." Neither would you be "in deep" with dad.

DEAR ABBY: My husband went to a party last Friday night. In fact I drove him there. This was a party for all the guys in his shop. My husband told me there wouldn't be any wives there. I later found out that there were lots of wives there — that the husbands were told to invite them.

When I called him on it he swore up and down he didn't know he was supposed to invite me. Should I believe him? I am so hurt, I have been crying all day.

HURT

DEAR HURT: How's your husband's record for integrity? If it's good, believe him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HAVING OUR PROBLEMS THE FIRST YEAR": Marriage is a job requiring the constant effort of both parties. If it isn't worked at every day, it slips a little. It is my opinion that there never was a marriage that failed that could not have succeeded, nor a marriage that endured that could not at some time have gone on the rocks.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

West Faces A 'Disaster'

Roblin, Bennett Unhappy Over New Tax Sharing Plans

By STEPHEN SCOTT

OTTAWA (CP) — A western premier Wednesday called federal proposals before the fiscal conference here a "provincial disaster".

After hearing revisions to the federal proposals at the federal-provincial conference during the day he was a little bit happier—but not much.

His reaction was reflected by other western premiers.

The federal government revised its formula for phasing out financial support for secondary vocational schools and officials said it meant that all provinces would receive more aid than before the revisions. Not all premiers agreed.

Then the federal government announced a slight revision to its fiscal position, which made Saskatchewan Premier Thatcher a little happier.

But all premiers wanted more money from the senior government—without strings attached.

Premier Roblin of Manitoba said the federal government should abate 50 percentage points of the personal income tax to relieve provinces and municipalities of their heavy financial burdens.

Federal Proposals Rejected

He rejected federal proposals to abate 17 percentage points of personal income tax to provinces to pay for federal portions of shared-cost programs and four percentage points of the income tax and one percentage point of the corporation tax for higher education aid.

He said the fderal government should stay in shared-cost programs and, in one instance, increase its contribution.

Premier Manning said Alberta wants beteen three and five percentage points of income tax abated with no strings.

Premier Bennett said he wants two percentage points of income tax and one percentage point of corporation tax in each of the two years of the proposed fiscal agreement with the federal government.

To varying degrees premiers also sought to have the strings removed from vocational aid grants so that they could be used for university construction. They said that was necessary because the federal government is going to pay no more operating costs for vocational schools although it is going to assist universities.

Mr. Thatcher was happy about a federal plan to guarantee provinces 95 per cent of the income they made the previous year. He said this was to help Saskatchewan whose economy could be wrecked by a crop failure.

Use Money for Universities?

Mr. Thatcher was unhappy that a new federal equalization formula will phase out Saskatchewan from payments designed to bring the level of services of a province up to a national average.

He said five provinces supported him when he suggested to federal officials that vocational - grant money may be used for university construction.

Premier Bennett felt the federal fiscal proposals will be altered. He called the present proposals a start.

Mr. Manning said the federal plan to pay for certain shared-costs through abatement should be put over for a year. He said the federal government is "opting out" of shared-costs programs.

Mr. Roblin said in a brief to the conference: "Instead of shifting various programs and taxes, confusing to all concerned, with little real benefit to any province, the federal government should respond to the needs of the province for new and clear tax revenues."

Little had been done during the conference to solve the problem of educational aid—the country's No. 1 problem.

"As a result of federal proposals, well - proved programs are either cast aside or left to phase out, while inadequate funds are added in a switch to other programs."

$103 Million Debt Possible From Expo

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons public accounts committee warned Wednesday that Expo 67 could end up with a $103,000,000 debt to the federal government and no cash to repay it.

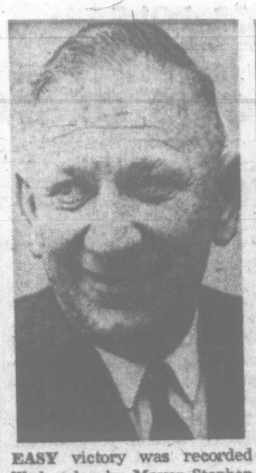

The watchdog committee recommended that the world fair be financed with extra grants by Ottawa, the Quebec government and Montreal, instead of through bond issues.

The report says the world fair corporation will need $103,000,000 in addition to grants totalling $40,000,000 received from the three levels of government in 1965.

Unless new grants were made, the extra requirements would be financed almost entirely by the federal government through the purchase of Expo securities.

"The corporation will be burdened with the cost of additional interest and at the conclusion of the exhibition, will not have the cash resources necessary for payment of its indebtedness to Canada," the report said.

Since 1965 all Expo bonds had been purchased by the federal government.

EASY victory was recorded Wednesday by Mayor Stephen Juba of Winnipeg. He won a sixth term by swamping Mrs. Gloria Queen-Hughes 45,442 votes to 5,122.

17th-Century Attitude Hit

OTTAWA (CP) — The 9,000-member Letter Carriers' Union of Canada Wednesday bitterly attacked the government's "17th-century attitude" toward its employees and said nobody can prevent carriers striking if they feel they should.

Roger Decarie, union president, issued the statement on the eve of a last-ditch meeting with a cabinet committee on postal employees' pay demands.

He said he wanted to clarify any misunderstanding that may have arisen from remarks he made Tuesday to the Senate-Commons committee on the public service. He told the committee he would "talk to my colleagues" about MPs' requests that any strike come after Christmas, not before.

On Wednesday, he said no MP will prevent a postal strike if employees feel such action is necessary. All the MPs could do was to force the government to bargain in good faith "and prevent Parliament from developing a strike-breaking habit."

"Personally, I do not think the government feels any shame about its 17th-century attitude toward the rights of its workers. . . .

"What do they care for some 20,000 postal employees when they can get away with fleecing the general public of millions of dollars with their first - class mail rates to subsidize the large publication companies who enjoy scandalously low rates?"

A strike can be averted if the government bargains in good faith today, Mr. Decarie said. But the government was "trying to get a date from us so they can be prepared to take strike-breaking action."

Canada's Stand On European Force Queried

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — There appears to be growing annoyance in some cabinet and opposition circles that Canada is the only non - European NATO member not considering a substantial reduction in its forces in Europe, informed sources say.

The United States has been talking about a 40,000-man reduction in its troop strength of some 225,000 men in Europe.

Britain has been signalling that it may cut its 45,000-man Army of the Rhine by one-third.

Both have also been suggesting they could employ airlifts to move troops to Europe quickly in any emergency. The U.S. has already demonstrated the feasibility of this.

One official, who conceded he is among a small minority, said France is the only member of NATO to have realized that the alliance may have outlived its military usefulness.

Government policy, however, is that any major withdrawal of Canadian troops, especially on the heels of France quitting NATO's integrated commands, might trigger a general military disintegration.

NDP FAVORS WITHDRAWAL

The New Democratic Party has long advocated a total Canadian military withdrawal from Europe. It has been joined openly within the last year by some Conservatives.

It is known that some Liberals, including at least one or two cabinet ministers, find it difficult to accept government policy.

A German official said during a recent visit to Ottawa: "It is so nice of you Canadians to keep your men in our country where they can spend their money."

There are 11,600 Canadian personnel in Europe, plus 12,000 dependents. Most of them are stationed in West Germany.

There are defence department officials who would welcome at least a partial withdrawal from Europe. Defence Minister Hellyer has said that it is cheaper to maintain a serviceman at home than abroad.

President Johnson said Oct. 7 that a "gradual and balanced revision in force levels" on both sides of the Iron Curtain could lead to a reduction in tensions.

A West Berlin newspaper said this week that there are indications Russia is reviewing its strategy with a view to reducing its troop strength in Eastern Europe.

ARMED FORCES PLAN PLEASES GEN. ALLARD

'Integration Icing to Be Applied'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gen. Jean Victor Allard, chief of the defence staff, Wednesday compared armed forces integration to a three-layer cake and said the icing, top-to-bottom unification, is about to be applied.

Gen. Allard was speaking at a press conference after addressing a private dinner meeting of the Honorary Colonels' Association.

"Integration has been accomplished in terms of Command staff in Ottawa," he said. "The next step is unification—the legal removal of barriers that now exist between the three forces."

He said unification does not mean the disappearance of everything distinctive. "There is much value in regimental ties, badges, that represent pride and history. . . ."

The general made it obvious he is enthusiastic over Defence Minister Paul Hellyer's unification program for the armed forces.

"I must tell you the feeling I got when I stepped off the plane at Comox, B.C. air force base on Tuesday," he said. "I was meeting my brother officers. . . . I was at home at what is strictly an air force station. This, after only two years of integration."

He said the unification barriers which must be broken down are chiefly those which now prevent an officer in one branch, such as the air force, from switching to another branch, such as the navy.

He said if a bright and capable air force officer is found by the RCAF to be surplus, he is retired—"but under full unification such an officer could continue his career uninterupted in some other branch of the service."

One of the most appropriate ways in which we can celebrate the centennial years is by honoring those Canadians, living and dead, who have contributed importantly to Canadian life and art.

Emily Carr was one of these. During her lifetime in Victoria she met with almost total rejection and indifference. A prophet without honor, nation-wide fame came only after her death in 1945.

Today she is a great Canadian, a significant contributor to the nation's art and letters.

This week she is represented as the subject of a biographical drama on the stage of McPherson Playhouse.

Greater Victoria Centennial Society presented the West Coast premiere of Herman Voaden's play Wednesday night. It will continue through the end of the week.

MAIN PROBLEM

The main problem Mr. Voaden has faced in writing the story of Emily in this form is that some of the most important aspects of her character and life would be difficult if not impossible to show us in a stage production.

Her life, among the Indians, her forays into the rain forests of the West Coast — these are the well-springs of her inspiration, the most important factors influencing her place in Canadian art.

They are most improtant in helping us to understand the force that drove her and fed her indomitable will.

In the play we hear more of her dislike of her father and eldest sister, her adoration of her mother and uncertain feelings for her suitor.

The Indians and the rain forests seem very remote.

Mr. Voaden has, however, given us the restlessness and the alternating moods of dreaming, laughing, loving, raging that are indicated in Emily Carr writings.

And in Margaret Martin, the author, and director Peter Mannering have found an ideal interpreter of the role.

This sensitive, vibrant and versatile actress is a delight especially in a scene where Emily describes a stuffy London family and an aspidistra and in the final sequences of the play.

Doris Exton and Vera Friedrich as the sisters give good support and there were one or two effective little cameo bits, notably from Dorothea House and John Martin.

Mr. Mannering has made pleasing and tasteful use of music, and slides of the paintings thrown on the cyclorama are most successfully integrated without interrupting the play's flow.

In summation, this appears as a somewhat genre piece, episodic in character but interesting, often amusing, sometimes moving.

On Wednesday night it gripped a good-sized audience that included several hundred teen-age students.

ALL-COLOR TV PROPOSAL

BBG Impressed With Plan To Set Up Third Network

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP) — A space-borne third Canadian TV network, entirely in color and reaching as many people as the CBC now covers, was proposed Wednesday in a startling presentation to the Board of Broadcast Governors.

Its key feature: An all-Canadian satellite hovering 22,400 miles above the equator, beaming national programs to 97 new community outlets from Newfoundland to Vancouver and north into the Northwest Territories.

The revolutionary proposal was advanced by Ken Soble, 55, veteran Hamilton radio and TV broadcaster, and William Turner of Montreal, president of Power Corp., of Canada. It came at the close of a two-day special hearing of the BBG.

Early this year the Soble and Power Corp. combination made an unsuccessful bid to take over the privately-owned CTV network. Instead, Mr. Soble was granted BBG authority to form a company to look into a possible third TV network operation. The CBC and CTV networks now are operating.

Mr. Soble said his group intends to make a formal application to the BBG for a satellite-fed TV network within the next few months. The whole plan was being made public to allow prior discussion in the broadcasting industry.

Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the BBG, said he was greatly impressed with the work that had gone into the Soble-Turner presentation. It was a great contribution to Canadian broadcasting and would stimulate a great deal of interest, study and inquiry.

CENTRES SHOOT SIGNALS

The plan calls for production centres at Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver that would shoot signals via the satellite to 65 unmanned receiver points across the nation. These would feed 97 transmitter towers beaming programs into adjacent communities.

Mr. Soble said the network would be known as NTV.

The whole project would involve $75,500,000 and two new companies:

—NTV, to be financed 70 per cent by public stock offering and 30 per cent by the principals — Mr. Soble's Niagara TV Ltd. and Power Corp.

—The Canadian Satellite Corp. (CANSAT), a communications utility that would get 60 per cent of its backing from broadcasters, government agencies and communications companies; 40 per cent from NTV.

Mr. Soble said the sponsoring firms stand ready to put $15,500,000 into the plan immediately. "We're serious about this proposal. Nobody puts up that kind of money unless they're sure they are going in the right direction."

The Canadian satellite, to be produced by the RCA Victor Co. at Montreal which has already begun studies, would have capacity for 12 TV channels. Any channel would instead handle up to 1,800 long-distance telephone calls at once.

'BIRD OF HEAVEN' CIRCLING EARTH

CAPE KENNEDY (AP)—A new communications satellite whirls about the earth today and the Comsat Corp. hopes late this week to install it permanently over the Pacific as the first commercial space communications link between North America and the Far East.

Nicknamed Lani Bird by some newspaper men, the satellite soared into orbit Wednesday night from Cape Kennedy, riding aboard a three-stage Delta rocket.

Lani, the Hawaiian name for "bird of heaven," is an improved version of Comsat's first satellite, Early Bird, which hovers over the Atlantic, relaying communications between North America and Europe.

Preliminary tracking data indicated the payload was in an initial path ranging from about 200 to 23,000 miles above the earth.

A ground signal will trigger a kick motor aboard the satellite Saturday night when it reaches the high point of its looping orbit the sixth time. Firing of the motor is intended to position the satellite so that it will remain stationary over one spot 22,300 miles above the international dateline in the Pacific.

There it would serve as a space switchboard for transmitting radio, television, telephone, facsimile and teletype communications between North America, Hawaii, Australia, the Philippines, Japan and Thailand.

Comsat officials said nearly all of Lani Bird's 480 channels had been committed to commercial carriers and to government agencies such as the defence department and NASA.

BRITAIN'S most travelled and highest paid singer, Alma Cogan, died Wednesday in hospital. An associate said cause of death was leukemia. She was 34.

Maclean's Monthly

TORONTO (CP) — Maclean's magazine will become a monthly publication starting Jan. 1, Donald Hunter, president of Maclean-Hunter Publishing Co. Ltd., said Wednesday. The nationally circulated magazine now is published every two weeks. Mr. Hunter said the publishing company feels it "can put out larger and more attractive issues by going monthly." This was the "sole reason" for the change.

ONE poor deal in housing can cost you TEN years of savings on groceries

Look at it this way, madam. If you shop very skilfully, buy true bargains and best values, you'd be lucky to save $2.50 a week—that's $1,300 in ten years. One piece of poor advice when you sell your home can cost you far more than $1,300. Doesn't it make sense to do realty business with trained, experienced professionals who are right on top of today's real estate market?

PERSIAN RUGS
Sizes from 1'2"x2'4" to 27'5"x16'5"

INCLUDED IN THESE SUPERB AND VALUABLE RUGS ARE:

ISFAHANS with its medallion, vase, and flower design known as 'Shab Abbassi', although the famous Sixteenth Century carpets so called were probably made in Herat.
TABRIZ is an ancient capital of Iran. It was here that the beautiful hunting carpets were woven. No other district has used such a wide range of colours or design. Silk is sometimes used in the finer specimens.
DJOSHEGHAN. The rugs of this district have the vase design, but they are simpler than those of Tabriz or Isfahan.
KASHANS. This is a very important weaving centre. Medallion and prayer designs predominate and are woven both in wool and silk.
KERMAN. The yarn of this weaving centre is soft. The designs are mostly medallion, and trees and flowers. The colors are beautifully blended and are particularly suitable for European furnishings.
FERAHAN is woven with the Sehna knot and has enjoyed great popularity in Europe and America.
KHORASSAN. The stitch of these carpets are finer than those of Ferahan, but the wool is softer and not as durable as the latter.
HERAT. The most common design of these carpets is the recurring leaf and small rosettes. The ground shade is usually dark blue and the finer specimens generally have a soft green border. Knot: Ghiordes or Sehna.
SARUK. The style here is very close to that of the Keshan carpets. The construction is strong with a very deep pile. Knot: Sehna.
SEHNA. This is the district after which the famous Iranian knot gets its name. The carpets are finely woven in small Herat and cone designs. The pile is very short and the rugs are finely woven.
QUOMS, SILK VARAMINS. The famous four seasons of the year included in this exhibition.

You are cordially invited to view this exciting exhibition to appreciate the fine craftsmanship apparent in these Persian Rugs.
Under the direct instructions of the A.B.N.R. of Iran, we are instructed, immediately after the termination of this exhibition, to sell these beautiful pieces individually by

'Include Unions In New Course'

A prominent Victoria union leader said today a Junior Achievement Program for tomorrow's businessmen announced here Tuesday should be extended to include unions.

In this way, "students would know all of it and not just half of it," said Murray Drew, president of the Victoria local of the International Woodworkers of America.

He suggested the activities of unions should be incorporated into the program, organized by local businessmen in conjunction with the Greater Victoria School Board and involving a select group of high school students.

The students could learn the financial implications of bargaining with unions and signing contracts.

WORKING CLASS

"It is a fact of life that unions are legal and are allowed to organize and fight for better things for the working class," said Mr. Drew.

"If they are going to be taught one aspect, they should be taught all aspects."

He said the union will suggest and take up with the school board, if it is passed by the regional council, that students be taught the history of unions, how they function and what place they have in society.

"I don't care whether a man is going to be a manager or a worker," he said.

"If he is going to be a manager he should have a knowledge of unions. There would probably not be the strife there is today if people did understand the function of trade unions."

The secretary-treasurer of the 12,000-member Victoria Labour Council agreed with Mr. Drew.

Harry Anderson said the Junior Achievement Program should teach students "another facet" of the business world — that when they hire workers these people will expect "to receive a just share of the profits."

He said the program does not appear to teach students social aspects of the business world — how to treat workers, bargaining with them, what rights they have.

Unions were still regarded as "a nasty word" in some circles.

If schools let the business world in, he said, "they should let the union in as well and hear both sides."

Membership In Unions Sets Record

Union membership in Canada reached an all-time high of 1,736,000 at the beginning of this year, the federal labor department reported today.

The gain was 147,000 persons over the previous year, or 9.3 per cent — the highest percentage increase for any single year since 1952.

Union members constituted 30.7 per cent of all non-farm paid workers and 24.5 per cent of the total labor force. Last year they were 23.2 per cent of the total labor force.

(Figures for B.C. for 1965 published by the provincial labor department showed 237,864 union members in the province, or 42.4 per cent of the total number of paid workers.)

BIG INCREASE

The largest numerical increase in Canada was recorded by the United Auto Workers with a gain of 19,300 members or 25 per cent over 1965.

The United Steelworkers of America gained 10,000 members while the International Brotherhood of Teamsters had an increase of 9,800 members.

The United Steelworkers of America continued to be the biggest union in the country with 120,000 members.

Second was the United Auto Workers with 96,800 and third was the Canadian Union of Public Employees with 89,400.

TOTAL MEMBERS

Total membership of affiliated unions of the Canadian Labour Congress was 1,282,000, up 101,000 or 8.5 per cent over the previous year.

The Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions had 188,000 members, up 38,000 or 25.6 per cent.

International unions, with 1,220,000 members in Canada, continued to comprise just over 70 per cent of the total union membership.

Twenty-six per cent of the union membership was in national or regional unions and the rest were independent local organizations or directly-chartered local unions.

'Grudge' Costs Man 3 Years In Penitentiary

A 38-year-old man with "a very bad record" received a three-year sentence in the penitentiary Tuesday for arson.

Lorne Patrick Mitchell, 828 Courtney, earlier admitted deliberately setting fire to a Wilkinson Road Prison barn Oct. 12. The blaze resulted in $50,000 damage and the deaths of 44 piglets and four sows.

Mitchell said he had a grudge against the prison.

He was sentenced Tuesday following presentence and psychiatric reports.

Magistrate Ostler told Mitchell he was sure most of his troubles stemmed from the fact he was an alcoholic.

"We pity alcoholics, or indeed any other sick persons," the magistrate said.

"But when an alcoholic or any other person becomes a menace to society as you have become, society must come first."

He said the reports concluded Mitchell needed psychiatric treatment and possibly hospital care.

Chamber Group Inspects Harbor Facilities

Victoria Chamber of Commerce had a waterborne picnic and harbor tour Tuesday to keep abreast of transportation developments.

Under the guidance of harbor master Capt. Ron Newell and harbor and transportation group chairman George Farmer, 15 chamber members inspected the Inner Harbor for cleanliness and adequacy of facilities.

They saw proposed crossings of the projected Victoria West parkway at the CN Railway bridge, Selkirk Water, and at Laurel Point.

Mr. Farmer said the tour was such a success he is planning a follow-up cruise in the spring for chamber members at large.

Falls From Plane

BELGRADE (AP) — A Turkish airplane stewardess fell off a taxing plane here Sunday afternoon, the Yugoslav newspaper Vcernje Novosti reported Monday. While the plane was coming to a stop she opened the door and fell on the concrete runway. After the doctor on duty at the airport examined her, she continued on the same flight, the paper said.

GOODWILL visits to Moscow began Tuesday for King Hassan of Morocco. His visit is expected to lead to agreement for Soviet military aid to balance a military build-up in Algeria, also aided by Russia. Talks end Nov. 1 and will include consideration of Soviet aid to agriculture, manufacturing, mining and hydro projects.

'Freedom Budget' To End Poverty By 1975 Urged

NEW YORK (AP) — Civil rights leader A. Philip Randolph Wednesday proposed a massive "freedom budget" designed to wipe out poverty in the U.S. by 1975.

The plan calls for increasing the federal budget to $115,000,000,000 from the present $112,800,000,000 within nine years.

It also would establish a $2 minimum wage, set up a guaranteed income program for persons who cannot get jobs, and increase investments in education, housing, vocatonal training and health services.

Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters (AFL-CIO) said the budget differs from similar efforts in the past because it outlines strict time schedules.

Benson Denies 'Pass on Savings' Story

OTTAWA (CP) — Revenue Minister Benson said Wednesday he did not suggest to Volkswagen or Studebaker that the 17-per-cent duty saved on a cross-border transaction be passed on to the Canadian purchaser of the Volkswagen cars.

He was replying to a Commons question by Alfred D. Hales (PC — Ellington South) whose original questioning turned up what he has called a "scandalous and shocking deal."

Under the Canada-U.S. auto agreement, Studebaker of Canada bought 10,000 Volkswagens, imported them into Canada without paying the 17-per-cent duty and sold them back to Volkswagen Canada Ltd.

Industry Minister Drury announced Tuesday that the revenue department is conducting a "semi-judicial investigation" into the transaction. Volkswagen obtained a letter from the revenue department on the legality of the transaction.

T. C. Douglas, NDP leader, began the questioning Wednesday by asking Mr. Benson to table the revenue department letter which, he said, approved the sale of 10,000 Volkswagens and resulted in the loss of $2,000,000 in taxes to the federal treasury.

Mr. Benson said he has read the letter and saw no reason for not making it public.

However, he was seeking an opinion from his departmental officials whether publication of the letter would affect the confidential nature of correspondence between taxpayers and the revenue department.

The letter in question was written by an official of the revenue department in reply to one from Volkswagen. The company has said it had misgivings about the deal but went ahead with it with government approval.

Mr. Douglas asked when the revenue department investigation began.

Mr. Benson said it began a "number of months" ago and before Mr. Hales had raised the matter in the Commons.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker asked whether the minister had discussed with any official of Studebaker or Volkswagen a general outline of the transaction before the cars were imported last year.

"Emphatically, no," Mr. Benson replied.

Jolly Friar Deflated $66

The Jolly Friar wears a sad grin after the Tuesday looting of the restaurant at 755 Cormorant Street.

The whole Monday take of $66.91 was stolen early Tuesday morning by thieves who gained access by forcing a storeroom window.

The theft was not discovered until 2:30 Tuesday afternoon, when the proprietor planned to bank the petty cash.

The lesson learned: no cash will again be kept overnight, the manager said today.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Both Canadian networks, CBC-TV and CTV, are making a big mistake on Sunday nights. They are trying to inform and educate rather than entertain.

Stephen

Officials of both networks obviously think they know what is best for the viewer rather than the man who controls the set.

Why? This season, CTV has inflicted upon the viewer a news analysis program titled W-5, a rather sad carbon copy of This Hour Has Seven Days.

CBC-TV has filled the airwaves with "China Teach-In" and programs TBA (to be announced), but definitely in the public affairs and news analysis field.

On Nov. 6, in the time period we are referring to, 10-11 p.m., CBC-TV will inaugurate a new series titled "Sunday." This program, according to producer Daryl Duke, will see a new kind of theatricality, distinct from what public affairs and magazine programs have done in the past.

The show will feature Ian Tyson, male half of the singing team of Ian and Sylvia; Peter Reilly, Robert Hoyt and Larry Zolf (both of the defunct Seven Days' unit), and Leonard Cohen, an author.

"Sunday is a show which will run the gamut of human experience, mixing raw journalism with the emotional audience involvement of a medieval bearpit or bullfight arena.

"With Sunday I hope to give a mind-expanding full view of life . . . a view which has all the intensity and chaotic clarity of an LSD 'trip' "—Daryl Duke.

Well, I for one don't want to find myself in a chaotic bearpit late Sunday evenings. I want to relax in the bosom of my family and be entertained.

I've worked hard all week long and Monday morning means another long week of labor in the master's vineyards.

Why can't the CBC and CTV realize this and shove the thought pieces down my throat during the weekday evenings?

Other networks, ABC-TV, CBS-TV, NBC-TV and the privately-owned ones in Seattle, schedule movies, variety in the form of Andy Williams and even Candid Camera. They push the heavy stuff at viewers during the week

We've taken almost all of our ideas from the pages of their entertainment book. Would one more page hurt?

IN QUEBEC AND ENGLISH-CANADA

Demagogues Hurting Chances for Unity

MONTREAL (CP) — Bryce Mackasey, Liberal MP for Montreal-Verdun, said Tuesday night the real question facing Canada is "whether Quebecers really want to continue as Canadians."

At the same time Canadians outside the province must decide whether they want Quebec within Confederation—"even at the cost of rectifying some of the injustices that have crept into existence."

Mr. Mackasey, speaking to the Canadian Wholesale Drug Association, attacked what he called demagogues in Quebec who are turning nationalism to their own ends, and English-Canadians who will not recognize French-Canadian rights outside Quebec.

The MP, parliamentary secretary to the labor minister, called for a frank and honest dialogue between those who speak for English Canada and those who speak for French Canada.

The time had come "for those in this province who believe in one single, undivided country, united from sea to sea, to stand up and be counted."

The main reasons for the gap separating English and French-speaking Canadians were "the politicians who have the power and means at their disposal to bring these two founding races together."

Mr. Mackasey criticized Mayor Robert Everson of Port Hope, Ont., for denouncing the bilingual sign on Port Hope's new post office.

The mayor "saw a way of turning misunderstanding into political advantage," he said.

"I suggest that this mayor does not really believe this move to be detrimental, but rather like too many politicians, his honor thought he saw a way of attracting the votes of those prejudiced and bigoted in the community."

Quebec also had its share of this kind of "inward thinking" by people out of tune with Quebec feeling.

Mr. Mackasey said the overwhelming majority of Quebecers want to remain Canadian and some say they may be "shocked into action."

U.S. Troops Secretly In Dominican

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The United States has a large contingent of special forces troops in the Dominican Republic despite a publicized pullout of other U.S. servicemen, the Miami Herald says.

The Herald says the special forces are secretly deployed in the hills. They watch the Haitian border trails for Cuban infiltrators who might try to start trouble in the Dominican Republic, the paper reports.

It says a secondary mission of the guerrilla-trained soldiers is to keep an eye peeled for signs of unrest from dissident Dominican factions.

The last U.S. units of the inter-American peace force were reported to have pulled out of the Dominican Republic Sept. 21 but there was gossip in Santo Domingo at the time that the United States was secretly leaving 3,000 troops behind in an isolated sector of the country. U.S. military officials in Santo Domingo would not comment.

At its peak in mid-May 1965, the peace force numbered 24,000 men, including 22,500 U.S. paratroopers and marines.

WEST COAST NAVY FLEET DOWN TO FIVE SHIPS, SUB

The West Coast navy fleet lost another four ships Wednesday.

The cutback came with the announcement that four ocean escorts presently in "hot reserve" will be sold.

All four ships, Jonquiere, Antigonish, Stettler and Sussexvale, were built around 1943 and are considered obsolete.

The reduction will leave the fleet's operations warship force at only six — five destroyer-escorts and the submarine Grilse.

The immediate sale came as a surprise in the light of earlier announcements that the ships would probably be retained for centennial year and training purposes.

It will bring to six the number of ocean escorts sold this year on the West Coast.

Another ocean escort, the New Waterford is to be sold in the east.

The last remaining ocean-escort, the Beacon Hill, is to be sold next spring.

For training purposes on the West Coast, the navy will now use the rejuvenated gate vessel, Porte de la Reine, the yacht Oriole, and sundry harbor craft.

To boost the West Coast fleet, two helicopter destroyers which are to be converted in the east, will probably be stationed here.

He Speaks English, Except On Television

MONTREAL (CP) — Antonio Barrette, a former Union Nationale premier of Quebec, Wednesday declined to speak English for a television interview.

Mr. Barrette, 67, had been chatting with reporters in English and his native French following a service club speech here.

He was approached by two television crews who asked him to sit before the cameras and tape an interview.

The former premier, who on Tuesday finished a term as Canadian ambassdor to Greece, agreed to be interviewed but said he would not answer questions in English.

The televison reporter told the ex-premier of having interviewed him twice previously in English for television.

"Yes, I know," Mr. Barette said in English. "But this time it's different."

Asked why, he said: "Well, there are nuances . . . I have to be more careful."

His speech to the service club dealt entirely with the history of Greece.

CHINESE STUDENTS EXIT WITH AN INSULT

MOSCOW (UPI) — Fifty Chinese students wearing armbands of Peking's Red Guard movements Wednesday talked their way past Soviet militiamen and laid wreaths near the tombs of Stalin and Lenin in a farewell jibe at "revisionism".

Soviet police at first peacefully turned the students away. But after three hours of waiting and arguing outside Red Square, the blue-uniformed students were permitted to put two six-foot wreaths of chrysanthemums, roses and irises near the bodies of the two Soviet leaders.

The estimated 65 Chinese students in Russia have been ordered out of the country by Thursday in retaliation for the expulsion of Soviet students from China and Red Guard attacks on the Soviet Embassy in Peking.

to deal with if and when we come to it."

Maloney said he could not assess fully the amount of support he would muster at the convention but he did mention that there were "encouraging" signs from Quebec.

He also added that he had received indications that a majority of the Conservative parliamentary caucus backed him.

Maloney said his candidacy has not been discussed "directly or indirectly" with Mr. Diefenbaker, he said.

Diefenbaker said Wednesday night he will welcome a reassessment of his leadership at the party's national conference.

He made the statement on the CBC network program The Nation's Business. The conference is being held Nov. 14-16.

The party has always reassessed its leadership at national meetings, Mr. Diefenbaker said. He had always had his leadership reassessed and this would be "done again by vote of the delegates."

"There must be a reassessment at such times, and I have always asked for it. No leader can carry on unless he has a vote of confidence.

"I have had it in the past and I will be asking again that the representatives who come to Ottawa for this great national meeting will determine by their vote a major question answering once and for all the shoddy propaganda that is being spread across this country that I have taken a stand at any time against a reassessment.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he had had "everything that the Canadian people can give."

"Why have I stood? Why do I continue in the face of bitter criticism from certain interests which have attacked me from the beginning? I believe I yet have a contribution to make to Canada. The determination as to whether I have will be one for the representatives of the people as they meet together."

Informants said Wednesday night that Conservative national headquarters has destributed an agenda for the annual meeting next month without consulting Mr. Camp.

Mr. Camp would normally have determined the agenda in consultation with the party's principal officers and the national executive, a party source said.

An informant said the Conservative MPs received copies of an agenda from party headquarters Wednesday. The principal officers and the executive have not yet consulted on the agenda.

The agenda leaves the election of officers until the final day of the three-day meeting. It had been rumored that Mr. Camp would seek an earlier test of his leadership reassessment campaign by asking the executive to shift the election of officers to the opening session Nov. 14.

Fluoridation Vote

PORT MOODY (CP) — Installation of fluoridation equipment for the city's water supply will be delayed until next spring and possibly later, city council decided Monday night. 'PEOPLE'S WAR' THREAT

Grim Time Race Faces Thailand

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

BANGKOK (AP) — President Johnson's visit dramatizes Thailand's grim race against time.

Thailand and the United States are trying to make maximum use of what time they still have to insulate Thailand, a country of 30,000,000, against a threat of Communist "people's war," while the process of nation-building goes forward.

The threat of "people's war" seems real enough. It is the announced intention of China to support one in the style of Viet Nam. A Thai-language Communist broadcast last month called Viet Nam "a shining example for us."

Few in Bangkok doubt the threat in the impoverished northeast, noting a sharp rise this year in guerrilla activity. In 1966 there has been an average of 10 or more assassinations each month as the guerrillas try to get control of an area, however small, that could be the nucleus of a "liberated zone."

Military men say guerrilla attacks are better organized these days. Geurrillas in the northeast operate in bands of up to 50. Many are propaganda teams which swoop into villages, lecture peasants and intimidate or punish officials. The technique is reminiscent of the Viet Cong in the late 1950s.

SOCIAL MEASURES HELP

The government is trying to establish links between villages and Bangkok. Economic and social measures help an effort to build an Asian democracy, the sort which begins at village level. There is often more democracy at that level than at the national one, where a rather benevolent military dictatorship promises a constitutin and representative government but invariably insists that the threat to the nation makes the time appropriate.

The effort at village and district levels is concentrated in the critical six provinces of the northeast. Gradually it is spreading to other provinces.

Attempts are made to better local governments, raise incomes, increase authority of local leaders. Teams of Thai technicians fan out over a wide area for training programs originated by the Thais themselves. Thai money for the programs equals a U.S. contribution. Americans and Thais report a minimum of corruption in these programs; both admit there is some.

The government has managed to keep prices stable. Rice is higher because of rising world prices, but this benefits the farmer more than it hurts the consumer. It pays the farmer to increase production, while the price increase is absorbed by a general urban prosperity.

The U.S. military program—construction of bases and concentration of 27,000 troops in the country—has been largely confined to the underdeveloped areas.

Road building has had an impact. In many areas heavy trucks move easily and quickly to market. Improved communications eventually can tie this loosely knit country together.

United Appeal Awards Announced

Awards for outstanding achievement by both donors and canvassers have been announced by Community Chest officials.

Among canvassers, one group already has exceeded its 1966 objective with more contributions still coming in. Stanley Jenkins and Commodore R. M. Battles, co-chairmen of the Federal Service division, were honored at the weekly meeting of the United Appeal campaign committee for heading the first division to go "over the top." Small statuettes, inscribed with the words "Over The Top," were presented to the two chairmen by Mrs. Phoebe Noble, campaign committee co-chairman.

Fifteen coeds of the University of Victoria, all residents of Emily Carr and Margaret Newton Halls, carried out a "blitz" campaign in an area of Gordon Head Tuesday evening. When all results were in they had exceeded their $400 quota by $57 and the total contributions from the same district last year by more than $100. A special letter of commendation is going from Chest headquarters to Mrs. Diana Caleb, Don of the two residences, who acted as team captain.

HANDICAPPED

Among the more faithful supporters of the Community Chest over the years have been the handicapped workers of Goodwill Enterprises. Although many work less than full time, they have always demonstrated a willingness to share generously with other less fortunate persons. This year, 97 per cent of the 88 employees of Goodwill made a donation to the appeal, the average of which was $4.84.

Awards also have been approved for employees of 43 other business firms throughout the campaign area.

Heading the list are the six firms whose employees have qualified for the Chest's highest honor, the Award of Excellence. Winners to date are McCall Brothers, 1400 Vancouver, and King Brothers, 910 Langley Street, both for the third consecutive year. Second year winners are Scott Plastics, 21 Erie and Wyder Electric Co., 540 Culduthel, while the Colwood branch of the Royal Bank of Canada and the Net Loft Restaurant both have won the coveted award for the first time. Every employee of these six companies participated in the United Appeal and each gave an average of $19.47.

AWARDED PLAQUES

Plaque award winners include the T. Eaton Co. (Canada), Bank of Montreal, main branch; Bank of Montreal, 1771 Fort Street; McKay-Cormack; Standard Furniture Company; B.C. Forest Products, Smith Cedar Products; Montreal Trust Company; Treasury Department, Department of National Health and Welfare; Harbord Insurance; Yorkshire and Canadian Trust; Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, 1022 Government; General Motors Acceptance Corporation; National Trust Company; Department of National Revenue; District Taxation Office; Canadian Liquid Air; Kent's Limited; Ismay, Boiston, Dunn and Company; Yorkshire Securities; Canada Trust-Huron and Erie; Dowell's Cartage and Storage; Pioneer Fruit and Vegetable; Radio Station CJVI and the Toronto-Dominion Bank, 3635 Douglas St.

At least 80 per cent of the employees of these firms contributed to the Appeal and each group achieved a goal equivalent to 50 per cent of all executives and employees giving a day's pay a year.

CITATIONS

Citation awards, given to firms attaining similar results but employing less than 10 persons, went to Standard Oil of British Columbia; the Community Chest; Reeson-Pinch Homes and Reeson Investments; Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Fort and Cook Streets, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Imperial Oil Limited; Angus Marine Sales and Service; Silver Threads Service; Boy Scouts; Community Welfare Council; Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, 3480 Tillicum; Cunningham Drugs, Town and Country Shopping Centre; Shell Canada; SPCA and London Life.

Other awards are still being processed and will be announced as soon as final figures are available.

Karate Killer Goes to Prison For Life in U.K.

LONDON (Reuters)—A young waiter who killed a man in a fight with seven karate blows in three seconds was sentenced Tuesday to life imprisonment.

Before sentencing the waiter, Anthony Creamer, 20, the judge told the jury that if they believed his statement that karate is a dedicated way of life in which each antagonist sought to cause the death of the other it is time to ban it in Britain.

Creamer said that Andrew Allan, 20-year-old barman, went berserk after a drinking party and tried to push him through a fifth-storey window.

He pleaded not guilty to murdering Allan, but said he practised karate — a violent sport of Japanese origin for unarmed combat — as a way of life "in the way of dedicated fights — fights to the death."

Special Service Set

A Bible celebration will be held in the Church of the Sacred Heart, Lake View, on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. to celebrate the Feast of Christ the King.

AN INTEREST in prisons was voiced Wednesday by actress Jayne Mansfield upon her arrival at Vancouver airport. "If you have a prison problem here, I would like to see it," she said. "I'm very interested in penology." She is appearing in a Vancouver night club until November 5.

TO BEGIN SCHOOL HERE

Uvic Senate Studies Social Worker Brief

A school of social work is under consideration by the University of Victoria senate, at the urging of the South Island branch of the B.C. Association of Social Workers.

A brief stating the need for a social work school to help offset a shortage of trained social workers has been submitted to the senate.

The suggestion hs been "favorably received," said Garth Homer, executive director of the Community Welfare Council. "We were encouraged that the university would study the brief in detail."

The brief was prepared by Gordon Wright, Family and Children's Service director; assistant city manager William Hooson; and Mr. Homer.

The social workers hope that if the idea is accepted by the university, the school would open next September.

Although establishment of an undergraduate school of social work is the aim of the brief, the social workers group would like to see graduate courses leading to a masters degree in social work established eventually as well.

If set up the social work school would probably offer courses in the social sciences leading to a BA degree, said Mr. Homer.

The brief calls establishment of an undergraduate school "not merely desirable, but urgently necessary."

It says fewer than one out of four Canadian social workers hold a degree in their field.

Mr. Homer also noted the school of social work at the University of British Columbia is the only one in the province, and has been overcrowded for years.

The financial aspect of setting up the school, at Uvic, plus problems of meshing the social work courses with the present curriculum, are the chief matters for consideration by the senate.

The social work group has received encouragement from both provincial and federal authorities in their aim of setting up the school, Mr. Homer said.

No definite word has been received yet from Uvic, he said, but "we have no reason to feel pessimistic."

Convicts Ask to Serve Time in Viet Nam War

DENVER (UPI) — Seventy-four Denver County jail inmates—among them two accused murderers — Wednesday petitioned President Johnson to let them "serve with honor" on battlefields of Viet Nam.

Robbery suspect Eugene Velarde, who headed the petition drive efforts, said copies of the petition also had been sent to United States Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and Colorado Governor John A. Love.

Men whose names were on the list included prisoners held for narcotics violations, burglary, robbery and rape.

"Each of the undersigned wishes and desires to volunteer their services as combat troops for advanced and hazardous duty in Viet Nam," the petition said.

"Our motives are simple and in a sense selfish. Society claims and says we owe a debt. There has been no final determination of such debt in our cases. If we owe such a debt, let us . . . pay such a debt with honor in the service of our country."

Tory Calls For Hellyer's Resignation

TORONTO (CP) —Terry Nugent, Conservative member of Parliament for Edmonton-Strathcona, said Wednesday night that Defence Minister Paul Hellyer should retire because of behavior he termed unprecedented in the parliamentary history of Canada and the Commonwealth.

He told a meeting of the Etobicoke Progressive Conservative Association that Mr. Hellyer removed four pages of Admiral William Landymore's submission to the parliamentary committee on national defence.

Mr. Nugent said disclosure of the critical shortage of manpower in the Maritime Command—as described in the four pages—would have caused a public outcry for changes in policy on recruitment.

"We won't be able to man our ships within a year," he said.

"It is an affront to Parliament by the prime minister allowing the defence minister to sit in Parliament refusing to have an inquiry to clear his name."

He said it is the exclusive right of Parliament to look into the conduct of businesses by the cabinet, but the prime minister has stood in the way of such an inquiry.

Farmers Bulldozed Out of Way

FREDERICTON (CP) — A provincial public works department bulldozer Wednesday pushed aside four persons trying to stall efforts to clear 20 tons of manure blocking a road at nearby Bear's Island.

The roadblock was set up by irate farmers who say the provincial government has not offered enough money for land being expropriated for the Mactaquac hydroelectric project on the St. John River.

The farmers unloaded the manure to block a new stretch of road being built to replace one which will be flooded by the headpond of the $113,000,000 power development.

After several unsuccessful efforts earlier this week to clear the block, the bulldozer arrived at the scene along with an RCMP corporal.

Gerald Goodine, whose barn is only several yards from the roadblock, stood with three others, including his wife, in front of the manure pile as the tractor approached.

A reporter at the scene said the constable waved the bulldozer forward, and the four were pushed 10-15 feet along the manure pile. Mrs. Dow Goodine collapsed as she was pushed along, but was not injured.

Pilots Ask Extension Of Facilities

The Victoria flight of the Canadian Owners and Pilots Association will ask for extension of seaplane facilities in Victoria's Inner Harbor.

New Dimension In Screens Hits Movieland

HOLLYWOO D (AP) — Remember the 12-by-15-foot screen of silent movies and early talkies?

In 1952, cinerama, using three cameras and three projectors, took happily screaming audiences down roller-coasters and across mountains on a massive screen twice as wide as it was high.

The next year CinemaScope unveiled Marilyn Monroe on a wide screen, and the year after that Todd A-O, challenging cinerama's three-film process, issued Oklahoma on film 70 millimetres wide — twice as wide as the previous standard.

Other 70-mm. systems followed — ultra panavision, super panavision, super technirama 70-mm. and 35-mm. vista vision.

The latest is dimension 150 or D-150, the brainchild of two men who say it's the first new process in eight years and gives the highest fidelity yet in picture and sound.

United Artists Theatres, which own D-150, are installing the system in their new movie houses. Film Daily has said D-150 "has everything that has been claimed for it," and critic Bosley Crowther acclaimed its "stunning projection."

MADE BY SYSTEM

The Bible, an $18,000,000 spectacle, is the only feature so far made in the system.

What's Dimension 150? The 150 stands for the number of degrees' spread it can photograph — nearly the field of human vision.

D-150 uses "wide-angle, telephoto and zoom camera lenses heretofore unknown to wide film photography," says Richard Vetter, one of the co-inventors.

With special projector lenses it throws images on a deeply curved, floor-to-ceiling screen without distortion, he says, "giving audiences more sense of participation, involvement and realism." The sound system has eight tracks, two more than customary.

'Help Them Bridge Gap' Says Mountie on Eskimos

It is not a tragedy the Eskimo is losing his way of life, RCMP Superintendent William G. Fraser said Wednesday.

"We must accept them as our own and help them bridge the gap between their customs and our own way of life," he told members of the Canadian Club.

Supt. Fraser, who joined the force in 1931, was formerly commanding officer for the entire Arctic.

He said the Eskimo is now facing some of the problems which were dealt with by our forefathers when they first came here.

"This is a revolutionary period for the Eskimo and there will be mistakes made in trying to help them.

"But in the end he will come into his own inheritance," said Supt. Fraser.

He said his sentiment was that the Eskimo is the nearest to God's chosen people.

He read journals of an RCMP constable serving in the north in the early part of the century in which the constable ended his yearly reports by saying there had been no crime in his district.

"Unfortunately it is not the same today and the reason is liquor.

PRIVILEGE

"We can't deny them the privilege but it will take a few generations for them to learn to handle it."

One of the longest patrols ever made in the Arctic by the RCMP occurred during the Second World War when there were fears of hidden submarine bases.

A young constable and an Eskimo companion made a 3,551-mile patrol of the eastern Arctic in one year and 15 days.

Supt. Fraser said the RCMP was first sent into the north in 1903 "not to establish law and order, but as an act of sovereignty.

He pointed out that RCMP serving in the north volunteer for the posts.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions be asked to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Kevin Kayse, age 12, of Louisville, Ky., for his question:

Was Polaris always the North Star?

Polaris was not the North Star when the Egyptians built their pyramids 5,000 years ago. And 5,000 years in the future the role of North Star will be played by a dim little star. About 10,000 years later the role will be played by the brightest star in our summer skies.

A line straight up from the earth's North Pole points out the celestial North Pole of the sky. It reaches very close to Polaris, and this bright golden star seems to hang almost directly above the north pole end of the earth's axis. For at least 3,000 years Polaris has been pointing out the north direction to travelers in the Northern Hemisphere. It is about one degree or twice the width of the full moon from the true celestial North Pole. In the next 1,000 years it will be a half-degree of sky distance closer.

The ancient Egyptians oriented their great tombs by the stars. Polaris was not the North Pole Star when they built their pyramids. The star Thurban hung above the earth's North Pole and pointed out the north direction. Thurban has since moved its position, but we can see it as a pale star in the tail of Draco, the Dragon. About 20,000 years in the future it will play the role of the North Star again.

About 12,000 years ago the role was played by Vega, the big brilliant star in the small constellation Lyra, the Lyre. At that time there was room for a row of 97 full moons between Polaris and the celestial North Pole. This pattern will be repeated in the skies of 14,000 A.D. And the whole series of changing polestars repeats every 26,000 years.

Spins Like a Cone

The roaming North-Pole-in-the-sky is caused by a circular motion called precession. On a small scale you can watch precession at work on a spinning top. The top, like the earth, rotates around a central axis line. Gravity pulls its rotation into a cone-shaped motion with wider circles at the top of the axis. Rotation and the moon's gravity make the earth spin like a cone with its widest circle at the North Pole.

Each slow precession spin takes about 26,000 years. Meantime, the earth's North Pole fingers a complete circle in the sky above it. It points to first one, then another North Star. For a few thousand years it will point near Polaris, then move on, and one by one several stars in the constellation Cepheus will play the North Star role.

The earth's precession does not change the position of the distant stars. Our North Pole merely points to different parts of the sky. But this gradually shifts our entire view of the sky. Some of the stars that now circle the celestial North Pole will rise and set. Other stars now seen only below the equator will appear in our skies. About 12,000 years in the future, when Vega is the North Star, the Southern Cross will be seen as far north as Canada.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Susan Langley, age 11, of Cumberland Centre, Me., for her question:

Why does a raccoon wash his food?

The raccoon is one of the most handsome natives of our woods, but he is mistreated and he tends to fear us. Mr. Specs is a shy fellow, and in order to watch him we need a lot of quiet patience. If a baby racoon is captured and kindly treated he becomes a very affectionate and clever pet.

In the wilds Mr. Specs is not choosy about his diet, but he likes to find a stream and dunk his dinner, morsel by morsel, before he eats it. He hunts mostly at night, and if you watch a woodsy stream you may catch a glimpse of this food washing at dawn or dusk. No one can say for sure why he inherited this habit. Some suggest that his teeth are not very strong and dunking makes the food easier to chew. Some suggest that his tummy finds soggy food easier to digest, but we must wait for a reliable explanation until some interested person proves it with a thorough job of scientific research.

BONNER TO TRY CARIBOO

Speare Seat For Byelection

By JOHN MIKA

Attorney-General Robert Bonner will take his second crack at joining the 28th British Columbia Legislature in a byelection in Cariboo, the Times learned today from several reliable sources.

A well-attended cabinet meeting that convened this morning was to set a date for the contest. It was expected to be within a fortnight after the Remembrance Day holiday next month.

Although Premier Bennett was still in Ottawa, the cabinet session was chaired by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, minister responsibe for the Elections Act.

William Speare, 51-year-old hospital administration consultant, is the backbencher who has stepped down to give Mr. Bonner his chance to overcome last month's general election defeat in Vancouver-Point Grey.

GOOD MAJORITY

Mr. Speare, who lives permanently at 6560 Rey Street in Central Saanich, has held the Cariboo seat since 1957. He won it by a majority of 1,192 in a byelection caused by the death of Ralph Chetwynd, one of the key cabinet ministers in Premier Bennett's early administrations.

The Socreds have held the seat comfortably since they came to power in 1952. Mr. Chetwynd won it with a vote of 3,015 and became the railways, trade and industry minister. He extended the Pacific Great Eastern Railway which is the lefeline of the Cariboo ranching and logging country. Subsequently he was agriculture and fisheries minister.

However, despite addition of some pro-Socred areas to the riding through redistribution, Mr. Speare had by far the toughest battle of his political career during last month's general election campaign.

This was largely a result of underground issues involving personal matters and his long residence outside of the riding.

His support has risen undramatically through 2,294, 3,091, 3,015 and 3,830 votes in the election campaigns he has fought over the years. But the most consistent runner-up, the CCF-NDP, jumped from 1,482 votes in 1963 to 2,539 votes this year when it was represented by Rev. Hartley D. Dent.

Mr. Speare was seen visiting the offices of the premier, Speaker and provincial secretary a few days after last

AUSSIES TO GIVE AID 'AS LONG AS NEEDED'

CANBERRA (AP)—Australia will continue to give South Viet Nam military and non-military aid as "firmly and as long as may be necessary," Prime Minister Harold Holt said today in reporting to the House of Representatives on the Manila conference. He said no efforts will be spared in the search for peace by South Viet Nam's allies, but that peace will have to be just and enduring.

MAJOR SPLIT in West German government is discussed by Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, left, with Deputy Chancellor Erich Mende in Bonn today after latter and three other ministers announced their resignations. Split came about in fight over budgetary dispute. (AP Wirephoto.)

New Crisis for Erhard As 4 Ministers Resign

BONN (Reuters) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government coalition broke apart today when the minority Free Democrats' four cabinet ministers resigned over a budgetary dispute, the party announced.

The coalition, an increasingly uneasy one, broke up a year after its formation, with Erhard's triumph in the 1965 general elections.

Erhard, under fire within his own Christian Democratic party for alleged weakness and indecisiveness, could theoretically carry on ruling with a minority government, since the West German constitution is designed to buttress the position of the party in power.

But his position would be one of extreme difficulty, political observers said.

There was no immediate statement from the Christian Democratic party or the chancellery on the intentions of the 69-year-old chancellor, who recently reaffirmed his intention to continue in the office he has held since he succeeded Konrad Adenauer.

The dispute with the Free Democrats was over ways of filling an estimated 4,000,000,000 marks ($1,080,000,000) deficit in next year's budget.

The Free Democrats want the gap filled by reducing subsidies and abolishing tax concessions, while the chancellor's Christian Democrats said they did not exclude tax increases if this was the only way to cover the deficit.

If Erhard does not try to rule with a minority Christian Democrat government — his party does not have an absolute majority in the Bundestag (lower house)—the main alternatives are a "grand coalition" with the opposition Social Democrats led by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt or a Social Democrat-Free Democrat coalition.

THREATENS TO RESIGN

Erhard has repeatedly said he would resign rather than head a grand coalition, which would give the Social Democrats their first taste of power after being constantly in opposition since the West German Parliament was created in 1949.

The four free democratic ministers in Erhard's coalition are Vice - Chancellor and Party Leader Erich Mende, who is also all - German affairs minister, Finance Minister Rolf Dahlgruen, Economic Co-operations Minister Walter Scheel and Housing Minister Ewald Bucher.

A communique after a meeting said the party's parliamentary wing had reached the conviction that under the present political circumstances a budgetary decision which would serve long-term stability could not be expected.

"For this reason the ministers belonging to the Free Democratic party have anounced their resignation.

Johnsons Relax At Thai Resort

BANGKOK (Reuters) — President Johnson flew to a seaside resort in Thailand today for a day's rest after the Manila summit talks and his whirlwind visit to U.S. troops in South Viet Nam.

Johnson, the first U.S. president to visit Thailand, and his wife flew from Manila where they spent the night as guests of President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines.

They quickly left by helicopter for the village of Bang Saen, where they will relax at Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn's waterfront guest house, Friday they fly to Bangkok for an official visit.

The president and Mrs. Johnson left their Manila hotel in the company of President Marcos and Mrs. Marcos and drove through cheering, flag - waving crowds along the main Roxas Avenue toward the Manila International Airport.

During his visit to Cam Ranh Bay, in South Viet Nam, Wednesday the president talked to the area and corps commanders who were assembled there for a regularly scheduled meeting with the over-all commander, Gen. William Westmoreland.

Johnson told his staff aboard the plane today that he talked to each officer about the situation in his own corps area and that he believed a two-minute report in person was more informative than a 3,000 - word cable.

Friday the president and Mrs. Johnson will be the guests of King Bhumibol Adulyadej and Queen Sirikit.

The president and Mrs. Johnson are due to remain in Bangkok until they leave Sunday for Kuala Lumpur, capital of Malaysia.

Thai defence forces have been put on full alert during President Johnson's stay and police are keeping a strict security watch on leftist elements.

TO PAY PROVINCES

Ottawa Needs $500 Million In New Taxes

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians face higher taxes to pay for more than $500,000,000 in increased federal contributions to education, equalization payments to provinces and its proposed program of a guaranteed $105-a-month income to the aged.

The education and equalization payments are being arranged at this week's federal-provincial conference on education and fiscal matters. The guaranteed income program, scheduled to go before Parliament soon, was announced last summer.

When Health Minister MacEachen announced the guaranteed income program for the aged last summer he estimated its cost would be above $200,000,000 a year.

Finance Minister Sharp indicated later that this would have to be met from increased taxes.

The increased contributions to education announced by Prime Minister Pearson before the federal - provincial conference opened are estimated to amount to about $137,400,000 for 1967-68.

PEOPLE MUST PAY

Mr. Pearson said in his statement:

"I feel bound to point out that the cost of this support for higher education must be carried by the taxpayers of Canada in one way or another—including the replacement of the revenue transferred."

At a press conference Wednesday Mr. Sharp, asked how the tax transfers to the provinces for higher education would be accounted for, said:

"I think we'll have to raise taxes for this purpose."

Added to these is a new equalization formula, outlined in September and confirmed at the conference Wednesday, that will cost the federal treasury about $138,000,000 in a year in increased payments to the provinces.

In other developments Wednesday the federal government amended its plans about phasing-out grants to technical and vocational training at the secondary school level and decided to limit a new tax - sharing agreement to two years.

Both steps helped to pacify provincial premiers.

MONEY AVAILABLE

Mr. Pearson told the premiers in the morning that during the phasing-out of capital grants in this field there will be about $548,000,000 in federal money available for building.

Instead of phasing out the program over six years, a spending limit of $800 per capita will be introduced.

The extra money will permit provinces which had used up their quotas of $480 per capita to undertake more construction

The second change was announced by Mr. Sharp who

Release Secret Report

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp and the provincial premiers agreed today to make public a series of secret projections of federal and provincial revenues and expenditures.

Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan said the decision was made during the morning's closed meeting of the joint tax committee, part of proceedings at the federal-provincial fiscal conference.

A federal official said the figures would likely be released Friday, perhaps at the end of the full conference.

Several premiers have said that the projections support their claims against Ottawa for a larger share of taxes.

The provinces had demanded publication of the secret projections.

Premiers Robarts of Ontario and Roblin of Manitoba took the lead as a meeting of the federal - provincial tax structure committee reconvened with federal Finance Minister Sharp in the chair.

Projections of revenue soures and expenditure needs of both levels of government have been formulated by government officials during the last two years to assist negotiation of future five-year tax - sharing agreements.

BOUND BY OATHS

An oath of secrecy binds all members of the high-level committee from releasing the estimates.

But Premier Robarts has disclosed during the current federal-provincial fiscal conference that the estimates show a surplus position for the federal government budget by 1971-72 and a deepening deficit for provincial and municipal governments.

Other premiers have said in a general way that the figures support their claims for a transfer of more tax resources away from Ottawa to the provinces.

Before today's meeting, Premiers Johnson of Quebec, Thatcher of Saskatchewan and Manning of Alberta all said they would support a call for release of the projections. Mr. Roblin said he would specifically ask for their publication.

Pit Lessard, caucus chairman and MP for Montreal St. Henri, said the election was unanimous and was made on the recommendation of the ailing Quebec leader, Privy Council President Favreau.

Plant Strike Ends

QUEBEC (CP) — An agreement ending the violence-marred three-months-old strike at the Lachute, Que., Dominion Ayers Ltd. wood processing plant was reached today.

Right On Target Say Reds

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China announced today that it successfully launched a guided missile carrying a nuclear warhead that exploded exactly on target.

It was the first indication that China had developed a nuclear device small enough to be delivered by missiles or rockets sophisticated enough to put them on target.

The explosion was the fourth touched off by the Chinese. Their first nuclear test blast was Oct. 16, 1964.

A New China News Agency broadcast monitored here said:

"The missile flew normally and the nuclear warhead accurately hit the target at the appointed distance, effecting a nuclear explosion."

DETAILS LACKING

It gave no details of the size of the missile, its range or the size of the explosion. It also gave no indication of where the test was conducted.

While China has exploded nuclear devices on at least three occasions earlier, this marked the first time any had been delivered by missile and signalled a significant achievement in weapons technology. The three previous bombs were believed exploded at a site deep in the interior of China.

The announcement came as President Johnson was in Bang Saen, Thailand, on his current Asian tour which is aimed at consolidating support for the U.S. policy in Viet Nam and containing Communist China.

"This successful test marks the fact that China's science, technology and defence capabilities are advancing at even greater speed under the brilliant illumination of Mao Tse-tung," the Peking broadcast said.

DEFENCE STRENGTHENED

"It is another new important achievement scored by the Chinese people in further strengthening their national defence and safeguarding the security of their country and the peace of the world."

Although the Chinese announcement contained few technical details, it was loaded with propaganda. It said development of Chinese nuclear weapons was entirely for defence, adding that possession of missiles and nuclear warheads

'NEVER COALITION; FIGHT TO END:' KY

SAIGON (UPI)—Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky heatedly rejected either negotiations or a coalition government with Comunists Wednesday.

"No! Never with Communists," he said at an airport press conference in Saigon. "We will fight to the end."

TORONTO LAWYER OPPOSES LEADERSHIP VOTE

Former Tory MP Runs Against Camp

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA — E. Arthur Maloney, 57-year-old former member of Parliament, announced today he would contest the Conservative presidency at the next party convention Nov. 13-16.

Maloney told a press conference here he would oppose Dalton Camp — the current president who has been campaigning for a "review" of John Diefenbaker's leadership of the party.

Maloney, a prominent Toronto lawyer, said he felt the national leader should not have to subject himself to periodic reviews of his stewardship "on the whim of the moment."

Maloney was elected to the Commons in the 1957 general election and re-elected in 1958. He ran but did not win his Parkdale (Toronto) seat in the 1962 election.

The Camp-Maloney battle is almost certain to revolve around the leadership question.

Camp has been stumping the country seeking support for his belief that Diefenbaker's leadership should be subjected to a test.

"The party is not the embodiment of the leader, but rather the other way round,"

MALONEY
... convention fight

Camp has told his audiences. "The leader is transient, only the party is permanent."

Maloney, on the other hand, feels "the leader should not be subjected to a day after day . . . or month after month review."

"Any Tory who is afraid to stand up and be counted shouldn't attend the national convention," Maloney told reporters.

Diefenbaker, who has put down several palace revolts during his leadership, faces probably his sternest test in the Camp-Maloney battle.

Observers here feel Diefenbaker's position will necessarily become weakened if Camp is re-elected.

Maloney felt the possibility of a leadership review at the national convention was "completely out of the question."

Asked whether he thought Diefenbaker should resign if a majority of Conservatives felt he should go, Maloney said "That is a question we'll have

Aldrin is at Cape Kennedy, where he is conducting weight and balance checks for the Gemini 12 mission. Aldrin, co-pilot on the November 9 flight, will team up with command pilot James Lovell in the planned four-day flight. Aldrin hopes to perform two, and possibly three, work sessions in space.

B.C. Gas Fields Get Major Boost

By AB KENT
Business Writer

Northeastern B.C. came a step closer to El Dorado this week with the granting of an export permit for 100 million cubic feet of natural gas per day.

The National Energy Board gave Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd., permission to pipe the gas over the international boundary at Sumas, B.C. There it will be taken by El Paso Natural Gas Co. for distribution in the western states.

El Paso already takes 300 million cubic feet of gas per day from Canada. It seeks an additional 200 million and aims ultimately for 900 million cubic feet per day.

★ ★ ★

What this means to producers is further development and markets for the established rich gas fields of northern British Columbia, which lie next to Alberta's vast new reserves of oil and gas.

B.C. manager of the Canadian Petroleum Association, Bert McGillivray points out that Pacific Petroleum alone planned to drill up to 80 new wells if the Westcoast permit were granted.

Pacific Pete signified its intention when hearings on the application were heard, and plans its development work in the Fort St. John and Fort Nelson areas.

Pan American also promised to step up its activity there, spending $18 million this winter for a total investment of $54 million in that corner of the province.

"I would think this would be general all along the line," Mr. McGillivray said, "now that the market is there at an increased price."

★ ★ ★

The export permit is "pretty impressive," he said, "and that's only the gas side of it.

"If they hit muskeg oil, that would be stupendous, and I think it is only a question of time," he added.

Since the established fields sit on the same subterranean formations, there is every reason to believe B.C. is due for some big new oil fields.

The new export price is 35.5 cents per thousand cubic feet, 13 cents more than the current price. Nov. 1 is the starting date for the permit, which expires next Oct. 31, or when 25 billion cubic feet have been exported, or a permanent licence issued, or licenee denied.

The Westcoast bid to export for El Paso an additional 200 million cubic feet per day besides the 100 million just granted would cover a 25-year period as the first phase of a contract with the U.S. gas distribution company.

As for money to finance new exploration programs, Mr. McGillivray said companies do feel the tight money pinch, but there is still tax money available in the U.S. and companies will put it where it will be most productive.

NIXON

Ex-naval officer C. Patrick Nixon, of Ottawa, is the new executive secretary of the Canada-Japan Trade Council.

The 48-year-old former B.C. resident retired from the RCN this year with a background of extensive overseas postings and travels dating from 1939 when he won his commission as a sub-lieutenant.

Born in Nova Scotia, the wartime destroyer commander grew up in B.C. and attended Victoria College.

Some 300 delegates are expected to attend the B.C. convention of Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy at Empress Hotel starting today and running through Saturday.

Among guest speakers will be Mines Minister Donald Brothers, at the offical opening of business Saturday morning; provincial archivist Willard Ireland at Saturday luncheon, and writer-broadcaster David Brock at dinner.

There will be technical sessions including presentations on Shell Oil's new off-shore drilling platform, mole tunnelling, training trends in mining, the Red Mountain molybdenum mine, raise boring and various geological and exploration papers.

Technical tours will include trips to Western Mines' Myra Creek operation, Ocean Cement quarry and a tour of the Victoria, Duncan, Maple Bay and Crofton areas to illustrate geological formations.

STANDARD OIL EARNINGS SET RECORD

NEW YORK (AP) — Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey recorded all-time high sales and earnings the first nine months this year, M. L. Haider, chairman, has reported.

Sales were $10,040,000,000, up 7.2 per cent from the $9,371,000,000 recorded through Sept. 30, 1965.

Earnings were $833,000,000, or $3.87 a share, up 8.3 per cent from $769,000,000 or $3.57 a share last year.

Ont. Group Demands Gas Guarantee

OTTAWA (CP) — A militant group of MPs and municipal officials from northwestern and Northern Ontario won a promise Wednesday that their natural gas needs will be met before any export permit is granted to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

The group, organized by Robert Andras (L—Port Arthur), met for about two hours with a cabinet group headed by Prime Minister Pearson.

The delegation objected to the recent decision allowing Trans-Canada to run its second pipeline throught the U.S. to Sarnia so it could handle export shipments as well as serve southern Ontario points.

NO GUARANTEE

They maintained that the promise by Trans-Canada to twin its existing Canadian line in 1970 offered no guarantee that Northern Ontario needs would be met in the interim.

One delegate at the closed meeting said figures given in evidence before the national energy board showed that 60 per cent of all gas entering Ontario in the present line was used in Northern and northwestern Ontario.

Finance Minister Sharp promised to check into the statement immediately and said Trans-Canada will not get an export licence unless the present and future needs of the north will be met first.

Appeal for Public Support Considered by 120 Miners

Cowichan Copper miners' union is considering a public appeal for more government interest in the plight of 120 out-of-work men.

The miners are innocent victims of a financial muddle which prompted Aetna Investments to suspend operations and give up management of the Sunro mine for Cowichan Copper Co. Ltd.

Kenneth Thompson, president of Local 1012, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, said he would like to see the public taking a greater interest in the miners and their families. They now are beginning to suffer hardships.

He said public concern might have some effect on the provincial labor department. It has the responsibility of securing back wages amounting to more than $40,000.

But the labor department is already doing what can be done within the terms of the Industrial Relations and Payment of Wages Acts.

Industrial relations board is meeting this week. One of the items on its agenda is the issuance of a certificate that may be filed in court to give judicial weight to an order for payment of wages.

SOCIAL ASSISTANCE

Meanwhile, 26 of the 120 jobless men are getting social assistance for their families.

The rest are on unemployment insurance, which pays a maximum $27 per week to single men, $36 to married men.

They are long overdue on grocery bills and, for most, the rent is past due. Mr. Thompson estimates 80 have big bills hanging over them.

About 25 are facing mortgage instalments overdue since work stopped 5½ weeks ago.

"So far merchants and landlords have been most co-operative. But they are getting quite worried about it now," Mr. Thompson said.

They are wondering how long they can carry so many people on their books in such a small centre of population.

Thirty men have left Jordan River and Sooke area to work at a variety of jobs elsewhere.

The majority of mine openings in B.C. are filled, the union president said.

He said they do not have enough money to travel to other prospects such as Western Mines at Buttle Lake or Britannia Beach on the mainland.

The union can find out where there are likely prospects. But it is unable to offer further assistance, Mr. Thompson said.

Soviet Woods Specialists On Island

Six Russian forestry specialists, headed by M. V. Kanevsky, chief of the forestry department's logging branch in the U.S.S.R., met with B.C. Forests Minister Ray Williston Tuesday.

Mr. Williston himself was just back from a week in Finland negotiating with pulp company interests there and he is expected to visit Russia next spring with Premier Bennett.

The Russians were to visit the Duncan-Cowichan and Alberni areas until Monday to see B.C. methods of wood production and then spend four days in Vancouver before continuing a cross-country tour.

They were being escorted Tuesday by Hilding Ekblad of the Sandwell and Company Ltd. consulting firm in Vancouver which recently sent engineers to Russia to examine their methods on behalf of B.C. forest companies.

MONTREAL FIRM

$5 Million Payment Ordered by Court

TORONTO (CP) — Societe Financiere pour le Commerce et l'Industrie Ltd., a Montreal-based private investment banking firm, was ordered Wednesday to pay $5,001,900 plus interest to Royal Securities Corp. Ltd. in an Ontario Supreme Court case involving a worthless cheque that led to the collapse of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. Ltd. in June, 1965.

Chief Justice G. A. Gale, in a 74-page written judgment, ordered a promissory note by Atlantic for $5,001,900, held by Royal, to be turned over to SFCI.

A promissory note is a senior secured note. Investment dealers estimate the eventual recovery of this class of security from Atlantic Acceptance, which is in receivership, will range between 70 and 95 per cent of face value.

The case arose when SFCI made a weekend loan of $5,000,000 to Atlantic Acceptance for $,1900 interest, with Royal Securities acting between the two parties.

Royal accepted an uncertified cheque for $5,001,900 from Atlantic Acceptance in its Toronto office, cancelled the promissory note, and ordered its Montreal office to pay the sum to SFCI hours before it was learned that Atlantic's cheque was not honored at the bank. Refusal to honor Atlantic's cheque led to the collapse of the finance company the same week.

THOUGHT CHEQUE GOOD

Chief Justice Gale said Royal's payment of $5,001,900 to SFCI was made in the mistaken belief by the company that it had received a valid cheque from Atlantic.

He said Royal was acting as agent for SFCI in the weekend loan deal.

"It must be taken that Royal Securities was given the authority to act in the usual and ordinary way in the particular trade," the chief justice said.

He said it was the practice in the trade, according to testimony by six experts in the money market, for dealers to accept uncertified cheques from corporate concerns and to deliver securities on receipt of the cheques. This practice was widespread among dealers in Montreal and Toronto, he said.

SFCI mush have known the practice of dealers accepting uncertified cheques in payment of loans and surrender of securities for the cheques, he said.

"It is a fact that since the fall of Atlantic Acceptance in June, 1965, the practice no longer prevails," Chief Justice Gale wrote. "That, in my mind, cannot be taken as an indication that it was an unreasonable practice to begin with."

Hudson's Bay Oil Earnings Jump

CALGARY (CP) — Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas Co. Ltd., has reported net earnings for the first nine months of 1966 of $12,159,000 or 66 cents a share, an increase of 12.4 per cent over the same period last year.

Earnings for the third quarter were $5,156,000 or 28 cents a share, up 27.2 per cent over the third quarter last year.

Crude oil and natural gas liquids production increased 10.2 per cent to 42,136 barrels a day and sales of natural gas increased 24.2 per cent to 157,400,000 cubic feet a day.

Castrol Takeover Bid Due

LONDON (Reuters) — Nearly £6,000,000 was added today to the market value of Castrol shares following disclosure by its chairman that a mystery bidder is about to make an offer for the British company — the world's biggest independent lubricating oil concern.

A Castrol spokesman said today that the name of the bidder—who would have to put up more than £40,000,000 to gain control of the company — is expected to be disclosed later.

In financial circles three possible bidders were suggested. They are Britain's Burmah Oil Company; the Gulf Oil Company of the United States and the American Texaco Company.

Spokesmen for all three companies declined to comment on the takeover report.

In the stock market the possibility that the mystery bidder is Burmah was reflected in a higher price being offered for their shares.

Some financial circles believe, however, that Gulf is the more likely purchaser, as ownership of Castrol would fit into their expansion program, which includes the building of a vast crude oil terminal in Ireland to serve its European markets.

Mr. Doug Lewis is not as well known in Victoria as Mr. Tanner, but you will be seeing more of him in the future.* He comes to Victoria Photo Supply Limited with a wide background in the photographic industry, having been store manager for Photolec Ltd. (Vancouver) for four years, and since then, Western Sales Representative for Bell and Howell and later for Agfa-Gevaert.

Mr. Lewis' long experience has convinced him that one of the most important aspects of the photographic business is fast, friendly, efficient service. He intends to maintain and, if possible, even to improve upon the high standards set by Victoria Photo Supply during the past 35 years.

Arthur Mayse

Our river was showing its bones when we left it on a bright day three weeks ago. The riffles that danced between pools were scarce ankle-deep, and the wading fisherman had no need to plot his course. He simply splashed through, and jogged on along the bleached freshet bars.

To the salmon of this year's autumn spawning run, however, low water meant a struggle that bruised and exhausted. All too often, the end was premature death in the shallows, with eggs or fertilizing milt unshed.

In a river mile of curves and straightaways and horseshoe bends, we would find a dozen or more such casualties. These were fish that had lost their bearings and run aground. Stranded — barred from their element — they became prey for the harpy seagulls, which came screaming to peck out their eyes.

From two to an extreme of about seven years is the Pacific salmons' life - span. Then the birth-river reclaims the mature fish; the gravel guards the eggs and the river takes the spent carcass as food for bear or bird, or the nymphal larvae of the streambed.

★

When we came to the river, the little two-year humpbacks of late August and earlier September had already won through to their spawning grounds.

We loafed our way downstream; and in the deep of a shaded pool a heavy fish rolled its back through the surface. We glimpsed blue-green with silver below, and knew the coho were heading in to complete their four-year cycle.

This early in their run, they were still, most of them, splendidly conditioned. The sea was only a day or an hour or two behind them. They had the speed and grace of river trout, but they wore the sea's bright livery, and their bodies were deep from rich feeding.

Some were coho 'jacks,' mature dwarfed fish of three pounds or thereabouts. But most were big: from eight pounds to twice that weight.

Faithful to the bad old Vancouver Island custom, the meat-hunters lost no opportunity to harry coho in fresh water. At the highway pool, they descended in swarms to pester them with legitimate lures, or to jig treble hook into their bellies. Tales circulated about valley dwellers who each fall dug a few dozen spawners into their gardens for spring fertilizer.

A pity, this. Perhaps one day when we have learned to treasure our natural resources, the salmon will make their pilgrimage free from human predation at least.

One autumn-tinted afternoon, we dropped down to fish for trout in the sea pool where fresh and salt mingle. If cutthroats had moved in that tide, we failed to stir them. But we did spot coho — a drove of them, crusing to and fro restlessly in a side-eddy.

We had knocked off casting and were sitting lazy in brown grass atop a cross-stream bank, when an arrowhead of spray darted up the riffle. The shining back behind it looked brown in full sunlight. A coho had launched out of the sea pool to navigate the shallow rapid above.

The fish made the first stage, rested briefly in a depression that didn't quite cover its dorsal fin, then arrowed on. This second dash fared less well. No holding-spot offered, and the coho veered in a threshing turn to drop down with the current into the pool.

On the next try, this fish or another did better. It rushed, paused, darted again, and with fins and tail beating as much air as water, battled its way to the top of the riffle. For a tense moment it hung there. Then in a final surge, the streamlined shape won through to the upstream reach.

For most of an afternoon, we watched the struggle repeated by a succession of coho. Each would endure it countless times before he or she came to the distant spawning beds.

A wonderful sight to see and remember . . . but I'm glad the rains have come to raise the river. The coho are still going up, and their journey will be easier.

LAST CALL FOR PIONEER MEDAL

This is the last call for pioneers.

There is a commemorative medal awaiting each B.C. resident who was born in Canada or living anywhere in Canada, prior to Jan. 1, 1892.

But the pioneer must make application for the honor. And the deadline for applications is Nov. 19.

Application forms may be obtained from the Greater Victoria Centennial Office, 14 Centennial Square. And they should be returned there. The office would like to have them by Nov. 10 — but will accept them until the 19th which is the deadline for submission to the provincial centennial committee.

It is not necessary for an applicant to have continuous residence since 1891 — but he must be living in B.C. now.

The medals are free and will be presented in suitable ceremony during 1967, Canada's centenary.

Mine May Use Pit for Wastes

Dumping to Stop Within 3 Years?

Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan today raised the possibility that Western Mines' controversial dumping of tailings into Butle Lake may be discontinued after three years.

He said a 10-acre "open-pit" operation that will begin the production stage soon could provide an underground disposal site for the tailings when it is finished.

But he refused to say that he will insist the mining company do this, pointing out it had the legal right to turn its entire 1,200-acre crown granted mining claims into an open pit operation if it wished.

However, he said the company has been anxious to cooperate in leaving as much of the area's surface undisturbed as possible and has confined its mining, milling and associated works to a 100-acre area.

He said the company intends to do its mining through tunnels except for a 10-acre area where the mineral lode comes so close to the surface that tunnelling is not practicable and "open pit" (digging from the surface) techniques will be used.

NOT SURPRISED

Mr. Kiernan said he was not surprised by the company's indication it would use open pit techniques in its annual report last week because his department was told about it last spring. He also pointed out it was mentioned at the legislative hearing on the company's plans.

The minister said there already are tailings heaped up ready to be dumped into the bottom of Buttle Lake as a result of exploratory and preliminary tunnelling and these will have to go into the lake when production begins.

He also said the tailings from the open pit—expected to be about 200 feet deep—will have to go into the lake but probably "in about three years" the pit mining will have become exhausted and the future tailings from tunnels then might be buried in the pit.

Mr. Kiernan said it was not possible to impound the tailings on the ground's surface without leaching action through run-off waters contaminating the surface of Buttle Lake—as has been pointed out by both government engineers and the B.C. Wildlife Federation.

TEN ACRES?

"My information is that the open pit will be confined to 10 acres," he said.

"There is no reason why (after the pit mining is completed) it may not be entirely practical to put the further tailings down into the pit and cover it over—then it would be subsurface and not subject to erosion."

Asked if he would use "moral suasion" on the company to use this method — rather than the lake dumping—when it became available, Mr. Kiernan would only recount the past cooperative attitude of the company and:

"It would seem quite reasonable that once the open pit operation is completed it would be reasonable to use this method of disposal rather than the lake."

He countered accusations by Opposition Leader Robert Strachan that the company deceitfully withheld its full intentions from the public and the government in order to obtain its permits to dispose of tailings and build a housing project within Strathcona Park.

UNDERGROUND

He pointed out the ore body was underground and no one could be sure of the ultimate developments until a mine was about half-way through its life.

"At the start of an operation where you are dealing with things that are not visible it is impossible to say you will do this, this and this" and no more, he said.

As a result, some of the details become clear as time and events progress.

He pointed out it has been known since 1917 that the site had "mineralization" but not until some diamond drilling was undertaken did the rough estimate of the quantity and grade become known.

Bank Case Declared Mis-Trial

New Hearing In Vancouver

The trial of three men charged in Victoria Assize Court with robbing a bank was today declared a mistrial.

Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan, of the British Columbia Supreme Court, ordered that a new trial be held in Vancouver because of a report of proceedings published in The Victoria Colonist.

He found it was prejudicial to the accused.

He said the report contained statements made while the jury was absent from the court. Such statements, when printed in a newspaper and read by the jury, could destroy the presumption of innocence of the accused.

"This damaging evidence has been published," the judge said, "and it is reasonable to conclude the jury could have read it and formed an opinion prejudicial to the men on trial."

Mr. Justice Ruttan said proceedings held in the absence of the jury are conducted so that the jurors may not be influenced by evidence which might be ruled inadmissible for one reason or another.

PAPER SCOLDED

"I thought it would be obvious to newspapers and reporters on a newspaper so esteemed and respected as The Daily Colonist that such evidence must not be reported.

"Jurors are warned not to pay attention to anything said about the trial outside the courtroom. But you are human and it is too much to expect that you would not read a newspaper report of a trial.

"There is no harm if evidence which has been given in open court is reported in newspapers.

After Mr. Justice Ruttan ruled that the Victoria proceedings were a mistrial, defence counsel H. A. D. Oliver of Vancouver asked that a new trial should be moved to Vancouver Assize Court.

He said he was oposed to a suggestion that the trial be held at Nanaimo Assizes.

NANAIMO OUT

"Nanaimo is too close to Victoria in point of time and distance," Mr. Oliver said, "and The Daily Colonist is widely read in that area.

Crown counsel E. George MacMinn assented to Mr. Oliver's proposal.

The 12-man Victoria jury was dismissed after a three-day hearing in Victoria Assize Court in which a number of crown witnesses gave evidence.

Three men — William Braumberger, Gordon Francis Duck and Harold Robinson Coullrer — were charged with robbing the Bank of Montreal at Fort and Richmond on the evening of Feb. 18 last. All pleaded not guilty.

The bank was robbed at about five minutes to six on a Friday when three men — two of them brandishing sawn-off rifles — entered the bank and took more than $18,000.

MASKED MEN

Witnesses said two of the men were masked in brown Balaclavas with holes cut for the eyes and nose. A third man, also wearing a Balaclava mask, stood by the door while one of them went behind the counter and scooped cash from the drawers into a brown paper bag.

The three men then escaped in a car.

Two Island Marinas To Create Largest Island Boat Haven

By TERRY IZZARD

A marina development plan which aims to establish the Saanich Peninsula as a centre of west coast small-boating was announced today by Van-Isle Marina.

The costly development will get under way at Sidney next month with purchase of neighboring Shoal Harbor Marina.

Although no purchase price has been announced, Van-Isle owner-operator Stephen Dickinson said more than $10,000 will be spent on renovations and building of new floats.

The take-over will give Van-Isle the largest single number of berths on Vancouver Island and probably on the entire west coast.

• • •

Combining the two marinas will provide immediately for 300 boat housings.

And with 600 feet of foreshore, another wharf will be built in the space between the two marinas.

This will boost the number of moorings to 350, plus a dozen transient berths.

The next largest marina on the Island is nearby Canoe Cove with space for 317 boats.

As part of the overall development, a beach area between the two merged marinas will be filled in to provide easy access.

Most of the Shoal Harbor floats will be renewed and a number of wharfs will be extended to connect the two.

Included in the Shoal Harbor marina is a boat repair shed and boat hoist, which will be sublet by Van-Isle.

• • •

A similar boat repair shop on the existing Van-Isle property is already sublet to Philbrook's.

The newly-acquired property also includes a house and store. Mr. Dickinson said the store will eventually be developed into a marina store selling both boating and fishing equipment as well as groceries.

The development reflects the huge increase in small-boat traffic over the past 10 years.

When Van-Isle was taken over by Mr. Dickinson in 1955, there were only 75 berths.

The 100 berths of Shoal Harbor Marina have been handled since the end of the war by Murray Stockall.

TWO GIRLS MISSING SINCE MONDAY

Saanich police have called for assistance in locating two 16-year-old girls, missing from their neighboring homes since Monday night.

Missing are Susanna Bartlett, 1714 Newton Garden Apartments, and Lynn Wilson, 1706 Newton Garden Apartments.

The Bartlett girl is described as five feet four inches tall, 115 pounds and dark hair. When last seen she was wearing a brown duffle coat, blue jeans and was carrying a large straw basket purse.

Police said Miss Bartlett arrived from New Zealand about five months ago and speaks with a pronounced accent.

The Wilson girl is described as five feet five inches tall, 112 pounds with dark hair. She was wearing a tan parka, blue slacks, a sweatshirt and was also carrying a straw basket purse.

Self-Righting Ships Being Tested in East

A 44-foot self-righting lifeboat, which could be used on Vancouver Island in the not-too-distant future, is presently being tested on the east coast.

The lifeboat, developed by and presently used by the U.S. coastguard, is so designed that should it capsize it will immediately right itself.

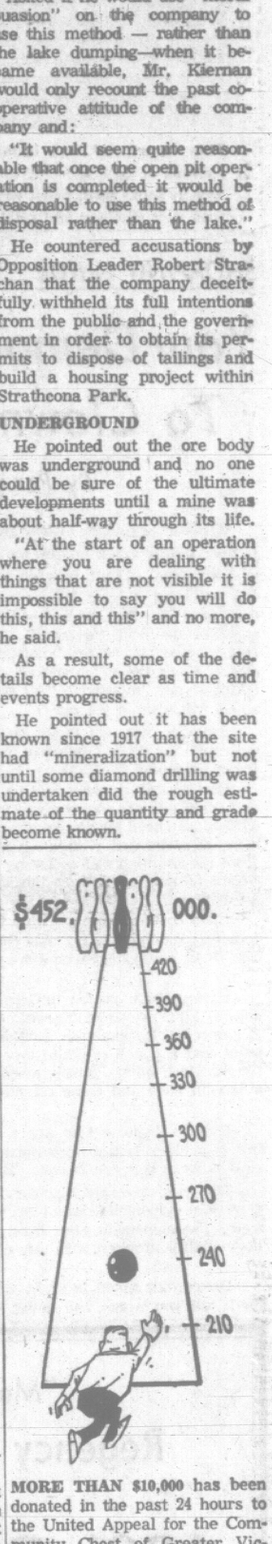

The boat carries a crew of three and is powered by 200-horsepower diesel engines.

Testing of the vessel marks another step forward in the department of transport's program to strengthen search and rescue capabilities of the Canadian coast guard.

Although no plans have yet been announced, there has been talk of building two more west coast lifeboat stations — one on northern Vancouver Island, the other in the Queen Charlottes.

If built, and if the U.S. vessel's tests prove satisfactory, it seems likely the self-righting crafts would be pressed into service here.

At present there are two lifeboats on the Island, at Tofino and Bamfield. The 40-foot wooden-hulled sister boats are about 16 years old.

MORE THAN $10,000 has been donated in the past 24 hours to the United Appeal for the Community Chest of Greater Victoria. This brings the total at noon today to $240,330 or 53.1 per cent of the total objective of $452,000. The appeal provides funds for a number of social service agencies which provide essential services to the community.

Target-Shooting Saanich Youth Draws $50 Fine

A youth who pleaded guilty to target shooting a .22 calibre rifle within Saanich boundaries was fined $50 today.

John David Mepham, 19, of 2783 Benson Place, admitted in court there were houses in the vicinity where police found him shooting Oct. 4, close to Telegraph Bay Road and Arbutus.

The fine represents the minimum under the Saanich bylaw prohibiting discharge of firearms within the municipality without special police permission.

False Fire Call To Docks Blamed On Alarm Fault

A false alarm sent city fire trucks racing to Ogden Point this morning.

A department spokesman said a mechanical fault not yet pinpointed had caused several such false calls in recent weeks.

Firemen are taking no chances and turn out in full force to all alarms in the area, he added.

Man in Custody After Bank Break-In Try

Oak Bay police rushed to a Bank of Montreal branch early today after neighbors telephoned alarms that someone was trying to break in.

Officers took a 38-year-old man with a history of mental illness into custody. He is being held for observation at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Only damage to the bank, on Oak Bay Avenue between Hampshire and Monterey, was scratches on a window. The incident occured shortly before 6 a.m.

TO PAY PROVINCES

Ottawa Needs $500 Million In New Taxes

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians face higher taxes to pay for more than $500,000,000 in increased federal contributions to education, equalization payments to provinces and its proposed program of a guaranteed $105-a-month income to the aged.

The education and equalization payments are being arranged at this week's federal-provincial conference on education and fiscal matters. The guaranteed income program, scheduled to go before Parliament soon, was announced last summer.

When Health Minister MacEachen announced the guaranteed income program for the aged last summer he estimated its cost would be above $200,000,000 a year.

Finance Minister Sharp indicated later that this would have to be met from increased taxes.

The increased contributions to education announced by Prime Minister Pearson before the federal - provincial conference opened are estimated to amount to about $137,400,000 for 1967-68.

PEOPLE MUST PAY

Mr. Pearson said in his statement:

"I feel bound to point out that the cost of this support for higher education must be carried by the taxpayers of Canada in one way or another—including the replacement of the revenue transferred."

At a press conference Wednesday Mr. Sharp, asked how the tax transfers to the provinces for higher education would be accounted for, said:

"I think we'll have to raise taxes for this purpose."

Added to these is a new equalization formula, outlined in September and confirmed at the conference Wednesday, that will cost the federal treasury about $138,000,000 in a year in increased payments to the provinces.

In other developments Wednesday the federal government amended its plans about phasing-out grants to technical and vocational training at the secondary school level and decided to limit a new tax - sharing agreement to two years.

Both steps helped to pacify provincial premiers.

MONEY AVAILABLE

Mr. Pearson told the premiers in the morning that during the phasing-out of capital grants in this field there will be about $548,000,000 in federal money available for building.

Instead of phasing out the program over six years, a spending limit of $800 per capita will be introduced.

The extra money will permit provinces which had used up their quotas of $480 per capita to undertake more construction.

The second change was announced by Mr. Sharp who stated that the federal government is willing to sign a two-year tax-sharing agreement instead of the five-year agreement Ottawa had proposed.

He agreed with several premiers that two-year contracts would allow both levels of government to receive, study and perhaps implement in 1969 recommendations of the Carter

Release Secret Reports

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp and the provincial premiers agreed today to make public a series of secret projections of federal and provincial revenues and expenditures.

Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan said the decision was made during the morning's closed meeting of the joint tax committee, part of proceedings at the federal-provincial fiscal conference.

A federal official said the figures would likely be released Friday, perhaps at the end of the full conference.

Several premiers have said that the projections support their claims against Ottawa for a larger share of taxes.

The provinces had demanded publication of the secret projections.

Premiers Robarts of Ontario and Roblin of Manitoba took the lead as a meeting of the federal - provincial tax structure committee reconvened with federal Finance Minister Sharp in the chair.

Projections of revenue soures and expenditure needs of both levels of government have been formulated by government officials during the last two years to assist negotiation of future five-year tax - sharing agreements.

BOUND BY OATHS

An oath of secrecy binds all members of the high-level committee from releasing the estimates.

But Premier Robarts has disclosed during the current federal-provincial fiscal conference that the estimates show a surplus position for the federal government budget by 1971-72 and a deepening deficit for provincial and municipal governments.

Other premiers have said in a general way that the figures support their claims for a transfer of more tax resources away from Ottawa to the provinces.

Before today's meeting, Premiers Johnson of Quebec, Thatcher of Saskatchewan and Manning of Alberta all said they would support a call for release of the projections. Mr. Roblin said he would specifically ask for their publication.

BULLETINS

Police Smash Hockey Lottery

TORONTO (CP)—Police say a city-wide hockey lottery ring has been smashed almost before it could get off the ground.

Eight persons have been charged and more than 30 others are facing charges of disposing of tickets.

Police say the organizers had printed 3,600 tickets for each of the Toronto Maple Leafs' 35 home games, one for each second of each game. Buyers were to be charged $1 a ticket and $1,500 a game was to be set aside for the playoffs, based on the scoring times for key goals.

If all tickets for the season had been sold the gross would have been $126,000 and the profit after playoffs, $73,500.

DETROIT (AP) — An assault and battery complaint has been sworn out against Karl Sweetan, former Toronto Argonaut and now quarterback of Detroit Lions.

The complaint, brought in justice court on suburban Sterling Township, was filed by Richard Vyt, a 33-year-old sheet-metal worker, who alleges Tweetan struck him in a fight in a bowling alley and bar on Wednesday night.

Viet Crusade

BERLIN (AP)—American evangelist Billy Graham announced today he plans to go to Viet Nam in the near future and "preach the Gospel" to American soldiers there.

And if he could get at them, he said, he would talk to the Viet Cong also. "I don't know if there is any Christian movement in the Viet Cong," Graham told a press conference at the first World Congress on Evangelism. "But it would certainly be a wonderful experience if I could reach them."

Bonner Will Bid For Cariboo Seat

MAJOR SPLIT in West German government is discussed by Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, left, with Deputy Chancellor Erich Mende in Bonn today after latter and three other ministers announced their resignations. Split came about in fight over budgetary dispute. (AP Wirephoto.)

New Crisis for Erhard As 4 Ministers Resign

BONN (Reuters) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government coalition broke apart today when the minority Free Democrats' four cabinet ministers resigned over a budgetary dispute, the party announced.

The coalition, an increasingly uneasy one, broke up a year after its formation, with Erhard's triumph in the 1965 general elections.

Erhard, under fire within his own Christian Democratic party for alleged weakness and indecisiveness, could theoretically carry on ruling with a minority government, since the West German constitution is designed to buttress the position of the party in power.

But his position would be one of extreme difficulty, political observers said.

There was no immediate statement from the Christian Democratic party or the chancellery on the intentions of the 69-year-old chancellor, who recently reaffirmed his intention to continue in the office he has held since he succeeded Konrad Adenauer.

The dispute with the Free Democrats was over ways of filling an estimated 4,000,000,000 marks ($1,080,000,000) deficit in next year's budget.

The Free Democrats want the gap filled by reducing subsidies and abolishing tax concessions, while the chancellor's Christian Democrats said they did not exclude tax increases if this was the only way to cover the deficit.

If Erhard does not try to rule with a minority Christian Democrat government — his party does not have an absolute majority in the Bundestag (lower house)—the main alternatives are a "grand coalition" with the oposition Social Democrats led by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt or a Social Democrat-Free Democrat coalition.

THREATENS TO RESIGN

Erhard has repeatedly said he would resign rather than head a grand coalition, which would give the Social Democrats their first taste of power after being constantly in opposition since the West German Parliament was created in 1949.

The four Free Democratic ministers in Erhard's coalition are Vice - Chancellor and Party Leader Erich Mende, who is also all - German affairs minister, Finance Minister Rolf Dahlgruen, Economic Co-operations Minister Walter Scheel and Housing Minister Ewald Bucher.

A communique after a meeting said the party's parliamentary wing had reached the conviction that under the present political circumstances a budgetary decision which would serve long-term stability could not be expected.

"For this reason the ministers belonging to the Free Democratic party have anounced their resignation."

Johnsons Relax At Thai Resort

BANGKOK (Reuters) — President Johnson flew to a seaside resort in Thailand today for a day's rest after the Manila summit talks and his whirlwind visit to U.S. troops in South Viet Nam.

Johnson, the first U.S. president to visit Thailand, and his wife flew from Manila where they spent the night as guests of President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines.

They quickly left by helicopter for the village of Bang Saen, where they will relax at Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn's waterfront guest house. Friday they fly to Bangkok for an official visit.

The president and Mrs. Johnson left their Manila hotel in the company of President Marcos and Mrs. Marcos and drove through cheering, flag - waving crowds along the main Roxas Avenue toward the Manila International Airport.

During his visit to Cam Ranh Bay, in South Viet Nam, Wednesday the president talked to the area and corps commanders who were assembled there for a regularly scheduled meeting with the over-all commander, Gen. William Westmoreland.

Johnson told his staff aboard the plane today that he talked to each officer about the situation in his own corps area and that he believed a two-minute report in person was more informative than a 3,000 - word cable.

Friday the president and Mrs. Johnson will be the guests of King Bhumibol Adulyadej and Queen Sirikit.

The president and Mrs. Johnson are due to remain in Bangkok until they leave Sunday for Kuala Lumpur, capital of Malaysia.

Thai defence forces have been put on full alert during President Johnson's stay and police are keeping a strict security watch on leftist elements.

B.C. Byelection Set for Nov. 28

Attorney - General Robert Bonner will seek re-election to the British Columbia Legislature in a byelection in Cariboo riding November 28.

The announcement at noon today by Provincial Secretary W. D. Black, said incumbent Socred MLA W. C. Speare would quit to make way for the contest.

The announcement came following a cabinet meeting.

Although Premier Bennett was still in Ottawa, the cabinet session was chaired by Provincial Secretary Black, minister responsible for the Elections Act.

Mr. Speare, 51-year-old hospital administrator consultant, stepped down to give Mr. Bonner his chance to overcome last month's general election defeat in Vancouver-Point Grey.

GOOD MAJORITY

Mr. Speare, who lives permanently at 6560 Rey Street in Central Saanich, has held the Cariboo seat since 1957. He won it by a majority of 1,192 in a byelection caused by the death of Ralph Chetwynd, one of the key cabinet ministers in Premier Bennett's early administrations.

The Socreds have held the seat comfortably since they came to power in 1952. Mr. Chetwynd won it with a vote of 3,017 and became the railways, trade and industry minister. He extended the Pacific Great Eastern Railway which is the lifeline of the Cariboo ranching and logging country.

However, despite addition of some pro-Socred areas to the riding through redistribution, Mr. Speare had by far the toughest battle of his political career last summer.

This was largely a result of underground issues involving personal matters and his long residence outside of the riding.

His support has risen undramatically through 2,294, 3,091, 3,015 and 3,830 votes in the election campaigns he has fought over the years. But the most consistent runner-up, the CCF-NDP, jumped from 1,482 votes in 1963 to 2,539 votes this year when it was represented by Rev. Hartley D. Dent.

SPEARE
. . . to give up seat

Mr. Speare was one of the Socred's most effective backbenchers but exhibited some independent traits which outsiders blamed for Premier Bennett repeatedly passing him over when appointing ministers.

However, he was popular with the caucus and last year was made deputy-speaker, which gave him an additional $2,500 sessional allowance on top of his $8,000 remuneration as an MLA.

Mr. Speare is believed able to take the financial loss of resigning his seat more easily than most backbenchers because, besides his comfortable consulting business income, he receives a lifetime disability pension. He lost an arm during the war when he was a captain in the Canadian Armored Corps.

But there was immediate speculation that he might receive a government appointment next year to soften the

Right on Target, Reds Tell World

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China announced today that it successfully launched a guided missile carrying a nuclear warhead that exploded exactly on target.

It was the first indication that China had developed a nuclear device small enough to be delivered by missiles or rockets sophisticated enough to put them on target.

The explosion was the fourth touched off by the Chinese. Their first nuclear test blast was Oct. 16, 1964.

A New China News Agency broadcast monitored here said:

"The missile flew normally and the nuclear warhead accurately hit the target at the appointed distance, effecting a nuclear explosion."

It gave no details of the size of the missile, its range or the size of the explosion. It also gave no indication of where the test was conducted.

While China has exploded nuclear devices on at least three occasions earlier, this marked the first time any had been delivered by missile and signalled a significant achievement in weapons technology. The three previous bombs were believed exploded at a site deep in the interior of China.

The announcement came as President Johnson was in Bang Saen, Thailand, on his current Asian tour which is aimed at consolidating support for the U.S. policy in Viet Nam and containing Communist China.

"This successful test marks the fact that China's science, technology and defence capabilities are advancing at even greater speed under the brilliant illumination of Mao Tse-tung," the Peking broadcast said.

DEFENCE STRENGTHENED

"It is another new important achievement scored by the Chinese people in further strengthening their national defence and safeguarding the security of their country and the peace of the world."

Although the Chinese announcement contained few technical details, it was loaded with propaganda. It said development of Chinese nuclear weapons was entirely for defence, adding that possession of missiles and nuclear warheads

OPPOSES LEADERSHIP VOTE

Ex-Tory MP to Run Against Camp

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA — E. Arthur Maloney, 57-year-old former member of Parliament, announced today he would contest the Conservative presidency at the next party convention Nov. 13-16.

Maloney told a press conference here he would oppose Dalton Camp — the current president who has been campaigning for a "review" of John Diefenbaker's leadership of the party.

Maloney, a prominent Toronto lawyer, said he felt the national leader should not have to subject himself to periodic reviews of his stewardship "on the whim of the moment."

Maloney was elected to the Commons in the 1957 general election and re-elected in 1958. He ran but did not win his Parkdale (Toronto) seat in the 1962 election.

The Camp-Maloney battle is almost certain to revolve around the leadership question.

Camp has been stumping the country seeking support for his belief that Diefenbaker's leadership should be subjected to a test.

"The party is not the embodiment of the leader, but rather the other way round," Camp has told his audiences. "The leader is transient, only the party is permanent."

Maloney, on the other hand, feels "the leader should not be subjected to a day after day . . . or month after month review."

"Any Tory who is afraid to stand up and be counted shouldn't attend the national convention," Maloney told reporters.

Diefenbaker, who has put down several palace revolts during his leadership, faces probably his sternest test in the Camp-Maloney battle.

Observers here feel Diefenbaker's position will necessarily become weakened if Camp is re-elected.

Maloney felt the possibility of a leadership review at the national convention was "completely out of the question."

Asked whether he thought Diefenbaker should resign if a majority of Conservatives felt he should go, Maloney said "That is a question we'll have

'NEVER COALITION; FIGHT TO END:' KY

SAIGON (UPI)—Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky heatedly rejected either negotiations or a coalition government with Comunists Wednesday.

"No! Never with Communists," he said at an airport press conference in Saigon. "We will fight to the end."

AUSSIE BROTHERS ASK FOR LBJ FORGIVENESS

MELBOURNE (UPI)—Two Australian brothers who admitted throwing red and green paint on President Johnson's car during his visit here last Friday have written him a letter of apology and asked his forgiveness, their lawyer said today.

Frank Galbally, the attorney representing 21-year-old John Langley, 21, and his 18-year-old brother David, told a police magistrate they sent the letter Monday.

Galbally said the brothers "felt America shouldn't be taking part in the Viet Nam war and opposed conscription of Australian national servicemen."

More Troops For Viet War

SAIGON (Reuters) — United States forces in South Viet Nam reached a strength of 336,000 men last week, an increase of 5,000 compared with the previous week, U.S. military headquarters announced today.

The figure does not include the 40,000 to 70,000 sailors serving with the U.S. 7th Fleet off Viet Nam.

Meanwhile, American estimates of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces in the country dropped by 5,000 during the period to 279,000.

Canada-Born Priest Slain In Africa

MASERU, Lesotho (Reuters) — A gang of six Negroes killed a 60-year-old Canadian Roman Catholic priest to steal 141 rand ($195) from his mission in this southern Africa country, a court was told Tuesday.

Four appeared at a preliminary hearing charged with the murder of Rev. Almazal Menard, a French-speaking Canadian, July 1.

An accomplice who gave evidence for the prosecution said he and five others went to St. Peter's Mission at Tsoeneng, 30 miles south of Maseru, to steal money on the suggestion of one of the accused who worked there.

He told the court they carried clubs, axes, a sword and a knife.

They broke in through a window and went to the bedroom where the priest was sleeping. They covered his head with a cloth, struck him with their weapons and pulled him into the study, where he died.

In Montreal, a spokesman for the father's order, les Missionaires Oblat de Marie Immaculee, said Father Menard was born in Cedars, Que., just west of Montreal. He was ordained in 1934 and left for Basutoland in 1935, where he remained until his death.

Pressure for a short - term agreement was partly the result of a federal-provincial tax structure committee set up two years ago which some premiers say has found that by the end of the decade the federal government will find itself in a surplus financial position.

At the same time the provinces would still be in a deficit position, it was argued.

KEEPS FINDINGS SECRET

Mr. Sharp refused Wednesday to make public the findings of the committee.

To pay for increased education costs, Ottawa is to turn over an additional four points of personal income tax and one point of corporation taxes.

The changes in the plans for technical and vocational grants at the secondary school level brought varying comments from premiers.

New Brunswick's Louis Robichaud said he was "very, very happy" while W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said his province will get nothing.

In other developments Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson agreed to the federal decision to take over all financing of adult retraining programs, providing there is a two-year introductory period.

Earlier, Mr. Johnson had charged that the federal proposals, enunciated by Mr. Pearson and Manpower Minister Marchand, were an attempt to enter the provincial education field through the back door.

Mr. Marchand argued Tuesday at the conference that adult retraining was different from education in that the federal government has responsibility for employment and economic development.

economic cost of resigning his seat — possibly replacing Col. Donald McGuggan as chairman of the Liquor Control Board. The administrator's post in the 240-bed mental health hospital the government is building on Lee Avenue here has also been mentioned.

'NATURAL' ARENA

There are a number of facets to the choice which point to Cariboo as a "natural" battleground for the Socreds.

The two men — Speare and Bonner have some striking characteristics in common with the late Ralph Chetwynd.

They are considered competent and unassuming, favored with good (even dashing) looks.

They are well-spoken and highly educated with American links (schools in the cases of Speare and Chetwynd, trade predilictions in Mr. Bonners' case) who have served and been wounded as front-line officers in Canada's armies.

Mr. Bonner and Mr. Chetwynd claimed membership in the Anglican Church while Mr. Speare is United Church.

All this can't but help Mr. Bonner in the Cariboo country which sent an above-average number of men overseas and has a significant number of rugged American immigrants among its ranchers — especially in a campaign straddling Remembrance Day.

Finally, Mr. Speare still was re-elected only a month ago as a non-resident representative and this should dispose of the fears that "carpetbagger" tag would hurt Mr. Bonner much.

"is a great encouragement to the Vietnamese people."

The United States and the Soviet Union "are now stepping up their collaboration and contriving to strike a bargain on the question of so-called prevention of nuclear proliferation so as to maintain the nuclear monopoly," the broadcast said.

"China's purpose in developing nulear weapons is to oppose the nuclear monopoly and nuclear blackmail by the United States with the Soviet Union acting in collusion."

Simultaneously with the announcement, Peking swore it would use its new power sparingly. It declared:

"We solemnly declare once again that at no time and in no circumstances will China be the first to use nuclear weapons.

"As in the past, the Chinese people and government will continue to carry on an unswerving struggle, together with all the other peace-loving people and countries of the world, for the noble aim of completely prohibiting and thoroughly destroying the nuclear weapons."

DAY OF MOURNING IN BRITAIN

10,000 at Rites for Aberfan Victims

ABERFAN, Wales (CP) — Eighty-one child victims of the Aberfan disaster were buried in a mass funeral today at a bleak mountainside cemetery, half a mile from the spot where their school was crushed in a slag-heap avalanche last Friday.

Ten thousand people gathered in the burial ground and on the steep green hillside around, singing sombre Welsh hymns under overcast skies and in bitter cold.

Weeping parents and relatives stood facing a trench grave 280 feet long, in which the tiny coffins were laid side by side.

All morning, hearses carried the coffins up a steep winding road to the hillside cemetery.

A procession including Minister of State George Thomas, representing Prime Minister Wilson, followed the hearses up the hill.

SERVICE WAS SHORT

A service of only 13 minutes was conducted by the Anglican Bishop of Llandaff, Rt. Rev. Glyn Simon; the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Cardiff, Most Rev. John Murphy, and a Congregational minister, Rev. Stanley Lloyd, who has lived in Aberfan for 22 years.

Beyond the grave, wreaths had been formed in a giant cross, 130 feet by 40 feet.

One wreath came from "the City of San Remo."

Another was from Royal Marines serving in Aden.

Others came from France and New Zealand.

Thousands of other bouquets were placed gently around the two trenches.

One white coffin had a silver panel engraved simply:

"Julie Price, aged eight years."

All shops, pubs and restaurants were closed for the day in the nearby town of Merthyr. In Aberfan itself, curtains were drawn in every window of the village—a traditional Welsh gesture of mourning.

MINERS MOURN

Thousands of miners stayed away from work. Others throughout north Wales stopped work in the afternoon as a mark of respect.

Down in the valley below Aberfan, the Merthyr Vale coal mine remained silent. The mine, which provided the fatal slag heap, has not worked since the disaster last Friday with a feared 200 dead.

The shivering crowds in and around the churchyard first sang the hymn "Loving Shepherd of the Sheep."

After prayers, the huge gathering then sang the hymn "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" in both English and Welsh.

As the service took place, clearing work stopped for the first time since Friday on the mass of black sludge that crushed the school and 17 houses.

After the singing ended, the local minister, Mr. Lloyd, uttered the last sombre words: "Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust."

Parents took one last look into the deep trench, then turned and filed silently down the hill.

Throughout Britain, flags flew at half staff in national mourning.

Aberfan was cordoned off for the funeral and all traffic stopped.

Funerals of other victims have been arranged privately.

The Queen will visit the disaster scene Saturday and later meet survivors in a hospital at Pontypridd.

Four of the 145 known dead still are unidentified.

A disaster relief fund has topped £71,000 ($213,000), with donations from the Queen and other members of the Royal Family heading the list.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Cloudy skies and a few showers persisted overnight in southwestern B.C. well behind a disturbance which passed through the area Wednesday. Temperature at Vancouver airport was a mild 46 Wednesday night. Meantime, in the interior skies cleared behind the disturbance and Smithers dropped to 13 degrees under the clear skies. Skies should clear over the southwestern district today. Another Pacific disturbance, however, will spread rain to the north coast this afternoon and to the south coast tonight. Showers will move eastward across the province Friday with the disturbance. Showers of mixed rain and snow are expected for the northern interior.
